2 suspected cases of encephalitis at Alexian center

by WANDALYN RICE

Two men were hospitalized Wednesday with suspected cases of encephalitis at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

A 36-year-old Schaumburg resident was reported in serious condition in the hospital's intensive care unit.

A 29-year-old from south-suburban Bolingbrook was listed in good condition and may be discharged within the next few days.

Hospital officials, who did not identify the men, said further tests are needed to confirm the diagnosis of encephalitis.

Hospital officials said they do not know where the Schaumburg man contracted the disease. Most victims of the disease in Cook County have been residents of the southern suburbs.

OFFICIALS OF the Illinois Dept. of Public Health said the two men's names were among 17 added Wednesday to the list of suspected or confirmed encephalitis cases. Ten of the new cases are in Cook County, but only one of them has been confirmed. The newly confirmed case is in Harvey. Other new cases were reported in Berwyn, Oak Lawn, Blue Island and Chicago.

The total number of cases reported statewide in the current outbreak is 107, with 73 in Cook County. A total of 21 cases, 10 in Cook County, has been confirmed. Blood tests running 10 days apart are required to confirm the diagnosis of encephalitis.

In other developments in the epidemic, a team of seven specialists from the Center for Disease Control in Fort Collins, Colo., arrived in Chicago Wednesday to help state health officials look for the source of the disease.

The team will collect and classify birds and mosquitoes in an attempt to locate the disease source. Encephalitis is transmitted from birds to human beings through mosquito bites.

Dr. Mark Lepper, head of a state task force on the disease, said five areas in the state have been identified as centers of the disease.

The areas are:

- Bolingbrook, Park Forest South and the southern end of Will County.
- Peoria and Tazewell counties.
- Madison and St. Clair counties.
- Champaign and Macon counties.
- Wayne, Richland, Jefferson and Clay counties.

County mosquito abatement districts have stepped up their anti-mosquito programs. Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadws have scheduled additonal mosquito-sprayung programs.

Symptoms of the disease include headache, high fever and mental confusion. Most victims recover spontaneously, but in serious cases the disease can result in coma, brain damage and death.

Grant game becoming art in village

by KURT BAER

A news analysis

Arlington Heights is learning the game of "grantsmanship" the hard way — from the inside out.

In the last two months, the village has collected $1.25 million in state and federal funds for two large local projects — purchase of the Hill-Behan Lumber Co. property, Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway, and the acquisition of 113 acres for Lake Arlington.

The $1.25 million nearly equals one-half of what the village collects each year from its property taxpayers.

Together, the grants are the largest allocation of state and federal special project money ever given to Arlington Heights. Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said they are the result of a new sophistication among village administrators in making grant applications.

"We have (grant) 'consultants on our doorstep every day — people who want to get in on the action," says Hanson. "And it's not that we have anything against consultants. But they have to get the basic information from me, or the village engineer, so we might as well take the time to do it ourselves."

A KEY MAN IN Hanson's determination to "do it ourselves," is James J. Holzwart, a man hired 10 months ago to specialize in state and federal grant applications.

Although the $750,000 grant application to buy the Hill-Behan property predated Holzwart's hiring by four years, the $499,790 grant from the Illinois Dept. of Conservation for Lake Arlington was steered through bureaucratic waters by the 27-year-old administrator.

"The open space (Lake Arlington) grant was particularly satisfying, because there was competition for that money from a lot of communities," Holzwart said. "There are some state and federal grants to which you are basically just entitled to, while others you really have to work for."

The Illinois Dept. of Conservation awarded $5 million in open space grants to 58 different communities last Friday. The maximum payment to any single town was $500,000.

"Arlington Heights and Glenview (which also got a $500,000 grant) received one-fifth of the total state appropriation, and that's kind of amazing," Holzwart said.

HANSON SAID efforts already are underway to acquire the 113 acres east of Windsor Drive and south of the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way for Lake Arlington. Guidelines for buying the Hill-Behan property should be released soon, he said.

Arlington Heights has not always been so fortunate with its grant applications.

In 1973, the village withdrew its application for a $70,000 federal planning grant at the urging of former Assistant Village Mgr. Darryl Kenning.

Dist. 25 teachers OK new contract

Teachers in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 voted Wednesday to accept a contract for the 1975-76 school year.

The new contract calls for raises in base salaries of 5.7 to 6.5 per cent, in addition to the annual raises of 4 to 6 per cent given to teachers with an additional year of experience. James Modec, president of the Arlington Teachers Assn., said 74 per cent of the teachers voted to accept the contract.

Teachers and board members have been negotiating a new contract since April. The agreement must now be approved by the Dist. 25 Board of Education.

THE BASE SALARY for beginning teachers will be increased 5.7 per cent from $8,800 to $9,300. The base salary for teachers who have been granted tenure in the district will be increased 6.1 per cent to $9,550, and teachers who are at the 10th step in the salary schedule will receive a 6.5 per cent increase on a base salary of $9,800.

The new contract also includes:

- A plan for improved health insurance. Modec said the Dist. 25 administration is working now on the details of the plan and is consulting with several health insurance companies.
- A revision in the teachers' grievance procedure which will give teachers more time to file a grievance, and will give the superintendent more time to settle the matter before it is taken to the board of education.
- A new system for evaluating teacher performance. Teachers have been rated on a checklist system of about 20 items. Teachers have been dissatisfied with the plan and formed a committee last September to develop a new system. Teachers now will meet individually with principals to set up goals for the school year and will be evaluated on the basis of these goals.

A single-engine Piper Comanche plane crashed in a soybean field in Wheeling Township Wednesday shortly after takeoff from Palwaukee Airport, killing both persons aboard.

Killed in the crash were Eugene McDaniel, 11010 W. Grand Ave., Melrose Park, and Irving J. Medlinger, Marengo. The county coroner's office said it had not determined which victim was the pilot.

Jack Harrington, an investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board, said the cause of the crash had not been determined. A witness to the crash said the four-passenger private plane made what appeared to be a normal takeoff at 2:49 p.m., turned left and then nosed up and crashed in the field at 1114 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling Township, Harrington said.

Harrington said the plane made no contact with the Palwaukee tower before the crash, but investigators believe the plane's engine stalled. Weather conditions were apparently not a factor in the crash, officials indicated.

The witness, whose helicopter was on an instructional flight at the time, landed next to the downed plane, and the pilot dragged one of the victims about 10 feet from the plane, County Sheriff's police said. Shortly after the victim was removed from the wreckage, the smoldering plane burst in flames, officials said.

OFFICIALS AT THE scene said both men apparently were killed instantly in the crash. One man was burned beyond recognition, and the other was mutilated severely, officials said.

Investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration, the state police, the coroner's office and the county Sheriff's office were on the scene for nearly three hours before the bodies were removed.

Harrington said he did not know the plane's destination, but an official at Palwaukee said the plane was not based at the airport and had only landed a short time before.

The plane had taken off from Dacy Airport in Harvard, Ill., about 40 miles northwest of Wheeling, officials there said. A Dacy airport spokesman said the plane took off from Dacy about 1 p.m. for Palwaukee on an apparent business trip. He added the plane probably was returning to Dacy when it crashed.

The spokesman said McDaniel and Medlinger were friends, and McDaniel was a flying instructor.

Wheeling Fire Dept. trucks were among the first rescue units on the scene and extinguished the fire. Paramedics also were on the scene but left shortly after the victims were pronounced dead.

TWO PRIESTS FROM nearby St. Joseph the Worker Church, Wheeling, arrived at the site about an hour after the crash. Father Donald Simpson said he and Father Thomas Moran administered last rites to the victims.

Chicago man, 18, drowns in lake

A Chicago man, whom companions identified as Jon Hoeschen, 18, drowned Wednesday afternoon while swimming with friends in a gravel pit north of Wheeling in unincorporated Lake County. Vernon Township firefighters, who recovered the body after a three-hour search, said the drowning was the second there in the last two weeks. An Elmwood Park woman, Hilda Vargas, 18, drowned Aug. 24, while trying to swim to an island, officials said. Bill Kissane, 18, of 5835 Higgins Rd., and George Kevorkian, 17, of 6228 Roscoe, both of Chicago, said Hoeschen drowned after falling off an inflatable raft. They described him as "not that good a swimmer." The three and two other friends came to the lake early in the afternoon, and Hoeschen went off by himself to take his raft across the lake, they said. Kissane said he and Kevorkian were swimming several hundred yards away when Hoeschen, "started yelling for help, and we thought he was goofing around at first." His friends then went to find help, alerting Vernn Township firefighters who were training in the area. Chief Ted Tarr, Vernon fire chief said divers from Grayslake, Lake Zurich, Libertyville and Countryside fire departments joined his department in the search.

Football fans lose

For a football enthusiast, ther's nothing like settling into an easy chair in front of the television, with a beer in hand. But football fans on the Buffalo Grove Village Board will have to lug their TV sets to board meetings if they want to watch Monday night games. Once again, as in previous years, football resulted in a debate of whether to move the Monday night board meetings to Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday nights. Village Pres. Edward A. Fabish broke a tie vote on a suggestion by Trustee Thomas Mahoney to start the Sept. 15 meeting earlier so he might watch the football game. Some trustees indicated an earlier meeting time might pose a hardship, so Fabish voted against the proposal. The decision wasn't an easy one for Fabish, a Chicago Bears fan. He, too, entertained the idea of sitting at the 40-yard-line, 15 rows east, to watch the Bears . . . on a Monday night. "I've been a ticket holder since '46 . . . that's why I have such good seats," Fabish said. "I don't think I'll have any trouble getting rid of them," he said with a sigh. Fabish said some of that game may be salvaged, however, because he asked Village Mgr. Daniel T. Larson for a light agenda that night.

Alarm saves woman's life

The panic alarm in a new senior citizens apartment complex, the first such emergency system, in Elk Grove Village, was credited by fire officials Wednesday with saving the life of an 85-year-old woman who suffered a heart attack. Elita Behrmann, Cheekwood Court, suffered the attack Tuesday afternoon. The elderly woman was able to trip a panic alarm system in the apartment which alerted the village fire department to the emergency. Fire Lt. Herman Marguard said the time saved by simply pulling the alarm, rather than dialing the fire department, was significant. "The first few moments after a person has a heart attack is critical, and the fact the department received immediate notice of the emergency probably saved her life," he said. Once the alarm was sounded, fire department paramedics were able to give the woman emergency aid and transport her to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village, where she is in stable condition and improving.

Homes face sewer fees

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Federal regulations soon will force the Metropolitan Sanitary District to bill homeowners for sewer service.

The sewer bills, paid on a regular basis like other utility charges, would be in additon to the sanitary district's property-tax levy.

District officials are studying federal regulations that require user charges for sewers and soon may hire a consultant for $300,000 to design a collection system for the new charges.

One result of the user-charge system, the officials say, will be to shift a greater percentage of the sanitary district's sewage-treatment costs from business and industry to homeowners.

THE SANITARY district has been fighting the user-charge system in Congress ever since it was first proposed. And while district officials still hope the requirement will be softened by future congressional action, they are now being forced to weigh the system against the threatened loss of millions of dollars in federal grant money.

At a meeting Tuesday, the sanitary district trustees learned if they don't begin the user-charge system soon they will have to pass up as much as $237.3 million in federal grants.

The federal government has threatened to withhold 20 per cent of every sewer grant it awards in Cook County until the district adopts a user-charge system.

Locally, the 20 per cent withholding applies to the $136.5 million grant that would pay three-fourths of the cost of the O'Hare water reclamation plant in Des Plaines.

THE DISTRICT must build the O'Hare plant and upgrade other treatment facilities to meet various federal clean water requirements.

A decision on hiring the consultant may be made at today's sanitary district board meeting.

The federal user-charge system is designed to correct the current system of paying sewage charges on the basis of property value. Sanitary district officials said one result of the user charge system will be to shift a higher percentage of the cost to homeowners.

Under the current system residential property with a market value below $20,000 has been almost entirely subsidized by industry for its sewer service, sanitary district studies show.

WHILE CORRECTING the inequities in the present system is a desirable goal, the sanitary district argues the federal system fails in practical application.

Installing meters on every home to measure exactly how much water is going into a sewer is such an expensive proposition that it would cancel any profit from the user charges, they say.

Also, basing sewer-use charges on the water meter readings penalizes the homeowner who waters his lawn frequently or uses water in other ways that keep it from entering the sanitary sewer system.

The use of meters also doesn't tell the strength of the sewage. Obviously a family with a garbage disposal and a frequently used washing machine puts more pollutants in the sanitary sewer than a family that doesn't have those appliances.

Two other facts about the user system may also cause problems:

- Schools, park districts, churches, municipal buildings and others that are exempt from property tax would be required to pay a user charge for sewer use.
- The overhead cost of creating a user system can mean only a slight drop in real estate taxes once the user fee is started.

Residents of Hinsdale which recently began a user-charge system found that despite their $12 monthly user fee, real estate taxes to the local sanitary district didn't drop at all.

Continued property taxes will also be necessary to pay for other sanitary district operations such as reservoirs and stream maintenance, storm sewer systems, services to undeveloped property, paying off old bond issues and operating the locks on the Chicago River.

Even industry, which might think the user charge will mean reduced tax bills, won't benefit much from the new system. Another federal program, also being required by the federal government in the near future, will require each industry to pay a share of the cost of building each new treatment plant in the district. The program, called "Industrial Cost Recovery" would refund part of the construction cost of the plant to the sanitary district and to the federal government.

THE GARAGE SALE VS. THE FREE ICE CREAM CONE

"I'm an all-American garage sale with something different. I'm at First Federal Savings of Schaumburg."

"I'm a good, old-fashioned free Bresler's* ice cream cone. With something different. Eight nifty flavors. Your basic vanilla, chocolate and strawberry. AND butter pecan, apple slices and spices, rainbow sherbet, chocolate mint chip and New York Cherry, the color of New York City's ledger sheets."

"I've got a lot more going for me than eight nifty ice cream flavors. I'm set up with 62 super premiums on sale cheap. All you have to do is deposit $100 in any First Federal Savings account. Why, I'll have all kinds of things. Silverware. Glassware. Tennis rackets and balls and bags. Electrical appliances. Even golf clubs and equipment. Think of that."

"I'll last a long time, you know. You can get me for a whole month. Best of all, I'm free for the asking. And just remember, you can't eat a garage sale."

"Such a sale you've never seen. And at a financial institution. Just remember, you can't play golf with an ice cream cone."

"Come in and get carried away. Grab a free ice cream and browse in the best tradition of the All-American garage sale.* At First Federal of Schaumburg."

*Garage sale items are available on a first come basis only. Sale will be held in our lobby area continuing until items are gone. To qualify to make a purchase, you must deposit $100 for each item desired. For example: you want 4 different items, deposit $400 and then you've qualified.

Vernon Township firefighters, who recovered the body after a three-hour search, said the drowning was the second there in the last two weeks. An Elmwood Park woman, Hilda Vargas, 18, drowned Aug. 24, while trying to swim to an island, officials said. Bill Kissane, 18, of 5835 Higgins Rd., and George Kevorkian, 17, of 6228 Roscoe, both of Chicago, said Hoeschen drowned after falling off an inflatable raft. They described him as "not that good a swimmer." The three and two other friends came to the lake early in the afternoon, and Hoeschen went off by himself to take his raft across the lake, they said. Kissane said he and Kevorkian were swimming several hundred yards away when Hoeschen, "started yelling for help, and we thought he was goofing around at first." His friends then went to find help, alerting Vernn Township firefighters who were training in the area. Chief Ted Tarr, Vernon fire chief said divers from Grayslake, Lake Zurich, Libertyville and Countryside fire departments joined his department in the search.

Football fans lose

For a football enthusiast, ther's nothing like settling into an easy chair in front of the television, with a beer in hand. But football fans on the Buffalo Grove Village Board will have to lug their TV sets to board meetings if they want to watch Monday night games. Once again, as in previous years, football resulted in a debate of whether to move the Monday night board meetings to Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday nights. Village Pres. Edward A. Fabish broke a tie vote on a suggestion by Trustee Thomas Mahoney to start the Sept. 15 meeting earlier so he might watch the football game. Some trustees indicated an earlier meeting time might pose a hardship, so Fabish voted against the proposal. The decision wasn't an easy one for Fabish, a Chicago Bears fan. He, too, entertained the idea of sitting at the 40-yard-line, 15 rows east, to watch the Bears . . . on a Monday night. "I've been a ticket holder since '46 . . . that's why I have such good seats," Fabish said. "I don't think I'll have any trouble getting rid of them," he said with a sigh. Fabish said some of that game may be salvaged, however, because he asked Village Mgr. Daniel T. Larson for a light agenda that night.

Alarm saves woman's life

The panic alarm in a new senior citizens apartment complex, the first such emergency system, in Elk Grove Village, was credited by fire officials Wednesday with saving the life of an 85-year-old woman who suffered a heart attack. Elita Behrmann, Cheekwood Court, suffered the attack Tuesday afternoon. The elderly woman was able to trip a panic alarm system in the apartment which alerted the village fire department to the emergency. Fire Lt. Herman Marguard said the time saved by simply pulling the alarm, rather than dialing the fire department, was significant. "The first few moments after a person has a heart attack is critical, and the fact the department received immediate notice of the emergency probably saved her life," he said. Once the alarm was sounded, fire department paramedics were able to give the woman emergency aid and transport her to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village, where she is in stable condition and improving.

Homes face sewer fees

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Federal regulations soon will force the Metropolitan Sanitary District to bill homeowners for sewer service.

The sewer bills, paid on a regular basis like other utility charges, would be in additon to the sanitary district's property-tax levy.

District officials are studying federal regulations that require user charges for sewers and soon may hire a consultant for $300,000 to design a collection system for the new charges.

One result of the user-charge system, the officials say, will be to shift a greater percentage of the sanitary district's sewage-treatment costs from business and industry to homeowners.

THE SANITARY district has been fighting the user-charge system in Congress ever since it was first proposed. And while district officials still hope the requirement will be softened by future congressional action, they are now being forced to weigh the system against the threatened loss of millions of dollars in federal grant money.

At a meeting Tuesday, the sanitary district trustees learned if they don't begin the user-charge system soon they will have to pass up as much as $237.3 million in federal grants.

The federal government has threatened to withhold 20 per cent of every sewer grant it awards in Cook County until the district adopts a user-charge system.

Locally, the 20 per cent withholding applies to the $136.5 million grant that would pay three-fourths of the cost of the O'Hare water reclamation plant in Des Plaines.

THE DISTRICT must build the O'Hare plant and upgrade other treatment facilities to meet various federal clean water requirements.

A decision on hiring the consultant may be made at today's sanitary district board meeting.

The federal user-charge system is designed to correct the current system of paying sewage charges on the basis of property value. Sanitary district officials said one result of the user charge system will be to shift a higher percentage of the cost to homeowners.

Under the current system residential property with a market value below $20,000 has been almost entirely subsidized by industry for its sewer service, sanitary district studies show.

WHILE CORRECTING the inequities in the present system is a desirable goal, the sanitary district argues the federal system fails in practical application.

Installing meters on every home to measure exactly how much water is going into a sewer is such an expensive proposition that it would cancel any profit from the user charges, they say.

Also, basing sewer-use charges on the water meter readings penalizes the homeowner who waters his lawn frequently or uses water in other ways that keep it from entering the sanitary sewer system.

The use of meters also doesn't tell the strength of the sewage. Obviously a family with a garbage disposal and a frequently used washing machine puts more pollutants in the sanitary sewer than a family that doesn't have those appliances.

Two other facts about the user system may also cause problems:

- Schools, park districts, churches, municipal buildings and others that are exempt from property tax would be required to pay a user charge for sewer use.
- The overhead cost of creating a user system can mean only a slight drop in real estate taxes once the user fee is started.

Residents of Hinsdale which recently began a user-charge system found that despite their $12 monthly user fee, real estate taxes to the local sanitary district didn't drop at all.

Continued property taxes will also be necessary to pay for other sanitary district operations such as reservoirs and stream maintenance, storm sewer systems, services to undeveloped property, paying off old bond issues and operating the locks on the Chicago River.

Even industry, which might think the user charge will mean reduced tax bills, won't benefit much from the new system. Another federal program, also being required by the federal government in the near future, will require each industry to pay a share of the cost of building each new treatment plant in the district. The program, called "Industrial Cost Recovery" would refund part of the construction cost of the plant to the sanitary district and to the federal government.

THE GARAGE SALE VS. THE FREE ICE CREAM CONE

"I'm an all-American garage sale with something different. I'm at First Federal Savings of Schaumburg."

"I'm a good, old-fashioned free Bresler's* ice cream cone. With something different. Eight nifty flavors. Your basic vanilla, chocolate and strawberry. AND butter pecan, apple slices and spices, rainbow sherbet, chocolate mint chip and New York Cherry, the color of New York City's ledger sheets."

"I've got a lot more going for me than eight nifty ice cream flavors. I'm set up with 62 super premiums on sale cheap. All you have to do is deposit $100 in any First Federal Savings account. Why, I'll have all kinds of things. Silverware. Glassware. Tennis rackets and balls and bags. Electrical appliances. Even golf clubs and equipment. Think of that."

"I'll last a long time, you know. You can get me for a whole month. Best of all, I'm free for the asking. And just remember, you can't eat a garage sale."

"Such a sale you've never seen. And at a financial institution. Just remember, you can't play golf with an ice cream cone."

"Come in and get carried away. Grab a free ice cream and browse in the best tradition of the All-American garage sale.* At First Federal of Schaumburg."

*Garage sale items are available on a first come basis only. Sale will be held in our lobby area continuing until items are gone. To qualify to make a purchase, you must deposit $100 for each item desired. For example: you want 4 different items, deposit $400 and then you've qualified.

Kissinger home; Arabs denounce pact

From Herald news services

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Washington Wednesday night, wrapping up 15 hectic days of Middle East shuttle diplomacy. He was greeted by President Ford at Andrews Air Force base.

Ford hailed the agreement as "of great importance not only to the parties involved but to the entire world." Ford said the agreement was possible because "both sides felt the risks of peace were in the long run preferable to the dangers of war."

His triumphant return, however, was marred as Syria — Egypt's main ally in the 1973 war against Israel — denounced the Egyptian-Israeli interim peace agreement as a "major setback for the progress of the Arab struggle."

A statement issued by the leadership of the governing Baath party, and the agreement, negotiated by Kissinger, constituted a violation of the resolutions of Arab summit conferences, which forbade negotiations, peace and recognition of Israel.

The statement was issued only hours after Kissinger paid a brief visit to Damascus, during which he failed to win President Hafez Assad's support for the accord.

In Lebanon, meanwhile, Palestinian guerrillas, enraged by the U.S. negotiated Egypt-Israeli agreement, sponsored protest strikes and demonstrations that tied up the major cities of Beirut, Tyre, Sidon, and Tripoli in the north.

A Popular Democratic Front spokesman told one group of demonstrators the "palestinian revolution is capable — and determined in solidarity with other Arab national liberation forces, to foil and repel all partial imperialistic and capitulationist solutions . . ."

Under the agreement, Israel will give up 3,500 square miles of the Sinai peninsula. Four-fifths of the territory will become a new U.N. buffer zone, where up to 200 American civilians will operate three manned, and three unmanned, electronic early warning stations.

Kissinger was scheduled to brief President Ford Thursday morning, then fly to New York to spend Friday and Saturday mornings at a United Nationals General Assembly special session.

Earlier in the day, Republican and Democratic congressional leaders gave support to President Ford's proposal to send a detachment of U.S. civilians to the Mideast to monitor the Sinai agreement between Israel and Egypt.

Leadership backing for the administration's proposal — a key to the pact — was tendered despite fears about stationing Americans in the volatile area.

Ford won the support of Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott and House GOP leader John J. Rhodes during a 45-minute meeting at the White House shortly before Congress ended its month-long recess at noon.

A short time later, Speaker Carl Albert and House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill indicated their backing but waived outright support until a full briefing by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger Thursday morning.

The only outspoken holdout was Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield who has said repeatedly he opposed the stationing of about 200 Americans in the Sinai.

Scott, Rhodes, Albert, and O'Neill all predicted Congress would approve the plan.

Israeli parliament votes approval of peace accord

from Herald news services

The Israeli parliament in Jerusalem Wednesday approved the interim peace agreement with Egypt by a vote of 70 to 43 with seven abstensions after nine hours of often-heated debate before a jampacked public gallery.

Former Defense Minister Moshe Dayan voted against the agreement negotiated by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, as did his ally in the Rafi faction of the Labor party, Mordechai Ben-porat.

Also voting against was opposition leader Menachem Begin who said "this is not a step towards peace but towards further pressure and towards further Israeli withdrawals."

"We must face the facts," he said. "The truth is, this was a total surrender of the government to American pressure."

But Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, in opening the debate before the Knesset special session at noon, said "from an overall security viewpoint, Israel will be stronger both militarily and politically."

Reading from a prepared text, Rabin said the stationing of U.S. civilian technicians in the U.N. buffer zone between the forces of both sides was a key element of the pact.

He said the Americans would be there "in the service of peace, to guard an active peace."

"Israel accepts that no America citizen must remain in the area if fighting erupts," he said.

Meanwhile, an Egyptian delegation headed by Maj. Gen. Taha el Magdoub flew into Geneva from Cairo to sign the interim Sinai agreement with Israel Thursday. A police helicopter buzzed overhead and police sharpshooters patrolled Geneva airport roofs as the delegation arrived.

The Israeli delegation, led by Mordecai Gazith, director general of Prime Minister Yitzak Rabin's office, was scheduled to arrive Thursday.

As preparations for the peace signing brewed, Israeli war planes streaked across the border with Lebanon for the second day to bomb Palestinian targets near Tyre. Israeli artillery units ahso shelled villages in southern Lebanon.

A Lebanese communique in Beirut said six Israeli fighter-bombers attacked the Bourgholiyyeh refugee camp and that seven civilians were wounded in the 10-minute raid. The raiders destroyed five houses and damaged crops around the camp which houses ablut 5,000 persons, mainly Palestinians but some Lebanese.

Trenton water supply drained to sea of mud

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — The 250,000 residents of the Trenton area borrowed enough water for drinking and cooking Wednesday, but baths and clean clothes were at a premium with the municipal reservoir drained to a sea of mud.

Schools, state offices and industrial plants were closed and authorities urged families to conserve water. The Transportation Department remained open, but employes had to take a bus to go to the bathroom.

With the city and its suburbs in its third day of a fresh water crisis because of a breakdown in a filter system, latest reports said the system would not be in service until Friday.

A network of hoses, three miles long at one point, stretched across roadways and bridges to four neighboring systems to give the city and suburbs their only source of water.

Officials said police went through city neighborhoods urging residents to boil water before using it.

From Herald News Services

Striking Chicago school teachers were joined on picket lines Wednesday by a variety of supporters and the city's 669 public schools did not open for the scheduled first day of classes.

Although 530,000 school children were told not to report to classes, School Supt. Joseph Hannon asked principals, school staff members and any teachers who chose not to honor picket lines to be at their area schools.

Chicago Teachers' Union President Robert Healy said 97 per cent of the city's teachers were on strike or refusing to cross picket lines.

Aside from picketing city schools, a peaceful group of 300 union members demonstrated in front of school board offices in the Loop area.

No trouble was reported at any of the schools.

Negotiations continued between the union and school board. The prime issues are money, some 1,500 teaching jobs which the board proposes to eliminate and class size, which the board proposes to increase because of financial problems.

Mayor Richard J. Daley said he did not think the two sides were "too far apart" and expressed hope the school board would move quickly to end the strike.

Some 371 teachers went on strike at three high schools in Joliet.

In Elgin, teachers said they would strike Thursday if no contract agreement is reached.

In Urbana, a strike continued for the seventh day with no negotiations scheduled.

Teachers in Belvidere returned to classes Wednesday after a six-day strike, although no contract settlement was reached.

In Louisville, Ky. meantime, the Jefferson County-Louisville School System today goes into the largest new court-ordered racial busing program in the nation amid threats of a massive boycott. Elaborate security plans have been formulated for handling any disruptions in the program.

Evidence in JFK death points to conspiracy: pair

A former Pentagon official and a photographic analyst Wednesday presented what they said was evidence of a conspiracy to kill President John F. Kennedy in Dallas in 1963. Col. L. Fletcher Prouty and Richard Sprague said the photographic evidence led to the conclusion that: five minimally, perhaps six shots were fired; there were at least three firing positions, more like four; no one fired any shots from the window; and Lee Harvey Oswald fired no shots.

Prouty and Sprague claim Oswald was framed. They urged support for a congressional resolution to be reintroduced by Rep. Henry Gonzales, D-Tex., to reopen the investigation into Kennedy's death.

Bill would delay any construction strike

Labor Secretary John Dunlop announced Wednesday legislation to overhaul collective bargaining in the construction industry by establishing a national labor-management committee that could impose a cooling off period of up to 30 days in any strike. Dunlop said the bill, written during months of secret negotiations with labor and management, would be introduced in the House and Senate in a day or two. An aide predicted it would pass like a "greased pig."

STP accepts ban on advertising claims

STP Corporation, maker of motor oil additives, Wednesday accepted a Federal Trade Commission order banning use of advertising claims alleged to be false and misleading. Two of the five FTC commissioners declined to support the cease and desist order saying, "This order is too weak." Chairman Lewis A. Engman said, "STP oil treatment is of no significant value to the majority of cars which regularly use the proper grade of oil. I accordingly have difficulty in accepting an order which does not explicitly require STP to qualify its future claims." He was joined in dissent by Commissioner M. Elizabeth Hanford.

U.S. seizes Canadian fishing vessel

A U.S. magistrate Wednesday impounded a 32-foot Canadian salmon fishing vessel in Seattle and ordered its captain to appear at a later hearing on charges of commercial fishing in U.S. territorial waters. Capt. Inao Tabata, of Richmond, B.C., and his gilnetter Pacific Ranger II were seized by agents of the U.S. Marine Fisheries Service and the Coast Guard who accused him of fishing for salmon eight-tenths of a mile inside U.S. waters. He was charged under both criminal and civil statutes.

Full-scale war in Ethiopia feared

African diplomats in Nairobi, Kenya, said Wednesday renewed fighting in northern Ethiopia between government troops and separatist rebels has taken hundreds of lives and sparked fears of full-scale warfare. The central government in Addis Ababa admitted for the first time this week that the situation in Ethiopia's Eritrea province was "deteriorating." It established a special committee to find a "lasting solution" to the 13-year-old revolt.

B52 explodes in flight, crashes --3 dead; 4 hurt

AIKEN, S. C. (UPI) — An Air Force B52 exploded in flight and crashed about 20 miles from the Savannah River Atomic plant Wednesday, reportedly killing three of the seven crewmen aboard and injuring the other four.

Officials at Barksdale Air Force Base, La., said the Stratofortress, manned by a crew from the 68th Bombardment Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, N. C., was on a routine training flight and carried no weapons.

There was no immediate explanation of what caused the explosion aboard the craft, but the Federal Aviation Administration, which was monitoring the flight, said the plane last reported it was flying at an altitude of 28,000 feet.

David M. Peek, information director at the Savannah River plant, said there was no danger at any time to the plant or personnel working at the nuclear laboratory.

FBI shows Nixon Hiss case roll

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI, criticized by Richard M. Nixon in 1948 when he was a congressman making his name in the Alger Hiss case, Wednesday released documents showing Nixon got information from Whittaker Chambers and leaked it to newspapers or the FBI.

The documents, released under the Freedom of Information Act, picture Chambers as giving leads to the House Un-American Activities Committee — of which Nixon was a member. Nixon then would rap the FBI for not getting information, the records show, or leak it to FBI agents.

Nixon, then a California Republican congressman, entered national prominance on the case against Hiss, a former State Department official accused of being a communist spy. With Chambers — himself a confessed spy — testifying against him, Hiss was convicted of perjury in 1950. Nixon, his chief committee accuser, became vice president in 1952.

Hiss served 44 months in jail, but always denied guilt. Now 70, Hiss recently was reinstated to the Massachusetts bar and said he hopes to clear his hame 25 years after Chambers branded him a traitor in a case involving the "pumpkin papers."

The records released by the FBI under the Freedom of Information Act show the Un-American Activities Committee getting tips and agents reading about them in newspapers.

The file is made up mostly of memos to and from Director J. Edgar Hoover and FBI bureaus in 1948. There also are newsclips related to the memos. The documents were screened and information exempted under the Freedom of Information Act was blotted out in photocopies given to reporters.

One newspaper clipping in the file — whose opening paragraph was partially illegible because it was worn — said, "Rep. Richard . . . R-Calif. . . . today criticized the Federal Bureau of Investigation . . . for its inability . . . Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers in . . . years of investigation."

A memo dated Dec. 2, 1948 — when Hiss was suing Chambers for libel — said FBI agents were tipped by a New York Sun reporter that Chambers had given a New York court "startling documents extremely damaging in their nature to Hiss' civil suit against Chambers."

The memo said the court "impounded" the documents. "This ties in, of course, with information received from Congressman Nixon yesterday," it said.

Teachers in Belvidere returned to classes Wednesday after a six-day strike, although no contract settlement was reached.

In Louisville, Ky. meantime, the Jefferson County-Louisville School System today goes into the largest new court-ordered racial busing program in the nation amid threats of a massive boycott. Elaborate security plans have been formulated for handling any disruptions in the program.

Evidence in JFK death points to conspiracy: pair

A former Pentagon official and a photographic analyst Wednesday presented what they said was evidence of a conspiracy to kill President John F. Kennedy in Dallas in 1963. Col. L. Fletcher Prouty and Richard Sprague said the photographic evidence led to the conclusion that: five minimally, perhaps six shots were fired; there were at least three firing positions, more like four; no one fired any shots from the window; and Lee Harvey Oswald fired no shots.

Prouty and Sprague claim Oswald was framed. They urged support for a congressional resolution to be reintroduced by Rep. Henry Gonzales, D-Tex., to reopen the investigation into Kennedy's death.

Bill would delay any construction strike

Labor Secretary John Dunlop announced Wednesday legislation to overhaul collective bargaining in the construction industry by establishing a national labor-management committee that could impose a cooling off period of up to 30 days in any strike. Dunlop said the bill, written during months of secret negotiations with labor and management, would be introduced in the House and Senate in a day or two. An aide predicted it would pass like a "greased pig."

STP accepts ban on advertising claims

STP Corporation, maker of motor oil additives, Wednesday accepted a Federal Trade Commission order banning use of advertising claims alleged to be false and misleading. Two of the five FTC commissioners declined to support the cease and desist order saying, "This order is too weak." Chairman Lewis A. Engman said, "STP oil treatment is of no significant value to the majority of cars which regularly use the proper grade of oil. I accordingly have difficulty in accepting an order which does not explicitly require STP to qualify its future claims." He was joined in dissent by Commissioner M. Elizabeth Hanford.

U.S. seizes Canadian fishing vessel

A U.S. magistrate Wednesday impounded a 32-foot Canadian salmon fishing vessel in Seattle and ordered its captain to appear at a later hearing on charges of commercial fishing in U.S. territorial waters. Capt. Inao Tabata, of Richmond, B.C., and his gilnetter Pacific Ranger II were seized by agents of the U.S. Marine Fisheries Service and the Coast Guard who accused him of fishing for salmon eight-tenths of a mile inside U.S. waters. He was charged under both criminal and civil statutes.

Full-scale war in Ethiopia feared

African diplomats in Nairobi, Kenya, said Wednesday renewed fighting in northern Ethiopia between government troops and separatist rebels has taken hundreds of lives and sparked fears of full-scale warfare. The central government in Addis Ababa admitted for the first time this week that the situation in Ethiopia's Eritrea province was "deteriorating." It established a special committee to find a "lasting solution" to the 13-year-old revolt.

B52 explodes in flight, crashes -- 3 dead; 4 hurt

AIKEN, S. C. (UPI) — An Air Force B52 exploded in flight and crashed about 20 miles from the Savannah River Atomic plant Wednesday, reportedly killing three of the seven crewmen aboard and injuring the other four.

Officials at Barksdale Air Force Base, La., said the Stratofortress, manned by a crew from the 68th Bombardment Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, N. C., was on a routine training flight and carried no weapons.

There was no immediate explanation of what caused the explosion aboard the craft, but the Federal Aviation Administration, which was monitoring the flight, said the plane last reported it was flying at an altitude of 28,000 feet.

David M. Peek, information director at the Savannah River plant, said there was no danger at any time to the plant or personnel working at the nuclear laboratory.

Relationship with Mills more than platonic: Fanne

FBI shows Nixon Hiss case roll

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI, criticized by Richard M. Nixon in 1948 when he was a congressman making his name in the Alger Hiss case, Wednesday released documents showing Nixon got information from Whittaker Chambers and leaked it to newspapers or the FBI.

The documents, released under the Freedom of Information Act, picture Chambers as giving leads to the House Un-American Activities Committee — of which Nixon was a member. Nixon then would rap the FBI for not getting information, the records show, or leak it to FBI agents.

Nixon, then a California Republican congressman, entered national prominance on the case against Hiss, a former State Department official accused of being a communist spy. With Chambers — himself a confessed spy — testifying against him, Hiss was convicted of perjury in 1950. Nixon, his chief committee accuser, became vice president in 1952.

Hiss served 44 months in jail, but always denied guilt. Now 70, Hiss recently was reinstated to the Massachusetts bar and said he hopes to clear his hame 25 years after Chambers branded him a traitor in a case involving the "pumpkin papers."

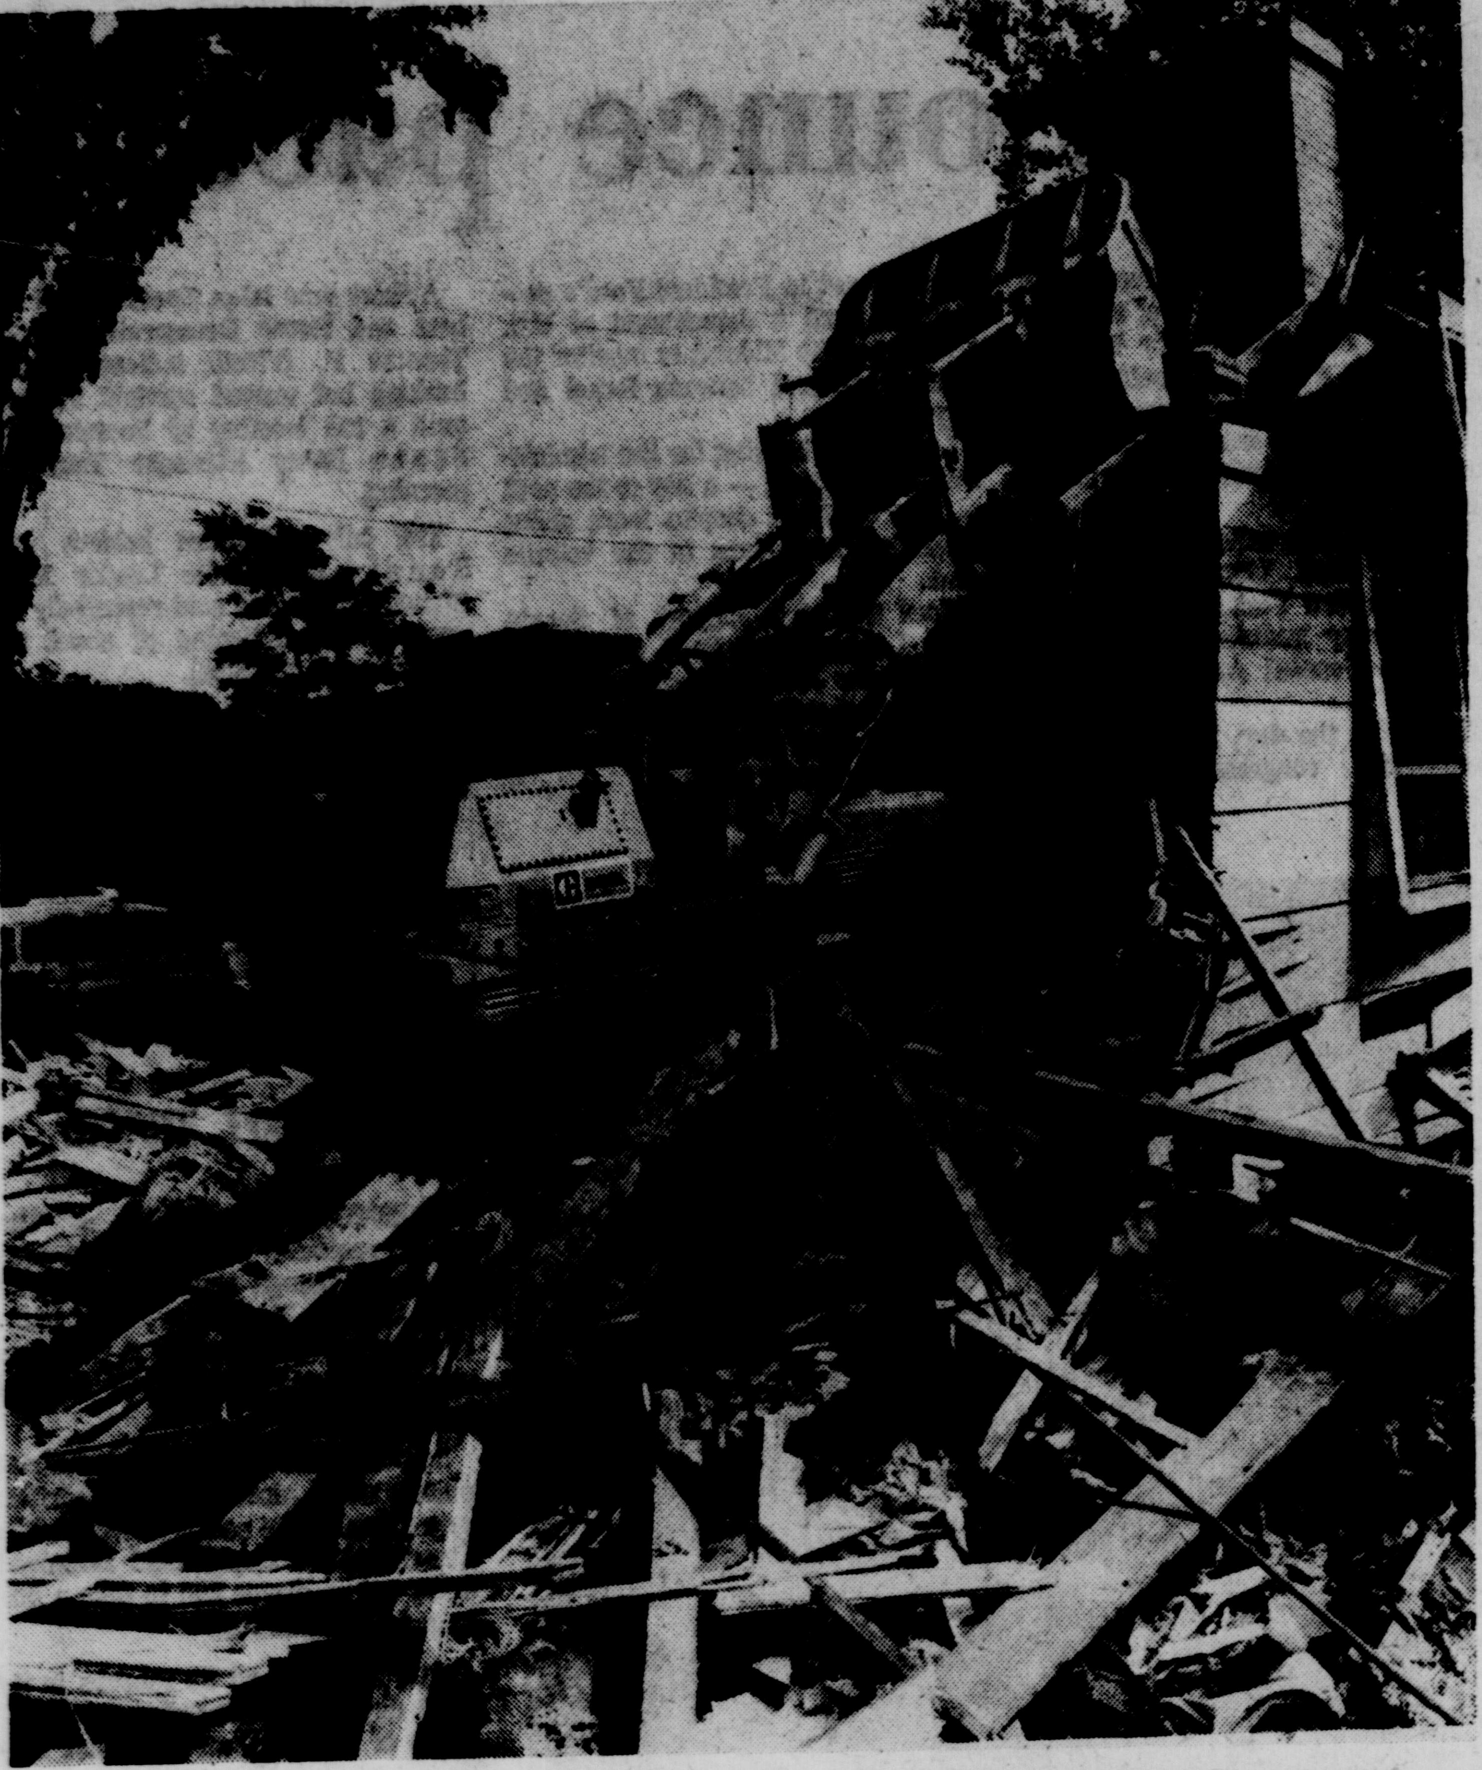
The records released by the FBI under the Freedom of Information Act show the Un-American Activities Committee getting tips and agents reading about them in newspapers.

The file is made up mostly of memos to and from Director J. Edgar Hoover and FBI bureaus in 1948. There also are newsclips related to the memos. The documents were screened and information exempted under the Freedom of Information Act was blotted out in photocopies given to reporters.

One newspaper clipping in the file — whose opening paragraph was partially illegible because it was worn — said, "Rep. Richard . . . R-Calif. . . . today criticized the Federal Bureau of Investigation . . . for its inability . . . Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers in . . . years of investigation."

A memo dated Dec. 2, 1948 — when Hiss was suing Chambers for libel — said FBI agents were tipped by a New York Sun reporter that Chambers had given a New York court "startling documents extremely damaging in their nature to Hiss' civil suit against Chambers."

The memo said the court "impounded" the documents. "This ties in, of course, with information received from Congressman Nixon yesterday," it said.



PUSH COMES TO SHOVE and the walls, floors, windows and chimney all came tumbling down. A village owned house at 15 W. Fremont St. was razed Wednesday. Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson ordered the demolition due to its deteriorating condition. The $1,000 demolition job was paid for out of the village's parking fund.

Radical company unions seek acceptance by police

by STIRLING MORITA

To members of the Fraternal Order of Police, the Combined Counties Police Assn. is a bit radical.

To John Flood, CCPA president, the FOP is too much like a "company" union — too much a part of the establishment.

Some members of the local FOP chapters have indicated they worry about the reputation of police when they hear of job actions by their brethren. They are quick to point out, when seeking collective bargaining rights, the FOP has a no-strike philosophy.

Flood, CCPA founder, compares his union to a Rolls-Royce and the FOP to a Volkswagen when it comes to police-labor relations. Flood says when a policeman has ridden in the luxury car, he never wants to go back to the "Bug."

"SURE, I'M A radical," Flood says. "We're a controversial organization, because we're an action organization."

Joseph Vertuno, president of the state FOP lodge, explaines, "Sometimes, you can catch more flies with sugar than you can with vinegar."

Of 10 police departments in the Northwest suburbs, those in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg are members of FOP while those in Wheeling, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect are in the CCPA fold. Palatine, formerly CCPA-oriented, does not acknowledge either union.

A move by several members of the Rolling Meadows Police Dept. to start a CCPA chapter more than three years ago was blunted when controversy broke out among the police chief, mayor, aldermen and some policemen.

The two organizations are the only ones available locally to police. In Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, FOP chapters are seeking official recognition from village officials.

FOP CHAPTER presidents emphasize they joined the organization because it is a fraternal order.

Sgt. Charles Poellien, president of the Rolling Meadows FOP chapter, says "As far as we're concerned, it's (FOP) more of a professional organization. We've heard nothing good about CCPA. It (FOP) is more professional in the way it's run. They don't have a bunch of radicals ready to storm the establishment."

Patrolman Richard Akerman, Hoffman Estates, FOP lodge president, said, "We're a fraternal organization — nationwide. We don't believe in striking on negotiations and endangering the safety of the public."

An officer in the Schaumburg FOP lodge, Patrolman James Kuzel, explained, "We have a two-fold commitment to the man in blue and to the people he serves as well. We're a community-minded organization."

Flood points out CCPA also is involved in community activities, such as sponsoring sports teams or contributing to charities, but such controversial actions as this years' uniform strike in Skokie grab headlines.

FLOOD STARTED the union in 1969 while serving on the Wheeling Police Dept. "because we needed a voice." He said he went to the FOP, and "they didn't give us anything."

Municipal administrators are more afraid of CCPA, Flood noted. "Police, by and large, are scared to organize. They're scared to come to us, and that their administrators won't like it."

Some policemen have wanted to meet secretly with CCPA officials in forest preserves, he added. "They (administrators) know we're a strong organization. We have a militant reputation because we stood up and fought. We're not beggars," he said.

"There are two things working against us — fear and lack of knowledge on the policeman's part about negotiations," Flood said.

Flood said he would not advocate a police strike in a major city like Chicago. He said all the fears about chaos resulting from a strike are generated by politicians.

IN A SUBURB, supervisory personnel and Sheriff's police could combine to put more men on the street than before the strike, he said.

"We don't like to strike. We don't like job action, but what do you do when they say no to collective bargaining?" Flood added.

Theology lectures start Sept. 16

Theology West will open its fall lecture series, based on the theme of joyousness raising, Tuesday, Sept. 16, at the St. James parish center, 800 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Bernard Boelen, author and professor of philosophy at DePaul University, will be the first speaker for the program. Other speakers will be the Rev. Matthew Fox, Sister Betty Barrett and the Rev. Wilton Gregory.

Theology West, presented on six alternate Tuesdays, is sponsored by religous and lay women from the Northwest suburbs. Preregistration for the fall series is $12, to be sent to Sue Quinn, 319 W. Braeside Dr., Arlington Heights. Registration at the door is $15, and individual lectures will be $3.

Dist. 59 rolls rise by 43

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 enrolled 43 more kindergarten students than anticipated, according to first day enrollment figures which showed 1,013 kindergartners.

Supt. Roger Bardwell presented the figures to the school board Tuesday, saying enrollment is not dropping as quickly as the district expected. Taking preregistration figures and census statistics, the district had projected that 970 kindergarten students would enroll this year. Last year 1,112 kindergarten students entered school.

The total first day enrollment figure for the district was 10,255 students, compared to 10,525 last year — a 2.6 per cent decrease. Bardwell said about 350 students usually register in the district during the first month of school. He said the total enrollment picture is encouraging even though the district is down 270 students from last year's first day enrollment figures. The district had anticipated enrolling 300 fewer students, he explained.

HE SAID HIGHER enrollment figures will change the five-year enrollment projections presented to the board in July.

Those projections, compiled from a spring census of preschoolers and current enrollment figures in the district, show the administration anticipates a 33 per cent decline in enrollment by the 1979-80 school year. The figures predicted enrollment would drop from last year's 10,899 students to 7,279 students in 1979-80.

Bardwell said a breakdown between elementary and junior high schools shows enrollment dropped by 407 students in kindergarten through grade 5, and increased by 137 students in grades 6-8.

The district also has 11 more special education students enrolled this year, with a total of 93 students in special education programs.

The total first day enrollment figure for the district was 10,255 students compared to 10,525 last year. Bardwell said the district usually has about 350 students register late during the first month of school. He said the total enrollment picture was encouraging because although the district is down 270 students from last year's first enrollment figures, the district had anticipated being 300 students below last year.

6 more firefighters to start work soon

Six additional firefighters authorized in the 1975-76 Arlington Heights budget will start work in November.

The new firefighters will make possible the formation of a third company of specially-trained paramedics.

The village has ordered a third paramedic ambulance with intensive care equipment and radio monitoring devices that transmit the patient's vital life signs to the emergency room at Northwest Community Hospital.

Dist. 59 rolls rise by 43

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 enrolled 43 more kindergarten students than anticipated, according to first day enrollment figures which showed 1,013 kindergartners.

Supt. Roger Bardwell presented the figures to the school board Tuesday, saying enrollment is not dropping as quickly as the district expected. Taking preregistration figures and census statistics, the district had projected that 970 kindergarten students would enroll this year. Last year 1,112 kindergarten students entered school.

The total first day enrollment figure for the district was 10,255 students, compared to 10,525 last year — a 2.6 per cent decrease. Bardwell said about 350 students usually register in the district during the first month of school. He said the total enrollment picture is encouraging even though the district is down 270 students from last year's first day enrollment figures. The district had anticipated enrolling 300 fewer students, he explained.

HE SAID HIGHER enrollment figures will change the five-year enrollment projections presented to the board in July.

Those projections, compiled from a spring census of preschoolers and current enrollment figures in the district, show the administration anticipates a 33 per cent decline in enrollment by the 1979-80 school year. The figures predicted enrollment would drop from last year's 10,899 students to 7,279 students in 1979-80.

Bardwell said a breakdown between elementary and junior high schools shows enrollment dropped by 407 students in kindergarten through grade 5, and increased by 137 students in grades 6-8.

The district also has 11 more special education students enrolled this year, with a total of 93 students in special education programs.

6 more firefighters to start work soon

Six additional firefighters authorized in the 1975-76 Arlington Heights budget will start work in November.

The new firefighters will make possible the formation of a third company of specially-trained paramedics.

The village has ordered a third paramedic ambulance with intensive care equipment and radio monitoring devices that transmit the patient's vital life signs to the emergency room at Northwest Community Hospital.

Dist. 59, parks in money dispute

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 officials say Elk Grove and Arlington Heights park districts owe the school district more than $15,000, and a meeting has been scheduled to determine why the money has not been paid.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, told the school board Tuesday in Elk Grove Park District owes about $13,000, partially for utility costs from operating the swimming pool at Lively Junior High School. He said Arlington Heights Park District owes the distrilt about $2,500 in custodian fees.

Thomas Thornton, Arlington Heights Park District director, said Wednesday the park district does not owe Dist. 59 any money. He said the park district maintains the school grounds at Low School, and in return, it is allowed to use school facilities. He said the school district also is allowed to use park land at the school site for playground activities.

THORNTON SAID the park district has agreed to pay for additional custodial fees when the school is used at a time when custodians normally are not on duty. "We have paid for these additional charges. We don't owe Dist. 59 a nickel," he said.

He said when the park-school agreement was set up 10 years ago, the park district paid $13,000 to expand the school'n multi-purpose room into a full gym. The park district also paid for gym equipment, he said.

Jack Claes, Elk Grove Park District director of parks and recreation, said, "I don't think those are the right figures. We have already paid them $4,000 of an annual obligation and are prepared to pay $4,000 for this year when our taxes come in."

He said the park district agreed to pay $4,000 a year for pool utilities. The fee is supposed to be reviewed after three years to determine whether it is the correct amount, he said.

Dist. 59 Supt. Roger Bardwell said school officials will meet with the park districts to review the figures and the park-school agreements.

Village awaits U.S. funds for senior citizens housing

Local officials are still waiting for formal approval of $3.4 million in federal funding for senior-citizen housing in Arlington Heights.

Victor Walchirk, executive director of the Cook County Housing Authority, announced in July that the funding had been approved and the formal notification was all that was needed to begin negotiations for the land.

Walchirk said Wednesday the authorization still has not arrived and construction of the 119-unit development could not start until next spring at the earliest.

"We have not as yet gotten the approval from HUD (U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development). I am hoping, certainly, to hear from them in the next 30 days," Walchirk said.

HE SAID federal officials had approved the basic plans for the six-to-nine story senior citizens housing development. The development, when finally approved, will be built on a one-acre site west of Highland Avenue between Miner and Wing streets.

Walchirk said after the official authorization is granted, negotiations would be entered to purchase the land. He said most of the landowners have agreed to sell to the CCHA which will buy the land with federal money.

Negotiations and possible court action of condemnation proceedings will push the groundbreaking back until next spring, Walchirk said.

Before work begins on the project, persons living on the project site would have to be relocated, according to federal guidelines, he said.

ANOTHER STEP to be taken is approval of design and architectural plans of the development, he said.

Federal officials had delayed approval of the project earlier this summer because they believed construction cost estimates were too high. Walchirk said the situation was resolved after a series of meetings between CCHA and HUD officials.

The village applied to the CCHA in 1970 for elderly housing. The village board designated CCHA as its agent in dealing with HUD.

SEVERAL DELAYS, including a freezing on housing funds and a site selection squabble, have postponed the project. The Wing Street site was eventually chosen by village officials and approved by HUD.

Federal guidelines make the housing available to persons 62 years or older with incomes not exceeding $4,900 and couples with a combined income of not more than $5,600.

Rent for the one-bedroom apartments is expected to be about $60 a month.

'Grantsmanship' -- art of funding

grant application touched off a controversy involving Hanson, former Village Pres. Jack Walsh and members of the master plan committee.

At the time, Walsh said that henceforth, all decisions to apply or withdraw grant applications had to be made by the village board. Madeline Schroeder, former chairman of the master plan committee and now a village trustee, criticized the action as an impediment to future village planning.

AT THE TIME, Kenning said the application was withdrawn because of a lack of progress in negotiations with the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

This spring, the village board rejected a proposed application for $125,000 in federal funds available under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. Board members said they were afraid that "strings" were attached to the grant money, including a required low-and moderate-income housing assistance plan.

Hanson said he will ask the village board again to consider applying for the community development funds as soon as the federal government publishes its timetable for 1976 applications in the five-year grant program. If it applies for the money, Arlington Heights still could receive $2.4 million over the next four years in community development funds.

Other Arlington Heights projects being targeted for large federal and state grants are:

- Arlington Heights Road underpass and pavement widening. Total cost is estimated at $5.6 million, with $3.9 million pledged under the Federal Aid Urban Systems program and $600,000 from the Illinois Dept. of Transportation.
- A 119-unit subsidized senior citizens housing project planned between Wing and Miner streets. The project is budgeted at $3.4 million from HUD.
- Palatine Road underpass at the intersection with Rand and Arlington Heights roads.
- Extension of New Wilke Road from Central to Kirchoff roads.

Bloom cleared of rape charges

Eric A. Bloom, Palatine, arrested in connection with the rape of a Hoffman Estates girl in July, has been cleared of all charges.

Last week, an associate Circuit Court judge found "no probable cause" in a preliminary hearing for Bloom on charges of rape and unlawful restraint.

Jeffrey R. Baker, 22, of 708 Rand Grove Ln., Palatine, who was arrested along with Bloom, was bound over to the grand jury after the preliminary hearing.

$1.5 million loan OKd by Dist. 59

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education has approved borrowing $1.5 million to pay expenses in the education fund.

The district expects to have a deficit of $1.4 million in the education and building funds at the end of the year, according to the $15.5 million budget approved by the board Tuesday. To cover these expenses, the board approved issuing teachers' orders, a method of borrowing money through the bond and interest fund to pay teachers' salaries.

The anticipated deficit includes figures for teacher salary increases approved by the board Tuesday. The new contract gives teachers a 4 per cent cost-of-living increase in addition to the 4 per cent raise for an additional year of experience in the district. The 4 per cent cost-of-living raise is costing the district about $267,000. Al Stone, assistant superintendent for personnel, said the total cost of the contract's increases will be determined in about two weeks.

TEACHERS WILL be paid through teachers' orders starting Sept. 12. Six pay periods will be covered by the orders this year with the final payment being made Nov. 21. The board also will decide by that date whether another $250,000 order will be issued.

Teachers must cash their pay checks at Mount Prospect State Bank which will issue the orders. The district must pay back the orders at 5.25 per cent interest per year. The payment schedule will determine the tax increase which will result from issuing the orders.

The board can be prevented from issuing bonds to pay back the orders if 10 per cent of the voters petition the board to hold a referendum against the orders and the referendum passes. The petitions must be submitted within 30 days of when the board decides to get bonds to pay the orders.

Walchirk said Wednesday the authorization still has not arrived and construction of the 119-unit development could not start until next spring at the earliest.

"We have not as yet gotten the approval from HUD (U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development). I am hoping, certainly, to hear from them in the next 30 days," Walchirk said.

HE SAID federal officials had approved the basic plans for the six-to-nine story senior citizens housing development. The development, when finally approved, will be built on a one-acre site west of Highland Avenue between Miner and Wing streets.

Walchirk said after the official authorization is granted, negotiations would be entered to purchase the land. He said most of the landowners have agreed to sell to the CCHA which will buy the land with federal money.

Negotiations and possible court action of condemnation proceedings will push the groundbreaking back until next spring, Walchirk said.

Before work begins on the project, persons living on the project site would have to be relocated, according to federal guidelines, he said.

ANOTHER STEP to be taken is approval of design and architectural plans of the development, he said.

Federal officials had delayed approval of the project earlier this summer because they believed construction cost estimates were too high. Walchirk said the situation was resolved after a series of meetings between CCHA and HUD officials.

The village applied to the CCHA in 1970 for elderly housing. The village board designated CCHA as its agent in dealing with HUD.

SEVERAL DELAYS, including a freezing on housing funds and a site selection squabble, have postponed the project. The Wing Street site was eventually chosen by village officials and approved by HUD.

Federal guidelines make the housing available to persons 62 years or older with incomes not exceeding $4,900 and couples with a combined income of not more than $5,600.

Rent for the one-bedroom apartments is expected to be about $60 a month.

grant application touched off a controversy involving Hanson, former Village Pres. Jack Walsh and members of the master plan committee.

At the time, Walsh said that henceforth, all decisions to apply or withdraw grant applications had to be made by the village board. Madeline Schroeder, former chairman of the master plan committee and now a village trustee, criticized the action as an impediment to future village planning.

AT THE TIME, Kenning said the application was withdrawn because of a lack of progress in negotiations with the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

This spring, the village board rejected a proposed application for $125,000 in federal funds available under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. Board members said they were afraid that "strings" were attached to the grant money, including a required low-and moderate-income housing assistance plan.

Hanson said he will ask the village board again to consider applying for the community development funds as soon as the federal government publishes its timetable for 1976 applications in the five-year grant program. If it applies for the money, Arlington Heights still could receive $2.4 million over the next four years in community development funds.

Other Arlington Heights projects being targeted for large federal and state grants are:

- Arlington Heights Road underpass and pavement widening. Total cost is estimated at $5.6 million, with $3.9 million pledged under the Federal Aid Urban Systems program and $600,000 from the Illinois Dept. of Transportation.
- A 119-unit subsidized senior citizens housing project planned between Wing and Miner streets. The project is budgeted at $3.4 million from HUD.
- Palatine Road underpass at the intersection with Rand and Arlington Heights roads.
- Extension of New Wilke Road from Central to Kirchoff roads.

Color TV, jewelry stolen from home

Arlington Heights police are investigating a burglary in which a color television set and jewelry were reported stolen Tuesday night from the Phyllis Groeninger home, 23 E. Seegars Rd.

The television set was valued at about $470, but the amount of jewelry taken was undetermined.

Entry was gained through a window, police reported.

Bloom cleared of rape charges

Eric A. Bloom, Palatine, arrested in connection with the rape of a Hoffman Estates girl in July, has been cleared of all charges.

Last week, an associate Circuit Court judge found "no probable cause" in a preliminary hearing for Bloom on charges of rape and unlawful restraint.

Jeffrey R. Baker, 22, of 708 Rand Grove Ln., Palatine, who was arrested along with Bloom, was bound over to the grand jury after the preliminary hearing.

$1.5 million loan OKd by Dist. 59

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education has approved borrowing $1.5 million to pay expenses in the education fund.

The district expects to have a deficit of $1.4 million in the education and building funds at the end of the year, according to the $15.5 million budget approved by the board Tuesday. To cover these expenses, the board approved issuing teachers' orders, a method of borrowing money through the bond and interest fund to pay teachers' salaries.

The anticipated deficit includes figures for teacher salary increases approved by the board Tuesday. The new contract gives teachers a 4 per cent cost-of-living increase in addition to the 4 per cent raise for an additional year of experience in the district. The 4 per cent cost-of-living raise is costing the district about $267,000. Al Stone, assistant superintendent for personnel, said the total cost of the contract's increases will be determined in about two weeks.

TEACHERS WILL be paid through teachers' orders starting Sept. 12. Six pay periods will be covered by the orders this year with the final payment being made Nov. 21. The board also will decide by that date whether another $250,000 order will be issued.

Teachers must cash their pay checks at Mount Prospect State Bank which will issue the orders. The district must pay back the orders at 5.25 per cent interest per year. The payment schedule will determine the tax increase which will result from issuing the orders.

The board can be prevented from issuing bonds to pay back the orders if 10 per cent of the voters petition the board to hold a referendum against the orders and the referendum passes. The petitions must be submitted within 30 days of when the board decides to get bonds to pay the orders.

More than 20,000 at Harper

by WANDALYN RICE

Enrollment at Harper College has gone over 20,000 students this semester, an increase of 29 per cent from last year.

The increase is the largest experienced by the college in a single year since the school moved from temporary facilities to its Palatine campus in the fall of 1969. College enrollment last year was about 16,000.

Of the total, 12,111 are taking courses for credit at the college, while 8,000 are enrolled in noncredit courses, according to college officials. The largest increases in areas offering credit courses are in business, social science and engineering.

IN ADDITION, the number of students taking courses full-time at the college — those enrolled for at least 12 credit hours — has increased to 62 per cent of all students taking classes for credit. Last year, just 39 per cent of the credit students were taking classes full-time.

Enrollment at the college's new Willow Park Center, an extension center offering 90 day and evening classes in the Willow Park Shopping Center in Wheeling, is more than 1,400, much higher than expected by the college, according to college spokesman Pat Lewis.

Lewis said, "We were thinking that if we got between 500 and 1,000 students at Willow Park we would be doing well." Enrollment at the college's other new extension center at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights is 1,060, he said. Only evening classes are offered at the high school.

LEWIS SAID the increase in the number of students enrolled full-time at the college "is a reversal of previous trends." He said the number of "full-time equivalent" students, determined by average number of hours being taken by students if all students were full-time is now 6,978, just about the 7,000 anticipated by the college for the year 1980.

Lewis said college officials are now studying the college budget and staff to make changes needed to accommodate the additional students. Lewis said recommendations will be made to the college board of trustees next week to hire additional full-time teachers.

Harper's size brings the college even with Illinois State University in Normal, a four-year school, in number of students.

Milwaukee-Chicago turbotrain route set

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Amtrak officials in Washington said Wednesday turbotrain service between Milwaukee and Chicago is expected to begin Oct. 26 on a twice daily basis.

The final details have not been completed, but Amtrak officials confirmed schedule changes were being planned with officials in Wisconsin and Michigan.

Turbotrain service between Milwaukee and Chicago has been operating on an experimental basis for one round trip on Sundays. It is expected the two new turbos will replace two regular Milwaukee-Chicago trains.

Lee F. Barrett, Amtrak district sales manager here, said ridership was 25,097 during August, compared with 24,300 for the same month a year ago on trains serving only Milwaukee and Chicago.

The August ridership was also up from July when the figure was 22,778.

Disabilities teachers meeting tonight

The Professionals in Learning Disabilities will meet today at 8 p.m. at the Northbrook Savings Bank, 1850 Shermer Rd., Northbrook.

The early childhood film, "Rock-A-Bye Baby" will be shown, with discussion following the presentation.

The nonprofit organization has a membership of learning disabilities teachers from the North and Northwest suburbs. The group's clinical teaching service, helps parents, physicians, agencies and schools find teachers who are experienced and qualified to teach children with learning disorders. Persons may call Carol Komen, 432-3972, for information on teachers. Mrs. Komen also can provide names of educational therapists in the caller's geographic area, giving their educational backgrounds and fees.

State Farm hikes auto insurance

by LEA TONKIN

State Farm Mutual Insurance Co., the largest auto insurer in Illinois, announced Wednesday an 8.8 per cent increase in auto insurance rates effective Oct. 1.

The increase will cost State Farm's 964,000 Illinois auto insurance customers an average of $17 a year, although rates will vary depending on driving habits, location and type of car, the company said.

State Farm said it lost $1.4 million on Illinois insurance operations in the first half of this year, despite an 8 per cent rate increase in April.

"Our projections indicate the losses will get worse in the months ahead," said a company spokesman.

SHARP INCREASES in medical costs and auto-repair charges were blamed for the rate increase. State Farm said prices of automotive parts such as bumpers, fenders and grills have jumped 61.3 per cent since 1971 and hospital costs have gone up 50 per cent.

The company said the rate increase will average 8.8 per cent statewide but it listed the Northwest suburbs as getting an average 10 per cent hike.

Policyholders in Wheeling and Elk Grove Village will receive 7.6 per cent increases, the company said. Figures for other individual suburbs were not listed.

The State Farm spokesman said that until the April premium increase, rates were 3.6 per cent higher than in 1971. The rates will be 12.7 per cent higher than 1971 premiums due to the new increase.

THE AVERAGE COST of auto accidents in Illinois increased sharply during the past year, although the frequency of accidents declined, the company said. "We paid 22 per cent more for the average collision claim during the first half of this year than than we did a year ago," the spokesman said. "The cost of the average property claim was up 19.2 per cent and the average bodily injury claim was up 13.9 per cent."

The State Farm report of heavy underwriting losses mirrors an earlier announcement by Allstate Insurance Companies, Northbrook. The company suffered a $7 million underwriting loss in the first five months of 1975, on Illinois auto insurance claims. Allstate announced a 9.9 per cent average increase in auto insurance premiums effective Aug. 1.

Inflation, combined with an increase in the auto accident frequency, signal what may be the worst year in history for auto insurers, said a spokesman for the National Association of Independent Insurers (NAII) Des Plaines.

At least $250 million in underwriting losses hit U. S. insurance firms during 1975, the trade association spokesman said. "But first quarter results this year predict even greater losses by year-end," he said.

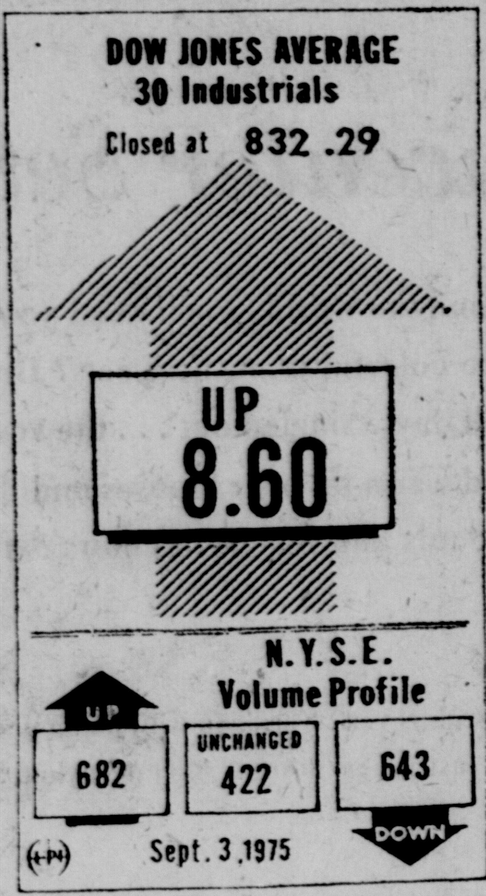
A SURVEY OF auto insurance company second quarter results, slated for release this week, will show continued losses, the NAII spokesman said.

The association's first quarter study indicates "accident frequency has begun to climb again in recent months while inflation has continued unabated," the spokesman said.

Claim costs on all types of coverage averaged 22.5 per cent higher in 1975 than in the same quarter of 1974. Bodily injury liability costs increased 10.7 per cent, property liability costs rose 15 per cent, collision costs increased 29.4 per cent and comprehensive coverage costs were up 24.9 per cent. The figures are based on a survey of 10 companies who insure 45 per cent of all autos in the U. S.

Motorists can curb auto insurance costs by choosing a policy with higher deductibles, comparison shopping for insurance, driving safely, observing the 55 m.p.h. limit and using seat belts, the NAII spokesman said.

Stock prices up sharply; gain 8.6 pts.



NEW YORK (UPI) — A rally late Wednesday afternoon drove prices sharply higher in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The meandering Dow Jones industrial average ended with a gain of 8.60 points to 832.29. It had been off around five points at the outset and ahead about two around noon before sliding again.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.55 to 86.03. The average price of an NYSE common share increased by 15 cents. Advances overtook declines, 682 to 643, among the 1,747 issues crossing the tape.

The volume, which picked up in the afternoon, totaled 12,260,000 shares, up from the 11,460,000 traded Tuesday.

MOORE McCORMACK Resources soared 8½ to 67¾ after the company declared a two-for-one stock split and raised its dividend to 40 cents a share from 35 cents.

Copperweld, trading for the first time since last Thursday, was the second most active issue, climbing 7½ to 42 in active trading on 191,100 shares. Imetal, a French firm, has made a $42.50-a-share tender offer for all of Copperweld's shares.

Texaco led the Big Board actives, off 3/8 to 23 7/8 on 228,000 shares, including a block of 99,000 shares at 23-7/8 S. S. Kresge was third, up 7/8 to 31 on 179,000 shares.

IBM gained 1½ to 182¾. The company announced programs to extend the use of System 32 to hard goods industry users and to support first-time computer users in the candy and tobacco industries.

American Telephone & Telegraph, which filed a 12-million-share offering with the Securities & Exchange Commission, gained ¾ to 47 1/8 in active trading. United Nuclear, which filed a one-million-share offering, lost 5/8 to 14 7/8.

State Farm hikes auto insurance

by LEA TONKIN

State Farm Mutual Insurance Co., the largest auto insurer in Illinois, announced Wednesday an 8.8 per cent increase in auto insurance rates effective Oct. 1.

The increase will cost State Farm's 964,000 Illinois auto insurance customers an average of $17 a year, although rates will vary depending on driving habits, location and type of car, the company said.

State Farm said it lost $1.4 million on Illinois insurance operations in the first half of this year, despite an 8 per cent rate increase in April.

"Our projections indicate the losses will get worse in the months ahead," said a company spokesman.

SHARP INCREASES in medical costs and auto-repair charges were blamed for the rate increase. State Farm said prices of automotive parts such as bumpers, fenders and grills have jumped 61.3 per cent since 1971 and hospital costs have gone up 50 per cent.

The company said the rate increase will average 8.8 per cent statewide but it listed the Northwest suburbs as getting an average 10 per cent hike.

Policyholders in Wheeling and Elk Grove Village will receive 7.6 per cent increases, the company said. Figures for other individual suburbs were not listed.

The State Farm spokesman said that until the April premium increase, rates were 3.6 per cent higher than in 1971. The rates will be 12.7 per cent higher than 1971 premiums due to the new increase.

THE AVERAGE COST of auto accidents in Illinois increased sharply during the past year, although the frequency of accidents declined, the company said. "We paid 22 per cent more for the average collision claim during the first half of this year than than we did a year ago," the spokesman said. "The cost of the average property claim was up 19.2 per cent and the average bodily injury claim was up 13.9 per cent."

The State Farm report of heavy underwriting losses mirrors an earlier announcement by Allstate Insurance Companies, Northbrook. The company suffered a $7 million underwriting loss in the first five months of 1975, on Illinois auto insurance claims. Allstate announced a 9.9 per cent average increase in auto insurance premiums effective Aug. 1.

Inflation, combined with an increase in the auto accident frequency, signal what may be the worst year in history for auto insurers, said a spokesman for the National Association of Independent Insurers (NAII) Des Plaines.

At least $250 million in underwriting losses hit U. S. insurance firms during 1975, the trade association spokesman said. "But first quarter results this year predict even greater losses by year-end," he said.

A SURVEY OF auto insurance company second quarter results, slated for release this week, will show continued losses, the NAII spokesman said.

The association's first quarter study indicates "accident frequency has begun to climb again in recent months while inflation has continued unabated," the spokesman said.

Claim costs on all types of coverage averaged 22.5 per cent higher in 1975 than in the same quarter of 1974. Bodily injury liability costs increased 10.7 per cent, property liability costs rose 15 per cent, collision costs increased 29.4 per cent and comprehensive coverage costs were up 24.9 per cent. The figures are based on a survey of 10 companies who insure 45 per cent of all autos in the U. S.

Motorists can curb auto insurance costs by choosing a policy with higher deductibles, comparison shopping for insurance, driving safely, observing the 55 m.p.h. limit and using seat belts, the NAII spokesman said.

Stock prices up sharply; gain 8.6 pts.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A rally late Wednesday afternoon drove prices sharply higher in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The meandering Dow Jones industrial average ended with a gain of 8.60 points to 832.29. It had been off around five points at the outset and ahead about two around noon before sliding again.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.55 to 86.03. The average price of an NYSE common share increased by 15 cents. Advances overtook declines, 682 to 643, among the 1,747 issues crossing the tape.

The volume, which picked up in the afternoon, totaled 12,260,000 shares, up from the 11,460,000 traded Tuesday.

MOORE McCORMACK Resources soared 8½ to 67¾ after the company declared a two-for-one stock split and raised its dividend to 40 cents a share from 35 cents.

Copperweld, trading for the first time since last Thursday, was the second most active issue, climbing 7½ to 42 in active trading on 191,100 shares. Imetal, a French firm, has made a $42.50-a-share tender offer for all of Copperweld's shares.

Texaco led the Big Board actives, off 3/8 to 23 7/8 on 228,000 shares, including a block of 99,000 shares at 23-7/8 S. S. Kresge was third, up 7/8 to 31 on 179,000 shares.

IBM gained 1½ to 182¾. The company announced programs to extend the use of System 32 to hard goods industry users and to support first-time computer users in the candy and tobacco industries.

American Telephone & Telegraph, which filed a 12-million-share offering with the Securities & Exchange Commission, gained ¾ to 47 1/8 in active trading. United Nuclear, which filed a one-million-share offering, lost 5/8 to 14 7/8.

Chicago area in line for more state park facilities

by LEA TONKIN

The Illinois Dept. of Conservation plans to expand state park facilities serving the Chicago area, said Charles Tamminga, the department's newly-appointed associate director of public lands and historic sites.

"Our strategy for Chicago metropolitan area recreation is to ring the area with a series of state parks," Tamminga said. "They're not to compete with local park districts."

Among the new park facilities slated to open in 1976 is the Lake Defiance area adjacent to McHenry Dam, McHenry County. Biking, hiking, fishing and picnicking will be allowed on a limited basis at Lake Defiance.

Tamminga said the department is attempting to balance the need for intensively used park areas and the preservation of more primitive areas in the park system. "We are constantly pressured to make parks all things to all people," he said.

Illinois Beach State Park near Zion is among the park areas designated for heavy public use. The nature preserve at the site will be maintained, however. Tamminga said the department will expand summer interpretive programs as public interest increases.

Soil, water survey talk Wednesday

Information about the Final Acres Program for the Soil Survey of Cook County will be presented at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Woodfield Shopping Center, Schaumburg.

Home buyers, developers and other persons can use the surveys to determine potential sources of water damage and soil hazards.

Soil surveys are part of a program conducted by the National Cooperative Soil Survey in Cook County, the University of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station and the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, in cooperation with the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Scientists representing the U.S. Soil Conservation Service conducted the area survey. For additional information, contact Ron Gebhardt, district conservationist, in Lake Zurich, 438-6319.

Landmark meeting Friday

Preservation of environmental and historic landmarks will be discussed at a conference Friday and Saturday at the University of Illinois campus, Champaign-Urbana. The meeting is sponsored by the university departments of architecture, geography, urban and regional planning, and history. Ernest Connolly, associate director of the National Park Service, will be the keynote speaker. For additional information contact Lachlan F. Blair, Urban/Regional planning, 909 W. Nevada St., Urbana, Ill. 61801.

Energy conference set

Environmental effects of nuclear power development will be discussed at the Third Annual Illinois Energy Conference on Nuclear Power in Illinois, Sept. 11-12 in Chicago. Projection of U. S. energy needs, nuclear safety and plant siting will also be discussed. The meetings will be held at the Pick-Congress Hotel. For additional information call James P. Hartnett, Energy Resources Center, University of Illinois in Chicago, 996-4490.

33% tax-assessment bill now law

Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday signed into law a bill requiring all Illinois counties to bring their property tax assessment rates to 33-1/3 per cent of fair market value over the next three years.

The measure, passed by the Illinois General Assembly last spring after the Illinois Supreme Court said it would set all assessment rates at 50 per cent if no action was taken, will mean higher tax bills for some Southern Illinois and rural counties.

All counties will have three years to comply with the new law. It is expected that someone would file suit challenging the bill because it would reduce revenues in counties having higher than a 33-1/3 per cent tax rate.

Cook County currently is taxing property at 33.83 per cent, slightly above the new mark. Neighboring Lake County's current property tax assessment rate is 32.48 per cent.

Illinois briefs

2 escape County Jail

Two more inmates escaped from County Jail Wednesday, bringing to 34 the number of persons who have broken out this year.

Authorities said the two men, both armed-robbery suspects, may have escaped while helping unload a truck which delivered food from the jail kitchen to the House of Correction.

Winston Moore, corrections director who has been under fire for the previous escapes, said the guard assigned to supervise the loading of the food truck apparently did not take an accurate count.

Road near Dixon crumbles

The Illinois Toll Highway Authority said Wednesday there is a problem with cracking on about 4.7 miles of the new East-West tollway near Ill. Rte. 52 east of Dixon. Edward Marsalek, deputy executive director of the toll authority, said toll road officials have called in experts from the American Concrete Pavement Assn. and the Portland Cement Assns. to try and determine the cause of the problem.

The toll authority has withheld $1.2 million due the Denton Construction Co. of Grosse Point, Mich., until responsibility for the problem is established.

Suicide at Illinois State

A freshman at Illinois State University in Normal died Wednesday when he apparently jumped from the 12th floor of a residence hall.

McClean County Coroner William Anderson ruled the death of John P. Sticklen, 18, of Ottawa, a suicide. He said a note left by the student indicated he was despondent over the death of his father last Thursday. Anderson said the note was found in Stricklen's room on the fifth floor of Wright residence hall.

Coal mine bonanza seen

Coal companies operating in Illinois are building new mines that will pump some 3,000 new jobs and from a quarter-billion to half-billion dollars into the state's economy, an industry official says.

Otis Gibson, president of the Illinois Coal Operators Assn., said the first 10 new coal mines already under construction or committed to construction will employ 3,000 persons and produce about 23 million tons of coal a year.

Judge halts rock concert

Circuit Court Judge William Vanderwater of Kane County Wednesday ordered Aurora Downs and promoters of a rock concert scheduled for this weekend to stop all plans to hold the event. Seals and Croft, the Allman Brothers and Hartsfield were to appear at the concert, scheduled for Saturday night.

Vanderwater issued an injunction "prohibiting the defendants from "further advertising, promoting, selling tickets for, in any way further preparing for, holding or attempting to hold any rock concert . . ."

The Village of North Aurora, where Aurora Downs is located, requested the injunction because of a city ordinance specifically prohibiting "rock concerts."

33% tax-assessment bill now law

Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday signed into law a bill requiring all Illinois counties to bring their property tax assessment rates to 33-1/3 per cent of fair market value over the next three years.

The measure, passed by the Illinois General Assembly last spring after the Illinois Supreme Court said it would set all assessment rates at 50 per cent if no action was taken, will mean higher tax bills for some Southern Illinois and rural counties.

All counties will have three years to comply with the new law. It is expected that someone would file suit challenging the bill because it would reduce revenues in counties having higher than a 33-1/3 per cent tax rate.

Cook County currently is taxing property at 33.83 per cent, slightly above the new mark. Neighboring Lake County's current property tax assessment rate is 32.48 per cent.

Vitamin claims are overblown

Could you please help me with a couple of vitamin questions? Is vitamin B-2 the complexion vitamin, and will B-6 really help one keep his weight down as I've been told?

Vitamin B-2 is riboflavin. Its most important role is in the complex enzyme system that enables you to tear down your food into carbon dioxide and water to release energy. Vitamins are not energy sources, they function to enable the body to release energy from food, specifically carbohydrates, fats and proteins.

When you have enough for its important role, taking additional amounts will do nothing for you at all. It is like having enough matches to light a candle, an extra box won't help once the candle is lit.

Deficiencies of riboflavin are quite rare, because it is so plentiful in our diet. Milk and milk products are a very rich source. Milk exposed to sunlight loses part of its riboflavin. It is also present in meat, of all kinds, cereals, including enriched breads, flour, macaroni and spaghetti. It is in broccoli, collards and spinach. It is hard to eat anything like a decent diet without getting enough riboflavin.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb

If a deficiency does occur it tends to affect the special areas of the skin, around the eyes and the mucous linings as around the lips.

Vitamin B-6, pyridoxine, also affects the skin and complexion. It is involved in enzyme systems used in metabolism. You get it in meats, vegetables and cereals, and it is almost impossible to have a B-6 deficiency if you eat anything like a balanced diet or these food groups.

There is absolutely no truth in the statement that B-6 causes you to lose weight. The truth is that a deficiency of it might cause weight loss because of interfering with normal metabolism.

Excess amounts of B-6 are not stored in the body. They are rapidly eliminated, so taking large doses of B-6 just wastes your money. I am aware of the current highly advertised fad of using B-6 in weight control regimes. It is pure hokum. All of these schemes work only from an associated diet that restricts calories one way or another, or because they cause you to eliminate body water, not calories, or finally because they make you sick.

Herald opinion

Plan could be made workable

The County Zoning Board should not duck the issue of low-income housing in suburban areas.

Representatives from all levels of government in recent years have shown responses to the issue that range from coughing and looking away to outright panic.

The zoning board's recent action on low-income housing is disappointing in view of the opportunity provided by a new zoning ordinance for the county to exercise leadership on this crucial question.

Alex R. Seith, zoning board chairman, announced last week that the board has eliminated from the proposed ordinance an incentive for developers to build low-income housing in unincorporated suburban areas.

The incentive would have allowed a 10 per cent increase in density for developments offering low-and moderate-income housing.

Seith said overcrowded developments would intensify opposition to low-income housing in suburban areas. But the board is not eliminating similar density incentives for open space and recreation facilities, apparently because the board has the experience with those measures needed to judge their value.

Seith believes the county's new zoning ordinance should be neutral on low-income housing and that federal agencies financing such housing are better able than the zoning board to determine the suitability of various sites.

We urge the board to reconsider its position.

The concept of zoning incentives is a novel measure that could be used to ensure a small percentage of units for low-income families in residential complexes built under county jurisdiction.

Scattering low-income families, rather than concentrating them in a few developments, would help avoid community opposition. The density incentive would encourage developers to cooperate by giving them more units to sell or rent.

And because the new zoning code is viewed as a model ordinance likely to be adopted by some suburban municipalities, a successful test of the density incentive could have widespread beneficial impact.

5 life saving heroes

Jaci Glassmaker, Kim Sarnoff, Ronald Olsen, John Jarosz and Kenneth Chmilewski are all Northwest suburban residents. All are life savers.

Mrs. Glassmaker and Kim are responsible for saving the life of Nicole Fanshier of Hoffman Estates, who got caught in deep water while wading in a neighborhood lake. Kim, who was with Nicole, ran for help and found Mrs. Glassmaker, en route to a party. Mrs. Glassmaker dove into the lake, party clothes and all, and pulled Nicole to safety. When asked about it later, Mrs. Glassmaker said, "I really didn't think about it . . . It happened so fast you don't think about it."

The three gentlemen became heroes while doing their jobs. They are Mount Prospect firemen (Olsen also is a paramedic).

They responded to a call at the home of Paul and Judy Lasinbat, where they found Mrs. Lasinbat in labor. Sensing that delivery was imminent, Olsen assisted and found the child with the umbilical cord wrapped around his neck, presenting the possibility of suffocation.

The firemen responded in such a way that the delivery was safe for both the baby and mother and, according to a Northwest Community Hospital obstetrician, they probably saved the baby's life.

Because of the reaction of all these people, two young children are alive today.

We salute these life saving heroes and hope others follow their lead when called upon to help a neighbor.

Appliance industry helps control costs

The home-appliance industry has taken a welcome voluntary step to help us control the growing cost of energy.

The industry recently announced it would support a program to improve the energy efficiency of heavy appliances by an average of 20 per cent by 1980.

Industry officials report the program will mean an initial price rise on such appliances as refrigerators, water heaters and television sets, but in the long run, the move is expected to cut the cost of energy for those appliances.

The program is in response to a threat by President Ford that mandatory standards would be set if the industry failed to develop its own. Regardless of who initiates the program, we're going to benefit if the program cuts into the amount of energy we use and thus helps trim those rising electric and gas bills.

Paramedics 'special kind of men'

Recently, it was my misfortune to have to make use of the Hoffman Estates Fire Department emergency ambulance service. I was terribly ill, and in great pain and frightened! The two paramedics who came to my house and gently ministered kindness and compassion are some special kind of men for whom I cannot adequately summon an expression of thanks befitting their generosity of spirit. I have only recently begun reading your newspaper and in that short time span have not seen one person's letter of praise for these gentle, generous men. Perhaps if you would write an article concerning these stalwarts, having them explain why they have chosen to share their warmth and strength with persons in immediate distress rather than hoarding it for themselves and their family as most of us do, then perhaps some of the other folks who read your paper would rally 'round and show some support and appreciation for the few people who will always be there in an emergency.

No one told him to hold my hand and smooth my sweating forehead all the way to the hospital — I can't imagine anything too much more repugnant than smiling into a face that looked like mine at that time, but he did! He offered to make sure my husband was on the plane home and that someone was meeting him at the airport — what thanks did he get? At the risk of telling you your job, may I respectfully suggest you come over and interview these magnificent specimens of humanitarianism and share your findings with us.

Also, as long as I'm writing to you, I think you did the right thing in putting that accused child molester's name and the accusations on the front page. As the mother of two grammar school-age children, I appreciate the warning never to welcome that man into my home. To me, the murderer is a bit less of a criminal because his victim doesn't suffer. When a young forming child goes through an experience like that, however mild, it stays with that little person all their life and reflects in every friendship, whether sexual or not, that that little (or later big) person experiences. If the victim is fortunate they will have someone in whom they can trust to help them understand how deep the fear is and how much of their life it touches and, most importantly, how to use it for good and to get rid of the ways it affects them badly.

There is no excuse for these inhuman beings to perpetrate their crimes upon innocent, forming, groping children. There are all kinds of mental health facilities at their disposal; and at the other end of the spectrum, there are houses of prostitution which cater to the other than ordinary sexual whims of their patrons which could, I assume, find some appropriate diversion for these inhuman beings. If I were judge of a case such as this, and the person were found guilty, the person would be put under intensive rehabilitative psychiatric care for no less than five full years with no chance for parole.

Another matter, would you do some reporting concerning nuclear pollution and explain in full to your purchasers the Gravel Weapons Amendment as it greatly concerns our children's future progeny who will have no control over decisions of the present made by our elected mouthpersons!

Thanks to a life saver

We have a sincere wish to express our grateful thanks to Mrs. Jaci Glassmaker of 1500 Revere Circle, Schaumburg; Kim Sarnoff, the Hoffman Estates policemen and firemen and the Buehler YMCA for saving our daughter from drowning.

Saturday, Aug. 23, Nicole (5 in September) went to South Twin Lake to feed the ducks with Kim.

It was hot, and she forgot the danger as she waded. Having gone a distance, she couldn't touch bottom and was unable to swim to shore. Kim called her and she called Kim.

Seeing some adults on the street side of the lake, Kim asked them to help her friend.

Mrs. Jaci Glassmaker, a former swimming instructor, quickly removed her shoes and swam out to Nicole who had gone under at least five times. Using one arm for swimming and with Nicole's arms around her neck, she made it to shore worrying about giving artificial respiration to so small a person. Jaci asked that the police and firemen be called and while Nicole vomited and cried had Kim get us.

The police arrived as we did and the firemen soon after. Nicole's color had returned and though she was cold and frightened she was alive thanks to Kim, Nicole's Buehler swimming lessons and especially Jaci Glassmaker.

Canada invasion ended in fiasco

by SAM FOGG
United Press International

America's first expeditionary force invaded Canada 200 years ago this month — a valiant venture that almost succeeded but finally collapsed in defeat.

The subsequent failure of the rebel forces to take the citadel of Quebec put an end to any realistic chances that Canada would become a 14th colony in rebellion.

But the two-pronged American military effort came close to its goal. Montreal surrendered without a shot to Colonial forces from Ticonderoga led by Brig. Gen. Richard Montgomery. The capital stronghold of Quebec was within a gasp of capture by a second expedition under Benedict Arnold.

Ill-luck, ill-timing, ill-weather combined to thwart the effort and kept the province of Canada in British hands as a miliary base for the next six-and-a-half years of American Revolution.

The invasion thrust northward was launched Sept. 4, 1775, when Montgomery led a flotilla of boats and 1,000 men across the Canadian border to Ile aux Noix on the Richelieu River, headed for Montreal.

On Sept. 11, the other pincer of the American invasion left Cambridge under Arnold to move up the Kennebec River through the Maine wilderness with Quebec as its target.

Opposing the invasion was the King's Gov. Guy Carleton with few more than 1,000 British regulars spread thin for the defense of Quebec, Montreal and the quickly built fortress of St. John's on the Richelieu. The genteel governor also had to rely on the help of French-Canadian militia and Indians, allies who were tepid toward the British cause at best.

Carleton's swift fortification and garrisoning of St. John's with 700 troops, however, provided the first disruption of the American stretegic timetable. It took Montgomery from early September until Nov. 2 to lay siege to the river fort and obtain surrender of the British troops, including a young officer, Lt. John Andre of later Benedict Arnold fame.

Rambunctious Ethan Allen, the hero of Ticonderoga, didn't help matters when he took off on an unauthorized foray to sieze Montreal. He and 110 of his followers wound up captives of the British.

With the surrender of St. John's, Montgomery marched his men to Montreal and entered the city unopposed on Nov. 13. But the province's forceful commander, Carleton, had slipped away and a ferocious early Canadian winter was on its way.

To the east, Arnold's army of 1,200 men fared even worse in a 185-mile struggle through the Maine wilderness. Almost from the day of departure from Fort Western (now Augusta) on the Kennebec, they had to portage their 400-pound bateaux and supplies over heavy rapids and around obstacles such as Norridgewock Falls.

Rain and sleet struck on Oct. 1 and the Americans waded waist deep through the water, their clothing covered with ice "a pane of glass thick." They surmounted the Great Carrying Place to reach the Dead River and found the area flooded for miles.

Bateaux were wrecked and discarded. Provisions spoiled and starvation came. Men ate candles and later chewed on moccasin leather and cartridge cases.

Dysentery and diarrhea took their toll. Men who could scarcely stand when they got to their feet in the mornings slogged on a stumbling march through the day.

Lt. Col. Roger Enos in the rear guard marched three companies of men home.

The army survived when an advance force led by Arnold found supplies at a Canadian settlement and the Americans straggled to the walls of Quebec. What had been planned as a 20-day march had taken 45; of the 1,000 who started out, only 700 remained.

With Carleton and his men snug in their bastion and confident of the arrival of British troops in the spring, Arnold and Montgomery were beset by another major problem. The one-year enlistments of many of their men were to expire Jan. 1 and a high percentage of them were ready to skedaddle home.

The two American leaders had little recourse but to try to capture Quebec by force and in the early morning hours of a freezing Dec. 31, Montgomery and Allen led separate detachments in a surprise attack on the lower town. The British had anticipated them, however, and had fortified the narrow, dark streets leading to the Heights. At the head of his men, Montgomery was instantly killed by a cannon shot. His second-in-command panicked and turned back even though the British defenders before him had fled.

On the other flank, Arnold was wounded in the leg by a musket ball and was carried, protesting, to the rear. Leadership fell to Capt. Daniel Morgan, a brawny Virginia rifleman who bore the lashmarks of a British army flogging on his back.

Morgan energetically led the Americans over barricades with scaling ladders and they scattered British defense forces to lay open the way to the upper town. But with victory in sight, he heeded the cautious advice of his subordinates and paused to wait for Montgomery's men to join him.

The hesitation proved fatal. The British regrouped and cut off Morgan's retreat. After furious fighting in the cul de sac, the Americans surrendered and the assault was done for. Morgan and 476 fellow officers and men were captives.

Reduced to an army of 800, Arnold pulled back across the river. Reinforcements arrived in March but so did an ineffective American commander, Brig. Gen. Daniel Wooster, who was fond of his bottle and disliked Arnold from their Connecticut days.

Smallpox swept through the camp and Wooster's successor, Gen. John Thomas, died of it. Fresh British troops and warships were expected soon. Another enlistment hitch was due to expire April 15.

The invasion of Canada had collapsed. The fledgling American army had learned the taste of defeat. It also had begun to learn to soldier.

Plan could be made workable

The County Zoning Board should not duck the issue of low-income housing in suburban areas.

Representatives from all levels of government in recent years have shown responses to the issue that range from coughing and looking away to outright panic.

The zoning board's recent action on low-income housing is disappointing in view of the opportunity provided by a new zoning ordinance for the county to exercise leadership on this crucial question.

Alex R. Seith, zoning board chairman, announced last week that the board has eliminated from the proposed ordinance an incentive for developers to build low-income housing in unincorporated suburban areas.

The incentive would have allowed a 10 per cent increase in density for developments offering low-and moderate-income housing.

Seith said overcrowded developments would intensify opposition to low-income housing in suburban areas. But the board is not eliminating similar density incentives for open space and recreation facilities, apparently because the board has the experience with those measures needed to judge their value.

Seith believes the county's new zoning ordinance should be neutral on low-income housing and that federal agencies financing such housing are better able than the zoning board to determine the suitability of various sites.

We urge the board to reconsider its position.

The concept of zoning incentives is a novel measure that could be used to ensure a small percentage of units for low-income families in residential complexes built under county jurisdiction.

Scattering low-income families, rather than concentrating them in a few developments, would help avoid community opposition. The density incentive would encourage developers to cooperate by giving them more units to sell or rent.

And because the new zoning code is viewed as a model ordinance likely to be adopted by some suburban municipalities, a successful test of the density incentive could have widespread beneficial impact.

Depressing similarities of surveys

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

Surveys that attempt to measure the quality of education have a depressing sameness in their results.

Inevitably, surveyors find that children from middle-and upper-class homes do better than children from poor economic backgrounds. The suburbs outscore both the inner city and rural communities consistently.

In addition, many tests seem to show that the ability of students to master the basic skills is declining. Scores of college entrance tests are dropping and numerous parents are becoming concerned about the achievement of their children.

Recently the Education Commission of the States, a Denver-based organization which studies educational trends, released some results compiled by the National Assessment of Educational Progress, one of the group's projects.

Tests of 9, 13, and 17-year-olds and young adults produce much the expected results.

RESULTS OF THE National Assessment tests in math have been well publicized. Tests found many students and adults could not balance checkbooks, compute correct change or determine the most economical size of a product.

The test results also showed that suburban students score better in math than the national average, and considerably better than inner-city students. Tests in reading, science and social science showed the same pattern, although deficiencies were not as great in many of the national results as they were in math.

All these results are predictable and consistent with everything we know about education. A couple of findings in the National Assessment report are not quite so predictable, however, and make an interesting commentary on what separates suburban students from those who live in other areas.

THE NATIONAL ASSESSMENT on music, which tried to determine musical interests and activities of students, was the one place in which suburban students scored below average. Students from the inner city and rural areas said they listened to more music on television and radio than students from the suburbs. However, suburban students were more likely to play an instrument than the other two groups.

On the topic of "citizenship," suburban students generally outscored those in other groups, except in one interesting instance.

STUDENTS AND young adults from the inner city and rural areas know more about the workings of their local governments than other students. While students in both groups are below the national average in their knowledge of government at earlier ages, by the time they are 17, they are at or above the national average in knowledge of local government.

Many critics of suburban government may understand why suburban students fall short in understanding local government. Suburban governments are not always the most easily understood.

It probably also is true that persons in small towns or big cities find out about the workings of their government from either great need or close proximity. The suburbs have problems, but they are perhaps either less critical or more remote than those facing persons in the inner city or the country.

IT IS POSSIBLE that as the National Assessment project continues, it will find more evidence of the problems facing our schools. In addition, it may turn up more sidelights on the nature of our schools and the students in them — such as the finding that suburban students aren't as interested in music as other groups — which may not point to problems but are interesting to know.

If the National Assessment project could just come up with some solutions to the problems it finds, everyone could be satisfied.

Delay, diffuse, delegate--you win

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

And, now, here's The Committee Game — invented by Halas L. Jackim, professor of education at the State University of New York College at Oswego.

It's just in time for all brave souls ready to throw themselves into committees around college or the schoolhouse in the new academic year.

Jackim's game, based on 23 years of infiltrating committees, should help all the school committee members — from PTA to school board, lunchroom, field trip and what-not. In the Chronicle of Higher Education, he tells about rules, etiquette and scoring system. The purpose of a committee, as he sees it: "To prevent the development of significant decisions; to delay or diffuse an issue by making it unrecognizable."

The thing about etiquette: just remember to "show disgust for any act aimed at achieving a speedy discharge of a committee's mission."

Also: "Resist all attempts to delegate individual responsibility. Rather, insist on committee action for every little bit of committee business."

From five to 15 may play the committee game; the greater the number, the more confusion.

SOME EXCERPTS from the Jackim scoring system:

- 5 points for converting the obvious meaning of a statement into something different by approaching it from a creative oblique angle.
- 5 points for forgetting an earlier decision and bringing it up for renewed discussion.
- 10 points for throwing in a new term, preferably from a foreign language.
- 10 points for injecting an irrelevant issue.
- 5 points for canonizing the need for student participation.
- 5 points for citing a study, book, or other authority and quickly changing the subject before being questioned about it.
- 5 points for gesticulating with glasses, pipe or pen.
- 5 points for telling the group that it has a communication problem.
- 5 points for taking twice as long as needed to say something.
- 15 points for phrasing a statement in such a way that a player opposed to it fails to recognize it and votes for it.
- 25 points for wearing down the opposition to the point where it will vote for anything simply to adjourn the meeting.

P.S.: Jackim says players can be disqualified if they persist in their effort to clarify the committee's goals.

Bob Lahey

The revolutionary gets his barbs

The revolution is dead, if it ever lived at all.

The great revolutionary movements of history have had spokesmen who carved a place in history for their ideas, whether true or false.

Thomas Paine wrote "Common Sense" and rallied thousands to the cause of independence for the American colonies. Karl Marx wrote "Das Kapital" and infected millions with the dedication to the war on capitalism.

The radicals of the 1960s, however just their cause, found themselves with news sheets like the Rolling Stone and the Berkeley Barb.

THE ROLLING Stone, essentially a music-review publication which prided itself on giving vent to all sorts of kooky viewpoints, has survived to become an "in" publication for the younger set — and has even produced such rather significant writers as Dr. Hunter Thompson, with his own peculiar view of the political world.

The Berkeley Barb, however, has proven itself to be a vehicle of crass exploitation of, of all people, the working class.

Bob Lahey

The Barb was originated in the mid-1960s by a self-styled radical named Max Scherr. According to one account, Scherr used to amuse himself at the age of 14 by reading the Communist Manifesto to his chums in Baltimore, under a streetlight.

If you happen to have a child in the neighborhood of 14 — or if you have been 14 yourself — I suggest that you consider the probability of a group of youngsters of that age sitting under a streetlight, reading the Communist Manifesto — or even Hans Brinker.

More likely you might find them perusing something deliciously salacious — say a magazine with explicit depiction of male phalluses and naked women and slyly enticing "want ads" — which is what Max Scherr made of his revolutionary publication.

NOW FROM the West Coast comes the news that the employes of the Berkeley Barb are trying to organize a union. After years of either voluntary labor or remuneration that sometimes reached the level of $15 per week, the dedicated staffers of the Berkeley Barb are beginning to conclude that they have been ripped off.

Young revolutionists, before they attach themselves to a guru, should record this fact in their minds:

Max Scherr, who made himself a key figure in a "new revolution" of the 1960s, is now involved in a lawsuit over who should get what from the disposition of his publication, the Berkeley Barb. One of the issues in dispute is whether the publication is worth $500,000 or $1 million.

Depressing similarities of surveys

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

Surveys that attempt to measure the quality of education have a depressing sameness in their results.

Inevitably, surveyors find that children from middle-and upper-class homes do better than children from poor economic backgrounds. The suburbs outscore both the inner city and rural communities consistently.

In addition, many tests seem to show that the ability of students to master the basic skills is declining. Scores of college entrance tests are dropping and numerous parents are becoming concerned about the achievement of their children.

Recently the Education Commission of the States, a Denver-based organization which studies educational trends, released some results compiled by the National Assessment of Educational Progress, one of the group's projects.

Tests of 9, 13, and 17-year-olds and young adults produce much the expected results.

RESULTS OF THE National Assessment tests in math have been well publicized. Tests found many students and adults could not balance checkbooks, compute correct change or determine the most economical size of a product.

The test results also showed that suburban students score better in math than the national average, and considerably better than inner-city students. Tests in reading, science and social science showed the same pattern, although deficiencies were not as great in many of the national results as they were in math.

All these results are predictable and consistent with everything we know about education. A couple of findings in the National Assessment report are not quite so predictable, however, and make an interesting commentary on what separates suburban students from those who live in other areas.

THE NATIONAL ASSESSMENT on music, which tried to determine musical interests and activities of students, was the one place in which suburban students scored below average. Students from the inner city and rural areas said they listened to more music on television and radio than students from the suburbs. However, suburban students were more likely to play an instrument than the other two groups.

On the topic of "citizenship," suburban students generally outscored those in other groups, except in one interesting instance.

STUDENTS AND young adults from the inner city and rural areas know more about the workings of their local governments than other students. While students in both groups are below the national average in their knowledge of government at earlier ages, by the time they are 17, they are at or above the national average in knowledge of local government.

Many critics of suburban government may understand why suburban students fall short in understanding local government. Suburban governments are not always the most easily understood.

It probably also is true that persons in small towns or big cities find out about the workings of their government from either great need or close proximity. The suburbs have problems, but they are perhaps either less critical or more remote than those facing persons in the inner city or the country.

IT IS POSSIBLE that as the National Assessment project continues, it will find more evidence of the problems facing our schools. In addition, it may turn up more sidelights on the nature of our schools and the students in them — such as the finding that suburban students aren't as interested in music as other groups — which may not point to problems but are interesting to know.

If the National Assessment project could just come up with some solutions to the problems it finds, everyone could be satisfied.

Delay, diffuse, delegate--you win

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

And, now, here's The Committee Game — invented by Halas L. Jackim, professor of education at the State University of New York College at Oswego.

It's just in time for all brave souls ready to throw themselves into committees around college or the schoolhouse in the new academic year.

Jackim's game, based on 23 years of infiltrating committees, should help all the school committee members — from PTA to school board, lunchroom, field trip and what-not. In the Chronicle of Higher Education, he tells about rules, etiquette and scoring system. The purpose of a committee, as he sees it: "To prevent the development of significant decisions; to delay or diffuse an issue by making it unrecognizable."

The thing about etiquette: just remember to "show disgust for any act aimed at achieving a speedy discharge of a committee's mission."

Also: "Resist all attempts to delegate individual responsibility. Rather, insist on committee action for every little bit of committee business."

From five to 15 may play the committee game; the greater the number, the more confusion.

SOME EXCERPTS from the Jackim scoring system:

- 5 points for converting the obvious meaning of a statement into something different by approaching it from a creative oblique angle.
- 5 points for forgetting an earlier decision and bringing it up for renewed discussion.
- 10 points for throwing in a new term, preferably from a foreign language.
- 10 points for injecting an irrelevant issue.
- 5 points for canonizing the need for student participation.
- 5 points for citing a study, book, or other authority and quickly changing the subject before being questioned about it.
- 5 points for gesticulating with glasses, pipe or pen.
- 5 points for telling the group that it has a communication problem.
- 5 points for taking twice as long as needed to say something.
- 15 points for phrasing a statement in such a way that a player opposed to it fails to recognize it and votes for it.
- 25 points for wearing down the opposition to the point where it will vote for anything simply to adjourn the meeting.

P.S.: Jackim says players can be disqualified if they persist in their effort to clarify the committee's goals.

Mid-Suburban showcases new look in cross country

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross Country Editor

The Mid-Suburban League is showcasing its new look this autumn — separate North and South conferences — and in cross country the change takes on special significance.

It means that somebody besides Fremd will have a chance to win a trophy. North and South dual meet champions will put their titles on the line in the MSL meet Oct. 21.

Also, for the first time in 1975, girls will be running cross country competitively. A girls race will be featured during MSL dual meets, beginning today with Prospect at Schaumburg, Hersey at Hoffman Estates, and Rolling Meadows at Elk Grove. In addition, Wheeling will host St. Viator.

Fremd must still be regarded as the favorite to take North conference and league honors — if only off the Vikings' 1974 third-place state finish. But coach Ron Menely's perennial MSL winners will be severely tested by a rugged Palatine team in the North and several rising powerhouses in the South.

Fremd will be "catchable" because 1974's district and sectional champs lost four harriers to graduation. This year's team has two juniors and a sophomore in the top three.

"This is the year to get Fremd," said Hoffman coach Jim Swift, whose own team could do the chasing. "They're a little thin this year, but next year they'll be back strong."

Another reason the Vikings might be caught is the continued improvement throughout the rest of the league. Plenty of schools will show off title contenders. Palatine has amazing depth; Conant, Prospect, and Schaumburg boast a formidable group of juniors; and Forest View has some top individuals.

If there is a favorite's choice in the tightly balanced South, it would be Hoffman, a team that tied for fifth in conference last year without any seniors. This season Swift has a quintet of returning lettermen — Sam Cox, Dave Porzel, Ed Elliott, Steve Lind, and Kevin Rooney.

"Cox is our most proven runner," said Swift, "but the rest of the team will be closer to him this year. Everybody should be up there with him."

Individually, everybody in the league will be chasing John Filosa, Fremd's sensational junior. Eleventh in the state meet as a sophomore, Filosa has been working hard all summer and turned in a 2:34 marathon last month in the Paavo Nurmi classic.

Filosa and fellow junior Dan Tischler will join sophomore Bob Ratcliffe to give the Vikings a core of underclass runners. Dean Elleman, Fremd's only senior with any real varsity experience, is the fourth man. Menely is searching vigorously for a fifth man.

"We're not going to be as down as some people figure," warned Menely on the eve of the season. "I don't think I've ever had a group come in to the season in such good shape. We've got the base.

"We've got two goals this year," the Fremd coach continued. "Number one, we want to qualify for state — and I think we'll be in there. Second, we want to win conference. We've won it three or four years in a row and we feel we've got an obligation there."

Menely is also optimistic about his girls program, headed up by coach Vicki Keith. Top harriers for Fremd are Lori Lagerhausen and Lois Johnson.

Palatine's nucleus of seniors Dave Horwath, Pete Kearns and Mike Monson and junior Tony Vargas will be fortified by a pair of outstanding sophs, Chuck Elliott and Tom Johnson. Other top prospects on coach Joe Johnson's team are Brian Kessler, Jeff Siemon, and John Dahlgren.

Conant, which finished in a second-place tie last year with Palatine, returns two varsity juniors, Pat Hagen and Jeff Krautwurst, and adds third-year harriers Dan Cummings and Jeff Walter. Coach Jack Ary also welcomes the addition to the varsity of sophomores Bill Baird and Jim Schopp. Baird was MSL soph champ last year as a freshman.

Schaumburg's superb sophomore team of a year ago will make up the heart of the Saxon's harrier squad. Steve and Bruce Anderson, Randy Lewis, Bill Solik, Bob Reuter, and Rich Stanish will join seniors Larry Viola and Mark Glabinski.

Prospect's Matt Lawson and Jack Pittman, a pair of tested juniors, will be instrumental in the Knights' title challenge. Another junior, Pat White, will be slowed by an injury. Bill Hrbek, Jerry Kelley, Tim Soper, and sophomore Mark Smith are other Prospect hopefuls.

Forest View's hopes are pinned on junior Darryl Robinson, fifth last year in the MSL conference meet. Robinson and senior half-mile champ Steve Schellenberger should provide some excitement for the Falcon followers this season.

Take a peak in Playboy — Illini, 'Cats picked as losers

If you want some good reading this month, take a peek at September's Playboy.

Specifically, pages 145 to 148. If you happen to get distracted along the way, the article's 27 pages past the foldout.

Oklahoma — holder of the longest winning streak — is picked No. 1. No surprise there.

Back in the 1960s — to many people's surprise — this magazine actually tabbed Iowa to go 9-1 and win the national title. Instead, my alma mater went 1-9. I lost respect for my team and Anson Mount's predictions after that.

Obviously, the state's top teams — Illinois and Northwestern — were nowhere in sight. Besides missing from the top 20, neither is among the "Possible Breakthroughs." Instead, Wisconsin, Purdue and Iowa (!!!) are there.

Illinois and Northwestern are dead last in the Big Ten with 2-9 marks. But how can you trust a prediction story that leaves Notre Dame out of the top 20?

Don't despair, Illini and Wildcat fans. Just cancel your subscriptions and buy another magazine.

Dan Beaver — 'Hefner All-America'

There's some good news for Illini grid followers coming out of Hefner's magazine — placekicker Dan Beaver is a pre-season All-America choice.

Also, in a section marked "This Year's Supersophs," Kurt Steger is tabbed as one of the top four quarterbacks in the nation.

Former area player sidelined at Illinois

Bad news from Champaign last week — John Norton was sidelined indefinitely.

Norton, who played for Arlington before going on to star in junior college two years, was a top candidate for a tackle spot. Then his scapula (shoulder blade) was fractured.

Several other area players have had injuries over the last few years at Illinois. While others were somewhat frustrated by several position changes. Area Illini almost seemed jinxed.

Monday night football at Champaign?

Even after spending $1½ million, there some "bugs" in Illinois' Astro-Turf. A section near the left sideline has sunk slightly.

"There are a lot of good features," said athletic director Cecil Coleman, "but for that kind of money, we expect a bit more than we got."

Meanwhile, Coleman's making plans to have lights installed for practice and intramural play, but only half enough candle power for night games and one-fourth the needed light for network TV.

The NCAA allows just three regular TV appearances for a team in a two-year period, but that doesn't count night games or bowl games. Coleman is anxious to investigate the idea of a Monday night TV game within the next two years.

Let's see pros working for union scale

Turning to pro sports, could you imagine a superstar like Joe Namath only earning a yearly salary of $125,000 from the Jets?

That would be the maximum if the National Football League exercised its option, certified by the National Labor Relations Board, to set a union scale of wages.

Rookie quarterbacks would start at about $25,000 with four-year veterans making $35,000 and superstar signalcallers being the only ones over the $100,000 mark.

Running backs would start at $24,000 with four-year men earning $32,000 and guys like John Brockington taking home $100,000.

Average pay for a four-year player would be around $30,000.

"If that happened," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the players association, "I don't know what the players would do."

I know what the fans would do — enjoy the game more.

Home court good in MSC tennis

The home court ruled in the first day of Mid-Suburban Conference tennis and if the trend holds through today's second round of competition, only two teams will remain unbeaten in the league.

The six winners in Tuesday's play all treated their visitors to convincing losses, the closest being Wheeling's 4-3 trimming of Buffalo Grove. Hersey thumped Forest View 7-1, Prospect knocked off Rolling Meadows 6-2, Fremd thrashed Elk Grove 6-1, Arlington stunned Conant 8-0 and Palatine beat Schaumburg 6-1.

Prospect and Palatine will return to the home court today with the Knights taking on Forest View and Wheeling traveling to the Pirates' perch.

Other league games will find Hersey at Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows at Buffalo Grove, Fremd at Conant and Hoffman Estates at Schaumburg.

Adjustments at Wheeling

Back on track?

This is a big question being asked around Wheeling these days as the Wildcat football program regroups for another season. Wheeling gridders have put together several off campaigns and fans are wondering aloud if the pendulum is about to swing back in the other direction.

It's a question that looms particularly prominent in the mind of one Gerry Clinnin, who not coincidentally is doing the most right now to prompt a positive response. Previously a successful prep coach in California and more recently an assistant at Prospect, he is the one taking the Cat helm and assuming the big task of righting the ship.

"I think it would be kind of premature to start waving a banner already although we are optimistic about improving on the last couple of years," Clinnin began. "The newness of the whole thing is the key. It'll take a few games before this wears off and we can take a more objective look at the program and its promise."

By newness, Clinnin isn't just talking about striking up friendships with the coaches either. Every head man has his own system and while the rest of Wheeling is adjusting to his, Clinnin has the job of learning the names and merits of a host of new youngsters.

There's more too. "We have several kids out for football the first time at the varsity level and a number of others assuming entirely new positions from last season. There's a lot of learning going on all over the place here and it's how well this progresses that will probably determine our success over the year."

A key example of the new approach is 6-2, 195-pound George Raupp, one of a dozen returning lettermen and a player already making an impression on Clinnin. He was a guard last fall but Raupp has been converted to center this season while the coach lauds him as having the potential to be one of the offensive lineman in the area.

Flanking Raupp will probably be guards Dave Nelson (6-0, 180) and Tom Lueders (6-1, 189) and tackles Greg Berkeley (6-1, 215) and Al Pakaski (6-2, 215) although veteran Doug Peterson (6-3, 225) will be getting a crack at one of the tackle berths.

At tight end the team is deep, with Tim McGinn (5-10, 165), Larry Fry (6-0, 175) and Steve Smalley (6-1, 180) in the running. Smalley last year battled for the quarterback position, but he has left that job up to another returnee, Glenn Barry (6-0, 175) and will probably concentrate more on defense this year.

Joining Barry in the backfield will be fullback Curt Rathje (5-10, 185) and halfback John Piff (6-0, 180) while the probable starting offense will be rounded out by split end Bob Terryberry (6-1, 165) and flanker Mike Dollen (5-8, 150).

Rathje and Piff along with Leuders are the only juniors likely to see early heavy action on this mostly senior squad.

Defensively, the game will change but not many of the performers. Raupp is slated for middle guard, Berkeley and Peterson have been tabbed for tackle, Smalley and Rathje will team with Jeff Stinson (5-9, 175) at linebacker, Nelson or McGinn will work with Mark Larson (5-10, 170) at end and Terryberry, Dollen and Keith Pecka (6-4, 170) will roam the secondary.

Other names to watch for are place kicker Scott Jones (Rathje will handle punting chores), split end and defensive end Bucky Black, and tight end Jan Simonson who is lost for the present time to a knee injury.

While the learning goes on, Clinnin sees several other keys to the Wildcat future taking form. With two-thirds of his starting lineup going both ways, durability will be important along with the need for more depth.

"I hope some of our underclassmen come along quickly but, in the meantime the regulars appear to have the conditioning for the long haul."

And the new coach summarized as he prepared the 'Cats for their opener at Rolling Meadows next Friday and an upswing from last year's 1-7 slate: "I think we'll be a more explosive team and while we're not going to run by people, I believe we'll have decent speed. We're going to be a steadier club too, and that's very important."

New coach, new hopes at Conant

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Aldous Huxley has nothing on John Ayres and the Conant Cougars. It is a brave new world at the Hoffman Estates school as Ayres, who has a reputation for righting floundering football programs, puts his magic touch to a team that was 1-6 in the Mid-Suburban League South Division last year.

"I think the reason I've been successful as a coach is by treating football for what it is at the high school level — a game," Ayres said. "I'm going to work my butt off and so is my staff and my team, but I like to make football fun and enjoyable for the players."

Ayres was hired from Fairbury-Cropsey High School last spring after a successful (14-4) two-year stint at the central Illinois school. He isn't expecting miracles but he is pleased with what he found upon coming north.

"I didn't expect to find a great deal of talent but I have found several things to work with," he said. "Enthusiasm throughout the squad and a great deal of desire from the upper classmen.

"That's quite a bit to work with if you ask me. I think if you watch us all year you'll see a steady improvement with each game."

Ayres' rebuilding skills will be put to an extreme test when Conant hosts Buffalo Grove in the opener Friday night. The Bison were 7-1 in their first full varsity campaign and have enough good football players back to be given serious title consideration.

"If the kids aren't awed by Buffalo Grove, and I don't think they will be," Ayres said, "I think with some breaks we can be in the game.

"Right now we're working with a lot of inexperienced players and it's going to take time for them to develop."

The movers and shakers from the Conant offense last year have all graduated. Quarterback Bob Borczak, who was the Cougar MVP last year, is gone, a loss of 567 yards passing and 188 rushing.

Ayres is looking hard at two candidates for Borczak's job as the opener approaches.

"We've installed a completely new system this year and I'm looking for the quarterback that can take control of the team and run the offense," Ayres said.

The eager hands looking to run that offense are senior Tom Haupert and junior Scott Schaefer. Neither have had a lick of varsity experience but both look capable of running the plays in practice.

Running plays in practice and running them in a game are two different coin flips, though, and whomever does get the quarterback job will get some protection from an offensive line that includes four seniors and a junior.

Senior Wayne Reed will handle the

Cubs bomb Cards; Sox lose in 10

The Chicago Cubs and White Sox wore split personalities after Wednesday night baseball games.

Pinch-hitter Pete LaCock hit a grand slam homer of reliever Bob Gibson with two out in the seventh inning Wednesday night in St. Louis to give the Chicago Cubs an 11-6 victory over St. Louis and move the Cardinals five games back in the National League East race.

Gibson began the seventh after the Cardinals scored five runs in the sixth to tie the score at 6-6. He walked Jose Cardenal with one out and Mike Tyson threw wildly on Champ Summers' single to put runners on first and third. Gibson then walked Andy Thornton but got Manny Trillo to hit into a force out at the plate. Gene Hiser, running for Summers, scored on Gibson's wild pitch for a 7-6 Chicago lead.

Pinch-hitter Jerry Morales was walked intentionally to load the bases and the count went to 3-2 on LaCock before he blasted a drive over the right field wall for his sixth homer of the season and the first Chicago grand slam of the year.

The loss dropped Gibson's record to 3-10 while the win went to Chicago reliever Buddy Schultz, who took over with two out in the sixth to record his first major league victory.

Lou Brock drove in three runs with a two out bases-loaded double as St. Louis pulled from a 6-1 deficit to tie it in the sixth. Cubs' starter Willie Prall, who pitched the first 5-2/3 innings in his major league debut, was pulled in favor of Tom Dettore who loaded the bases setting the stage for Brock's double.

Meanwhile, Al Cowens tripled home two runs with two out in the 10th inning to give the Kansas City Royals and rookie right-hander Dennis Leonard a 5-4 win over the Chicago White Sox in Chicago.

The win, Leonard's 12th against five losses, ran his winning streak to seven games. Marty Pattin pitched the last inning for his first save.

Amos Otis opened the 10th for the Royals with a single, but was forced at second when George Brett's drive bounced off losing pitcher Dave Hamilton and set up a play at second base. Mayberry singled to move Brett to second before Cookie Rojas struck out. Cowens then tripled deep to left-center for his game-winning hit.

Back-to-back homers by Brett, his ninth, and Mayberry, his 30th, which tied Reggie Jackson for the league lead, gave the Royals a 2-0 lead in the fourth.

The White Sox got one run in the sixth on Ken Henderson's single, Bill Melton's double and Mike Squires' infield out. They moved in front 3-2 in the seventh when Jorge Orta stroked his eighth homer after Jerry Hairston singled.

The Royals tied it off Hamilton (5-3) in the eighth on Brett's double and Mayberry's run-scoring single.

White Sox manager Chuch Tanner was thrown out of the game for the fifth time this season after arguing called fourth ball to Kansas City's Frank White in the seventh inning.

COSTLY PICKOFF. Cubs' Andy Thornton dives back into third ahead of St. Louis catcher Ted Simmons' throw which hit the baserunner and permitted Thornton to score one of 11 Cub runs.

Mid-Suburban showcases new look in cross country

by ART MUGALIAN

The Mid-Suburban League is showcasing its new look this autumn — separate North and South conferences — and in cross country the change takes on special significance.

It means that somebody besides Fremd will have a chance to win a trophy. North and South dual meet champions will put their titles on the line in the MSL meet Oct. 21.

Menely is also optimistic about his girls program, headed up by coach Vicki Keith. Top harriers for Fremd are Lori Lagerhausen and Lois Johnson.

Conant, which finished in a second-place tie last year with Palatine, returns two varsity juniors, Pat Hagen and Jeff Krautwurst, and adds third-year harriers Dan Cummings and Jeff Walter. Coach Jack Ary also welcomes the addition to the varsity of sophomores Bill Baird and Jim Schopp. Baird was MSL soph champ last year as a freshman.

Schaumburg's superb sophomore team of a year ago will make up the heart of the Saxon's harrier squad. Steve and Bruce Anderson, Randy Lewis, Bill Solik, Bob Reuter, and Rich Stanish will join seniors Larry Viola and Mark Glabinski.

Prospect's Matt Lawson and Jack Pittman, a pair of tested juniors, will be instrumental in the Knights' title challenge. Another junior, Pat White, will be slowed by an injury. Bill Hrbek, Jerry Kelley, Tim Soper, and sophomore Mark Smith are other Prospect hopefuls.

Forest View's hopes are pinned on junior Darryl Robinson, fifth last year in the MSL conference meet. Robinson and senior half-mile champ Steve Schellenberger should provide some excitement for the Falcon followers this season.

"If the kids aren't awed by Buffalo Grove, and I don't think they will be," Ayres said, "I think with some breaks we can be in the game.

"Right now we're working with a lot of inexperienced players and it's going to take time for them to develop."

The movers and shakers from the Conant offense last year have all graduated. Quarterback Bob Borczak, who was the Cougar MVP last year, is gone, a loss of 567 yards passing and 188 rushing.

Ayres is looking hard at two candidates for Borczak's job as the opener approaches.

"We've installed a completely new system this year and I'm looking for the quarterback that can take control of the team and run the offense," Ayres said.

The eager hands looking to run that offense are senior Tom Haupert and junior Scott Schaefer. Neither have had a lick of varsity experience but both look capable of running the plays in practice.

Running plays in practice and running them in a game are two different coin flips, though, and whomever does get the quarterback job will get some protection from an offensive line that includes four seniors and a junior.

Senior Wayne Reed will handle the

Take a peak in Playboy– Illini, 'Cats picked as losers

If you want some good reading this month, take a peek at September's Playboy.

Specifically, pages 145 to 148. If you happen to get distracted along the way, the article's 27 pages past the foldout.

Oklahoma — holder of the longest winning streak — is picked No. 1. No surprise there.

Back in the 1960s — to many people's surprise — this magazine actually tabbed Iowa to go 9-1 and win the national title. Instead, my alma mater went 1-9. I lost respect for my team and Anson Mount's predictions after that.

Obviously, the state's top teams — Illinois and Northwestern — were nowhere in sight. Besides missing from the top 20, neither is among the "Possible Breakthroughs." Instead, Wisconsin, Purdue and Iowa (!!!) are there.

Illinois and Northwestern are dead last in the Big Ten with 2-9 marks. But how can you trust a prediction story that leaves Notre Dame out of the top 20?

Don't despair, Illini and Wildcat fans. Just cancel your subscriptions and buy another magazine.

Dan Beaver — 'Hefner All-America'

There's some good news for Illini grid followers coming out of Hefner's magazine — placekicker Dan Beaver is a pre-season All-America choice.

Also, in a section marked "This Year's Supersophs," Kurt Steger is tabbed as one of the top four quarterbacks in the nation.

Former area player sidelined at Illinois

Bad news from Champaign last week — John Norton was sidelined indefinitely.

Norton, who played for Arlington before going on to star in junior college two years, was a top candidate for a tackle spot. Then his scapula (shoulder blade) was fractured.

Several other area players have had injuries over the last few years at Illinois. While others were somewhat frustrated by several position changes. Area Illini almost seemed jinxed.

Monday night football at Champaign?

Even after spending $1½ million, there some "bugs" in Illinois' Astro-Turf. A section near the left sideline has sunk slightly.

"There are a lot of good features," said athletic director Cecil Coleman, "but for that kind of money, we expect a bit more than we got."

Meanwhile, Coleman's making plans to have lights installed for practice and intramural play, but only half enough candle power for night games and one-fourth the needed light for network TV.

The NCAA allows just three regular TV appearances for a team in a two-year period, but that doesn't count night games or bowl games. Coleman is anxious to investigate the idea of a Monday night TV game within the next two years.

Let's see pros working for union scale

Turning to pro sports, could you imagine a superstar like Joe Namath only earning a yearly salary of $125,000 from the Jets?

That would be the maximum if the National Football League exercised its option, certified by the National Labor Relations Board, to set a union scale of wages.

Rookie quarterbacks would start at about $25,000 with four-year veterans making $35,000 and superstar signalcallers being the only ones over the $100,000 mark.

Running backs would start at $24,000 with four-year men earning $32,000 and guys like John Brockington taking home $100,000.

Average pay for a four-year player would be around $30,000.

"If that happened," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the players association, "I don't know what the players would do."

I know what the fans would do — enjoy the game more.

Home court good in MSC tennis

The home court ruled in the first day of Mid-Suburban Conference tennis and if the trend holds through today's second round of competition, only two teams will remain unbeaten in the league.

The six winners in Tuesday's play all treated their visitors to convincing losses, the closest being Wheeling's 4-3 trimming of Buffalo Grove. Hersey thumped Forest View 7-1, Prospect knocked off Rolling Meadows 6-2, Fremd thrashed Elk Grove 6-1, Arlington stunned Conant 8-0 and Palatine beat Schaumburg 6-1.

Prospect and Palatine will return to the home court today with the Knights taking on Forest View and Wheeling traveling to the Pirates' perch.

Other league games will find Hersey at Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows at Buffalo Grove, Fremd at Conant and Hoffman Estates at Schaumburg.

Cubs bomb Cards; Sox lose in 10

The Chicago Cubs and White Sox wore split personalities after Wednesday night baseball games.

Pinch-hitter Pete LaCock hit a grand slam homer of reliever Bob Gibson with two out in the seventh inning Wednesday night in St. Louis to give the Chicago Cubs an 11-6 victory over St. Louis and move the Cardinals five games back in the National League East race.

Gibson began the seventh after the Cardinals scored five runs in the sixth to tie the score at 6-6. He walked Jose Cardenal with one out and Mike Tyson threw wildly on Champ Summers' single to put runners on first and third. Gibson then walked Andy Thornton but got Manny Trillo to hit into a force out at the plate. Gene Hiser, running for Summers, scored on Gibson's wild pitch for a 7-6 Chicago lead.

Pinch-hitter Jerry Morales was walked intentionally to load the bases and the count went to 3-2 on LaCock before he blasted a drive over the right field wall for his sixth homer of the season and the first Chicago grand slam of the year.

The loss dropped Gibson's record to 3-10 while the win went to Chicago reliever Buddy Schultz, who took over with two out in the sixth to record his first major league victory.

Lou Brock drove in three runs with a two out bases-loaded double as St. Louis pulled from a 6-1 deficit to tie it in the sixth. Cubs' starter Willie Prall, who pitched the first 5-2/3 innings in his major league debut, was pulled in favor of Tom Dettore who loaded the bases setting the stage for Brock's double.

Meanwhile, Al Cowens tripled home two runs with two out in the 10th inning to give the Kansas City Royals and rookie right-hander Dennis Leonard a 5-4 win over the Chicago White Sox in Chicago.

The win, Leonard's 12th against five losses, ran his winning streak to seven games. Marty Pattin pitched the last inning for his first save.

Amos Otis opened the 10th for the Royals with a single, but was forced at second when George Brett's drive bounced off losing pitcher Dave Hamilton and set up a play at second base. Mayberry singled to move Brett to second before Cookie Rojas struck out. Cowens then tripled deep to left-center for his game-winning hit.

Back-to-back homers by Brett, his ninth, and Mayberry, his 30th, which tied Reggie Jackson for the league lead, gave the Royals a 2-0 lead in the fourth.

The White Sox got one run in the sixth on Ken Henderson's single, Bill Melton's double and Mike Squires' infield out. They moved in front 3-2 in the seventh when Jorge Orta stroked his eighth homer after Jerry Hairston singled.

The Royals tied it off Hamilton (5-3) in the eighth on Brett's double and Mayberry's run-scoring single.

White Sox manager Chuch Tanner was thrown out of the game for the fifth time this season after arguing called fourth ball to Kansas City's Frank White in the seventh inning.

COSTLY PICKOFF. Cubs' Andy Thornton dives back into third ahead of St. Louis catcher Ted Simmons' throw which hit the baserunner and permitted Thornton to score one of 11 Cub runs.

The Chicago Bears, moving swiftly to shore up their pass receiving corps, Wednesday traded defensive tackle Dave Gallagher to the New York Giants for flanker Bob Grim and an undisclosed draft choice.

Grim, 30, was an all-pro with the Minnesota Vikings in 1971 before going to New York in the trade that returned quarterback Fran Tarkenton to the Vikings. In eight NFL seasons, he has caught 155 passes for 2,367 yards and 14 touchdowns. Last year, the 6-foot, 200-pounder caught 29 passes for 466 yards.

The deal came just eight days after Bears General Manager Jim Finks purchased speedy end Ron Shanklin from the Pittsburgh Steelers, suddenly giving the Bears two of the more respected pass catchers in the NFL.

The Bears also cut four veterans and a rookie and placed them on waivers to bring the squad size to the National Football League limit of 49.

The departing veterans and their years of service were free safety Garry Lyle, eight years; guard Ernie Janet, four years; kicker Mirro Roder, three years, and wide receiver Wayne Wheeler, two years. Also lopped was guard Rick Anthony, who played with Orlando in the World Football League last season.

In addition, to the 49 on their roster, the Bears also have three members of the College All Star team in camp, Mike Hartenstine, Virgil Livers and Walter Payton. The All Stars will be counted on the roster for the first time when the next cut is made to 46 Tuesday.

'Winds not at fault'

The legal counsel for the Chicago Winds said Wednesday it was the league — not the Winds' owners — which failed to meet its financial commitments and forced the club's downfall.

The attorney, Kenneth Zak, denounced the WFL for "improperly and unfairly" damaging the reputations of the Winds owners in statements issued when the club was disenfranchised Tuesday.

The league stated that two of the Winds' investors withdrew the $175,000 they had on deposit with Zak, and the remaining investors refused to replace the money. The Chicago group was headed by Eugene Pullano, a businessman.

Zak said, "The investors who were referred to as having withdrawn were not part of the Chicago group but were brought in by the league as part of the responsibility which the league assumed to help fund the Chicago Winds.

"The failure to obtain the additional investors was the responsibility of the league and not the Chicago group," he said. "As a result of the announcements which have been made the personal and business reputations of the Chicago investors and their families have been improperly and unfairly damaged. These people have not defaulted in their obligations to the league in any manner."

Hawks anxious for varsity debut

by PAUL LOGAN

It's probably fitting that the youngest school in Dist. 211 — Hoffman Estates — should make its varsity football debut against the oldest — Palatine.

Hoffman's celebrating its third birthday; Palatine's its 100th! When the Hawks of head coach Bill Gourley take the field Saturday, they'll be counting on a brief but successful tradition to help them get by one of the most tradition-laden schools around.

The Hawks didn't lose a game as sophomores. As juniors, they were 8-0. And, unlike some new schools, Hoffman didn't play a varsity game at the end of the jayvee season. So they're plenty hungry. So's their coach.

"When you work with the same group of kids two years, you kind of want to see what we've accomplished," said Gourley.

The last time Gourley coached a varsity team (1965 at North Chicago) it finished with a perfect record, posted six shutouts and only gave up 15 points. Gourley had an 18-5-1 record in three years there with two league titles and a second.

Last year his junior varsity Hawk team notched five shutouts. But Gourley's realistic about the challenge ahead of his youthful team:

"If we get five shutouts this year, it means I've been going to church three times on Sundays.

"We weren't facing the people with the offense we're going to face now . . . sophisticated offenses. We'll have to be prepared to do more things . . ."

And it will have to do "more things" with less personnel than usual. Hoffman only has 30 healthy players (one's injured). Besides being small in number, the team is also small in size, averaging 165.5 pounds.

"They've gotten tired of hearing how small they are," said Gourley, whose squad met and defeated several teams that were much bigger than themselves last season. "It doesn't bother them anymore."

The Hawks' offense made opponents look little in '74, outscoring them 230 to 21. En route to this lopsided total, the Hoffman attack ran 70 per cent of the time.

"Establishing a running game was one of the things we wanted to do as a junior team," he said. This year Gourley's hoping to run only 60 per cent of the time because of the improvement of quarterback Wayne Jackson (5-foot-10, 175).

"Wayne's done a nice job for us in the pre-season. I'm really happy the way he's come along.

"He has a feeling for what I want offensively . . . We certainly won't be afraid to throw the ball."

Joining Jackson in the backfield will be fullback Joe Parille (5-11, 183), tailback Dave Lipko (5-9, 155) and either Bill DiPuma (5-8, 143) or Tom Schmalz (5-5, 150) at wingback.

Making up the line will be split end Kevin Stalley (5-11, 167), tight end Tresy Todd (6-0, 175), guards Frank Gurecki (5-10, 165) and Jim Thomas (5-11, 180), tackles Jim Broucek (6-0, 203) and center Doug Rush (6-0, 173).

As they did last year, the Hawks will be running out of the 'I' formation with pretty much of a multiple type offense. However, the defense will be more sophisticated.

Starting on defense will be tackles Broucek and Tim Lebert (5-10, 193), ends Thomas and Mike Bynes (5-11, 175), linebackers Gurecki and Parille, middle guard Chad McCreary (5-9, 155) and halfbacks John Borczak (5-10, 147), Stalley, John Staback (6-0, 165) and DiPuma.

What will 1975 bring? Gourley isn't making any predictions. The Hawks must stay healthy because of the numbers situation.

"Quite frankly, as far as I'm concerned we're a question mark for everybody," he added.

Goourley will be assisted by David Pentz, Larry Niwa and Mike Batina.

Making up the line will be split end Kevin Stalley (5-11, 167), tight end Tresy Todd (6-0, 175), guards Frank Gurecki (5-10, 165) and Jim Thomas (5-11, 180), tackles Jim Broucek (6-0, 203) and center Doug Rush (6-0, 173).

As they did last year, the Hawks will be running out of the 'I' formation with pretty much of a multiple type offense. However, the defense will be more sophisticated.

Starting on defense will be tackles Broucek and Tim Lebert (5-10, 193), ends Thomas and Mike Bynes (5-11, 175), linebackers Gurecki and Parille, middle guard Chad McCreary (5-9, 155) and halfbacks John Borczak (5-10, 147), Stalley, John Staback (6-0, 165) and DiPuma.

What will 1975 bring? Gourley isn't making any predictions. The Hawks must stay healthy because of the numbers situation.

"Quite frankly, as far as I'm concerned we're a question mark for everybody," he added.

Goourley will be assisted by David Pentz, Larry Niwa and Mike Batina.

Girls softball honors top summer performers

The Northwest Suburban Girls' Softball League has chosen its Most Valuable Players for the season. The Dee Johnson MVP awards were compiled by managers voting for one girl on the opposing team after each game. The results honored Lisa Jaworski in the Gold Division and Renee Eling and Julie Perna in the Silver Division of the "A" League.

Also praised were Tina Harrison of the Gold and Johanna Stevens of the Silver in the "B" League and Laura Bencko and both Mary Beth Berkshire and Carol Enright in the Gold and Silver Divisions of the "C" League.

In a best two out of three World Series, the Schaumburg, Spuds beat the Hoffman Bloomers, 18-10 in the "A" League, Bensenville beat Bloomingdale, 22-1 in the "B" League and Hoffman beat Streamwood, 11-9, in the "C" League.

Grid rules meeting at Hersey tonight

IHSA football official Norm Geske will moderate a football rules interpretation meeting for interested coaches and officials tonight at 7:30 in the Little Theater at Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas in Arlington Heights.

Record bubble

Back in 1917, M. Pauliquen of Paris remained under water for six minutes and 29 4/5 seconds. That is still the world's record for holding one's breath under water.

Standard is standard

The size and weight of the standard baseball has remained the same in the 103 years since it was first adopted.

Conant under new grid leadership snapping and at 6-foot-1, 200 pounds he is the biggest man on the Conant front wall.

Seniors Bill Behringer (6-0, 180) and Kevin McGrath (6-0, 200) will line up at tackle. Senior Ron Burhite (5-8), 160) and junior Jeff Johnson (5-11, 175) will man the guard positions.

The Conant backfield has high hopes with the new diversified playbook and the running of Steve Stompanato. At 5-1, and 135, the senior will fill Ayres' I-Back slot as well as return punts and kickoffs.

Stompanato, who was used mostly as a return man last year and was always a break away scare, is the only player with rushing yardage from last year. Stompanato ran for 216 yards in 48 carries in 1974.

Senior Dan Neswold will operate at flanker and Mark Furling, (5-9, 165) will be the Up-Back.

Mike Frisch (6-3, 150), who started for the Conant basketball team, and Tim O'Neil (6-1, 155) will be the split ends.

On defense Rich Johnson (5-11, 180), Tom Izzo (5-11, 165) and Jeff Cleys (6-1, 195) are battling for the tackle slot. Behind them will be linebackers Jeff Johnson, Mark Gallois (6-0, 165) and Dave Jablonski (5-7, 155).

The tackles will pinch around middle guard Carl Paulson (5-7, 150) and the defensive ends will be senior Chris Schroeder (5-9, 150) and junior Jim Heisen (6-0, 160).

Tony Stompanato, younger brother of Steave, Frisch and Burhite will control the air lanes in the defensive secondary.

Worst disaster

On Feb. 26, 1918, an estimated 604 were killed in what was the worst disaster linked to sports in recent history. Some stands at the Hong Kong Jockey Club race course collapsed and caught fire.

Track honors to Scott Mielke

Scott Mielke of Schaumburg High School has been named a Prep Track and Field Athlete of the Year by coaches and sportswriters. The Saxon high jumper qualified for the state meet as a junior and recorded a season-best of 6-4.

Mielke, who is also a two-way starter for the Schaumburg football team, joins Schaumburg track teammate Bruce Mahlig on the prestigious Athlete-of-the-Year list. Selections are made on the basis of athletic performance, sportsmanship, and team contribution.

Those athletes chosen for the special honor will be featured in the Prep Track and Field annual Athlete-of-the-Year publication. Records will be on display at the National Track and Field Hall of Fame in Charleston, W. Va.

Archery age

Archery, the oldest sport in which any kind of equipment is used, was practiced as early as 20,000 years before Christ.

Harmon forecast returns

The Harmon Football Forecast, which has achieved a most respectable position after 18 seasons of service, returns to Herald sports pages this morning with the first of its weekly collegiate prognostications.

Harmon predictions will appear each Thursday or Friday in the Herald, depending on when the college games are scheduled.

It may be abbreviated, but this first week of collegiate football should be very interesting. Last year's surprise power in the Southwest Conference, Baylor, takes on Mississippi. Georgia tussles with Pittsburgh in a North-South battle and in a Monday night attraction, Alabama meets Missouri.

In addition, five of seven teams which have been promoted to Division I status will be in action for the first time as major college football teams.

Mississippi has not been the Southeast Conference strongman it once was and has a tough assignment against Baylor, Harmon's seventh-ranked team in 1975. The Rebels will get off to a poor start. Make it Baylor by 17 points.

It should be almost a coin-flipper between the Pitt Panthers and Georgia Bulldogs. Georgia finished 6-5 in the regular season last year. Pitt was 7-4. Make this meeting Georgia by two points.

Alabama-Missouri inaugurates Monday Night Football, which comes into full swing when National Football League teams begin their Monday games later this month.

Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide, still shaken after losing to Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl last January, will come back strong. Missouri, 7-4 last year, isn't ready to pull such a great upset. So . . . Alabama by 10 points.

Five new additions to major college football who will play on Saturday are Arkansas State, Ball State, Central Michigan, Northeast Louisiana and Southwest Louisiana.

Central Michigan won the National Collegiate Division II championship last year. Despite graduation losses, Central should whip Western Michigan by 27 points.

Southwest Louisiana is picked the only loser in the group as we've favored Long Beach State by nine points.

YMCA slates recreational swim times

Northwest Suburban YMCA 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines has announced its recreational swim times. Adults may swim daily from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. except for a brief period from 6:15-7 p.m. on Mondays and on Friday until 6 p.m. Saturdays are open from 12:15 until 10 p.m. except for an hour between 3-4 p.m.

There are several Adult and Length swim periods where anyone who can swim in deep water is invited to swim lengths. There are family swim periods every evening starting at 7 p.m. and on Saturday from 6 p.m. Open swim periods begin at 11:30 a.m. until 4:45 p.m. and on Saturdays from 12:15 until 6 p.m.

Any child eight and over may swim in the open swim periods without a parent. Those under eight must be accompanied by an adult.

Spider's reputation exaggerated

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Jamie Ferguson, 11, of Thomasville, N.C., for his question:

WHY DOES THE BLACK WIDOW EAT HER MATE?

The black widow is a busy black spider with a downright rotten reputation.

In the world of humans, a bad reputation is almost sure to be exaggerated as the tale is passed from person to person. The same thing often happens when we circulate tales about one of nature's animals. True, the black widow spider is a mean female to be avoided. But she is not as mean as some people would have us believe.

Almost all spiders have fangs and poisonous glands. When molested, they tend to jab in a dose of poison, though in most species both the fangs and poison are too weak to do much harm to humans. All spiders feed on juices extracted from their victims. They build many types of ingenious traps to capture insects, plus insect-size victims who may be other spiders. Since the black widow is a spider, the fact that she has poisonous glands and may be a cannibal is no surprise.

However, her poisonous venom is worse than most, and once in a while her cannibalism may include her husband. But researchers who have studied her in detail insist that her black reputation is greatly exaggerated. She is a handsome spider, dressed in shiny black with a bright red patch (shaped somewhat like an egg timer) on the underside of her fat, round abdomen. She measures about half an inch, and the male of the species is quite a bit smaller.

Mating occurs when the husband hands her a package of sperm cells, wrapped in silken webbing. These are placed in her egg pouch and used as needed to fertilize many future batches of eggs. Observers insist that the male usually scuttles away to court other female black widows. But not always.

Sometimes a female black widow mistakes her mate for one of the tasty victims trapped in her web. She binds him in silken thread, jabs him with digestive juices and makes a meal of him. Usually this happens when the male is rather old and feeble and too slow to scoot out of her way. Obviously she has no strong family feelings, and a slow-moving male within reach is too tempting to resist.

Like most spiders, the black widow is shy and tries to avoid humans. But when cornered or scared, she jabs in her poisonous fangs. The wound is very painful and needs medical attention. Once in a while, when the victim is very old, very young or sick, a black widow bite may be fatal. During the past 200 years, we know of only about 50 persons in the United States who have been killed by the venomous black widow.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Edmond Matloss Jr., 10, of Gallup, N.M., for his question:

WHAT IS AN OBELISK?

In ancient days, there were no newspapers and no history books. But people liked to keep records of the things that happened. Sometimes they carved them on stone so that the records of history could be read by future generations. In ancient Egypt, perhaps 5,000 years ago, these records often were carved on an obelisk.

The most famous obelisks were tall stone pillars with four sides and a pointed top shaped like a pyramid. The four sides were crowded with letters and words that looked like simplified pictures.

This strange writing told about kings of long ago. Sometimes they described interesting items such as battles or new laws. However, on many of the old obelisks the picture-writing is too hard to read — and the whole thing remains a myst

Modern practice dictates low card lead

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

What do you lead from a three-card suit? The old rule was to lead the top unless headed by an honor, in which case you would lead the lowest.

The modern expert practice is to lead the bottom from three small. Today's hand shows the advantage of the modern practice.

West opens the deuce of spades against South's three notrump. East rises with the ace and leads the suit back.

Now put yourself in South's position. If his opponent makes old-fashioned leads, he knows where the queen of spades is. He rises with his king and loses the club finesse, but it doesn't cost him his contract. West's queen blocks the suit. There might even be an unexpected dividend, West might drop his queen to unblock and thereby establish South's jack.

South might make the same play against a modernist, but he would be guessing well — not playing a cinch.

Modern practice dictates low card lead

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

What do you lead from a three-card suit? The old rule was to lead the top unless headed by an honor, in which case you would lead the lowest.

The modern expert practice is to lead the bottom from three small. Today's hand shows the advantage of the modern practice.

West opens the deuce of spades against South's three notrump. East rises with the ace and leads the suit back.

Now put yourself in South's position. If his opponent makes old-fashioned leads, he knows where the queen of spades is. He rises with his king and loses the club finesse, but it doesn't cost him his contract. West's queen blocks the suit. There might even be an unexpected dividend, West might drop his queen to unblock and thereby establish South's jack.

South might make the same play against a modernist, but he would be guessing well — not playing a cinch.

What to know about selling your home

by LEA TONKIN

Setting a reasonable price can be a family's most difficult chore in a home sale.

That's the opinion of Terence Bolger, president of T.A. Bolger Realtors, headquartered in Rolling Meadows. A seller should understand the procedure of determining a home's fair market value and other steps in a home sale, Bolger said. "The ultimate price will be determined by a buyer," he added.

Compare the selling price of similar homes, consider location, the condition of the single-family house or condominium unit and other features in a pricing decision. "Also, you should know your competition," Bolger said. A "for sale by owner" approach can be used. Bolger said a homeowner can reisk delay in selling a home or the problem of pricing a home too high or too low for the market, however.

"IT'S COMMON and recommended to talk to different brokers," Bolger said of an owner's next move once the decision is made to sell the house through a real estate firm. A seller may receive various opinions on the market value of the house. Commissions, home sale guarantee programs and other features can vary among realty firms.

A seller will be asked to sign a listing agreement, when the choice of a real estate firm is made. It is generally a 90-day agreement. The asking price, date of possession, the realty company's commission and a list of personal property included in the sale should be specified in writing.

"We charge 7 per cent," Bolger said of the real estate commission on the final sale price. "It is negotiable between the seller and broker."

Bolger said a salesperson or broker can start showing the home immediately to prospective buyers. Generally within 24 to 72 hours of the listing agreement, the home listing will be distributed in an area multiple listing service.

THE MAP MULTIPLE Listing Service (MLS) and the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors MLS link area firms in a program that should increase a seller's opportunities for a speedy sale. Through an MLS, a home is listed by an agent for one firm. Then it may be shown by the listing sales person or broker and representatives of MSL firms throughout the area.

Bolger estimates the time between the listing agreement date and a sale is generally three and a half to four weeks. "Some sell in the first couple of days. Some take longer," he said.

A seller can increase the attractiveness of his home to potential buyers by fixing leaky faucets and other minor problems and maintaining a neat appearance in a home, Bolger said. "Things they're going to throw out anyway when they move out should be thrown away," he said.

When the time comes for the house to be shown to prospective buyers, Bolger said, the owners should stay in the background. Sellers may greet the broker and buyers at the door. Buyers prefer to visit a house unaccompanied by nervous onlookers, however.

The listing broker should have a key to the house. The key can be loaned to other brokers. Generally, a realty agent will call before buyers are brought to the house.

A POTENTIAL buyer's decision to make an offer to purchase the house will trigger a series of events, said

Area's population boom declined during 1970-73

The population boom that hit northwest Cook County in the 1960s continued at a slower pace from 1970 to 1973, a Continental Bank survey shows.

Charles F. Willson

Area population increased by an average 21,282 persons a year during the 1960s, said Charles F. Willson, vice president of area development at Continental Bank, Chicago. The rate decreased to an average 11,324 residents a year for the 1970 to 1973 period, he said.

The Northwest area defined in the Continental Bank study is bounded by Lake, McHenry, Kane and DuPage counties, O'Hare Airport and the Des Plaines River. The study is part of a series which the bank's area development department updates on a regular basis.

THE BANK survey indicates residents living in the "Golden Corridor" from Des Plaines to Barrington account for more than 52 per cent of the population of northwest Cook County.

"Substantial commercial and industrial development has accompanied the area's rapid suburbanization," the report said. "Construction of the Northwest Tollway and O'Hare Airport within the area helped to make this one of the most dynamic and economically viable areas of metropolitan Chicago."

Twenty-four per cent of the employed area population work in Chicago and 91 per cent work in Cook County. Manufacturing is the leading employer, accounting for 31 per cent of the area's working residents.

Residential construction of some 8,100 units a year is reported for the period 1970 to 1973. The rate is among the highest in the entire metropolitan area.

CONTINENTAL'S studies of Chicago and suburban Cook County also showed:

- From 1970 to 1973, the population of central Chicago increased by three-tenths of one per cent to 1,740,600. This was the first measured increase since the 1950 census but was still 19 per cent below the 1950 level.
- The construction of single-family homes on Chicago's South Side almost equalled the construction of apartment units from 1970 to 1973. During this time, 2,791 homes and 3,304 apartments were constructed, which is comparable to the ratios in most suburban areas.
- Northern Cook County depends more on Chicago for employment than any other suburban Cook County area. Sixty per cent of northern Cook County's work force works in Chicago, with 11.5 per cent employed in the central business district.
- From 1970 to 1973, south Cook County experienced a population increase of 8 per cent to 452,000, closely following the county's high of 8.6 per cent in the northwest suburbs.
- To accommodate southwest Cook County's increased population, more than 3,800 dwelling units have been constructed every year since 1970. Generally, the construction of apartments has exceeded home construction, particularly in the communities which are closer to Chicago.

Realtors back changes in clean air bill

Clean air and water pollution control legislation drawn up in the U.S. House of Representatives is supported by the National Assn. of Realtors (NAR). The association urged Congress, when it returns from a recess, to adopt the House approach and reject the U.S. Senate proposed amendment to the Clean Air Act of 1970.

The association said the issue is whether Congress will consider regulations affecting only clean air and water, or whether the amendment will be used as a means of imposing federal land-use controls.

The Clean Air Act requires control of "indirect sources" of air pollution. It provides for review of planned developments such as shopping centers, highways and parking lots which may attract automobile traffic. Permits would be required for the construction of the facilities and other measures taken to alleviate pollution.

The House bill to amend the Clean Air Act would delay the indirect source controls until the auto manufacturers meet exhaust emission control standards. The NAR favors the delay. The parking facility does not pollute the air, but the auto traffic attracted to the development does cause pollution problems, the association said.

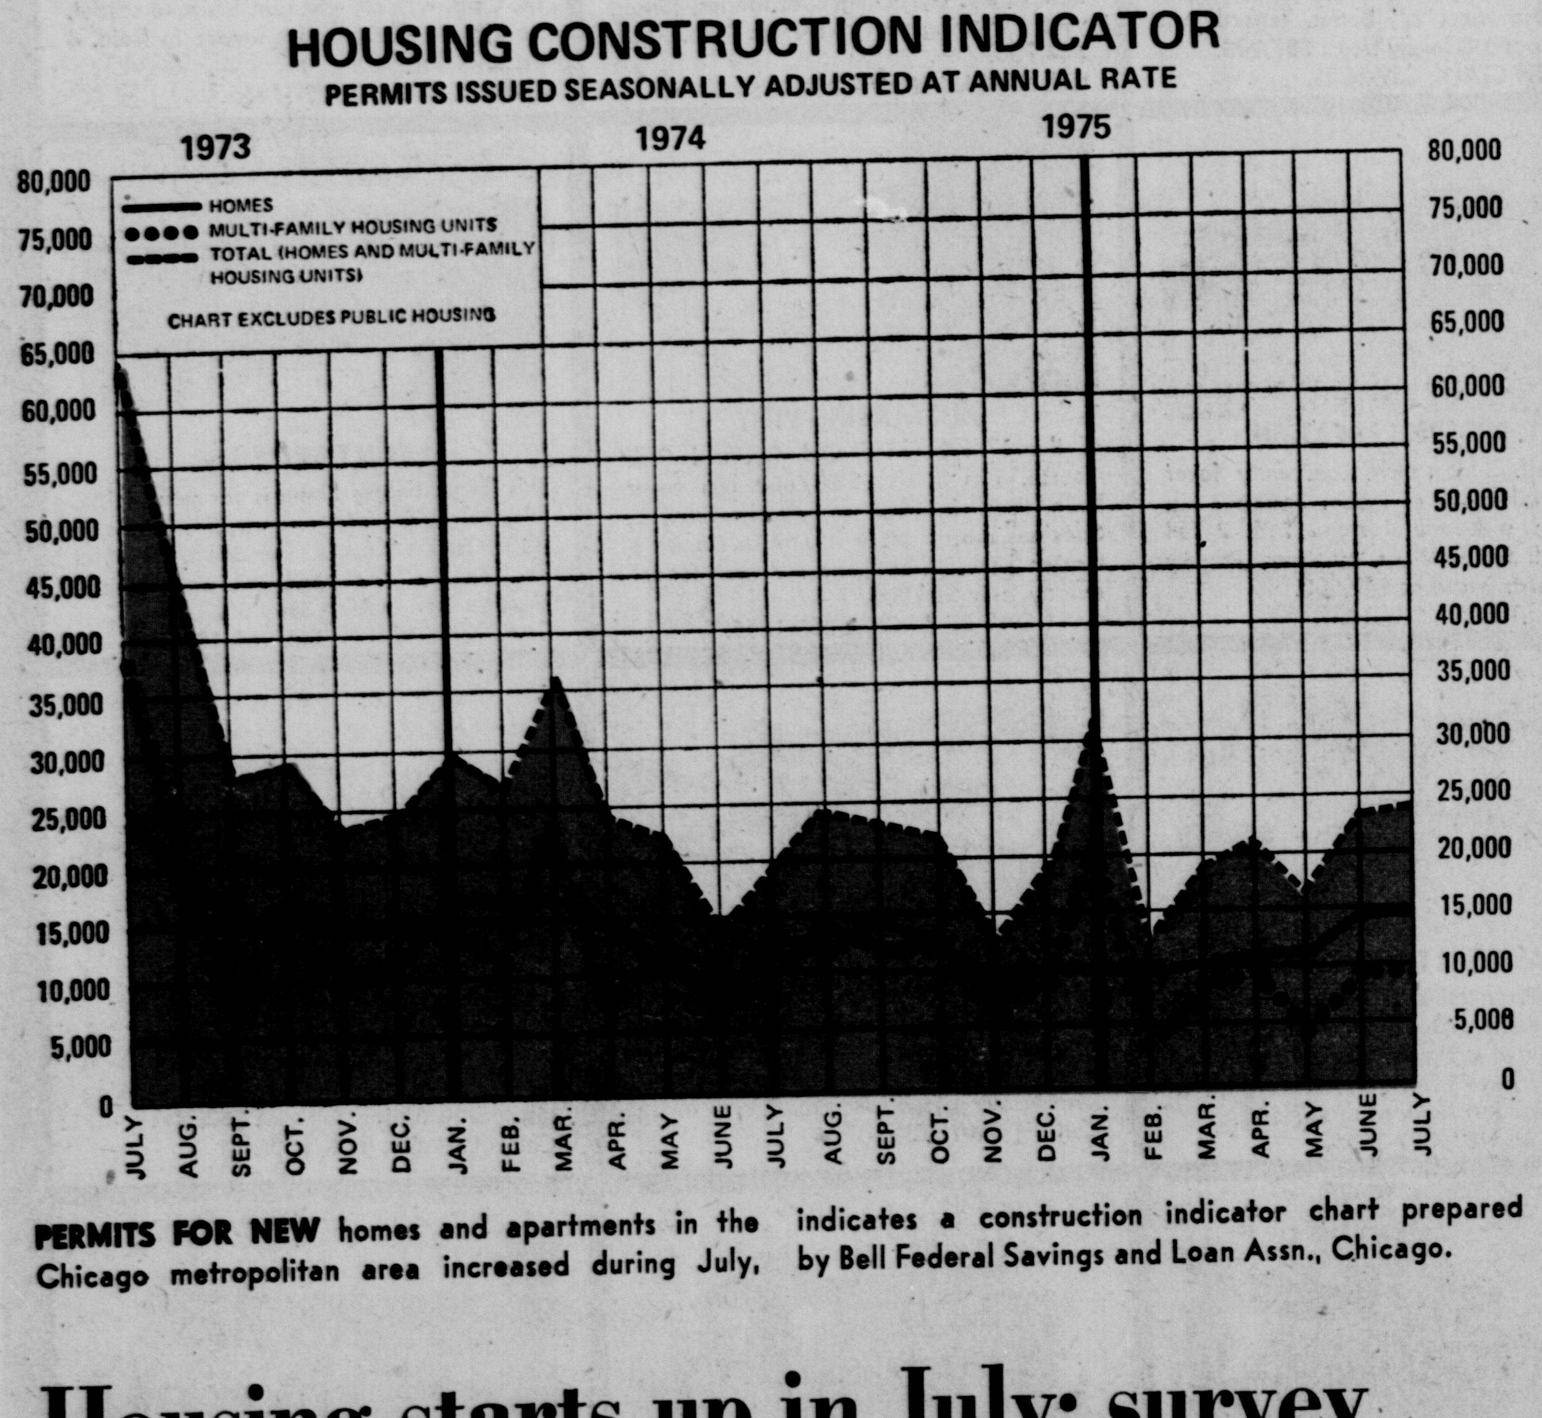
Credit unions offer mortgage loans

Illinois credit unions may offer first-mortgage real estate loans under a law signed Aug. 28 by Gov. Daniel Walkers.

HB 773 provides that mortgage loans of up to $50,000 may be offered at an interest rate that does not exceed a quarter of one per cent below the rate allowed under usury law. The current state usury ceiling, or limit on mortgage loan interest rates, is 9.5 per cent.

Credit union loans will be allowed for secured non-real estate loans to $20,000 or 12.5 per cent of capital surplus.

The new law raises the limit of unsecured loans to $5,000 or 5 per cent of the lending credit union's unimpaired capital and surplus, whichever is less.



PERMITS FOR NEW homes and apartments in the Chicago metropolitan area increased during July, indicates a construction indicator chart prepared by Bell Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Chicago.

Housing starts up in July: survey

Permits for new homes and apartments in the Chicago metropolitan area increased for the second consecutive month during July, said the Bell Federal Savings Survey of new building.

Schaumburg ranks fourth among area housing leaders.Permits for 225 single-family houses were issued in the municipality nor the first seven months of 1975.

The total number of new area housing permits issued increased to 2,094 units during July, compared to 1,790 permits issued a year earlier. Single-family home permits rose 24 per cent from 1,176 to 1,457 units during the period. Apartment permits totaled 637 units, a 4 per cent increase above July 1974 results of 614 units.

Suburban area single-family home permits increased from 921 permits to 1,078 units in July, 1975.

For the first seven months of 1975, the combined total of permits issued for single-family homes and apartments was 8 per cent lower than figures reported a year earlier. The 11,881 unit figure compares to 12,960 for the first seven months of 1974.

Baskin-Robbins celebrates

The "World's Most Delicious Grand Opening" moves into its second week at the new Baskin-Robbins 31 Ice Cream Store at 5 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights with an offer that will gladden the heart and the palate of every ice cream lover. For seven days starting today, and continuing through Sept. 10 Baskin-Robbins customers will receive twenty cents off the cost of any ice cream sundae, according to The Mondels, storeowners. During the third week of the store's Grand Opening Celebration, customers will receive a big, bouncy, plastic Fun Ball with the purchase of any ice cream pie or ice cream cake. The offer begins Sept. 11 and continues through Sept. 17.

In the fourth and final week of the celebration, customers will receive a set of four tulip-shaped, plastic parfait cups with the purchase of a quart of ice cream. Plastic spoons and a recipe instruction sheet are included in the parfait pack which allows the family to throw its own parfait party.

The Baskin-Robbins store will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. during the fourth week of the "World's Most Delicious Grand Opening Celebration."

Upturn in sales reported

A sudden and dramatic upturn of used home sales activity is reported by the four area offices of Century 21, Arlington Realty. July sales of 67 homes amounting to $3.3 million set two new, all time records for the 25-year-old firm.

The number of home sales and the dollar volume were both more than double the same figures for July 1974, and were the highest ever posted for a single month. The previous record high for a single month was April of this year with $3.2 million. After a slow first quarter of 1975, when sales fell 10 per cent behind the first quarter of 1974, a sudden and sustained upswing beginning in April and continuing through July, has rocketed the seven month volume to more than $15.9 million, or 30 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago.

In posting the record July sales, two of the firm's four offices posted sales in excess of $1 million. North Arlington office (Bob Anderson, manager) and Palatine area office (Terry Leighty, manager) were both in the million plus category. For the North Arlington office, it marked the fourth month in a row with sales topping the million mark.

The average sales price for Century 21 homes sales is $53,474. Average for the entire northwest suburban area is $48,500, up approximately $3,000 from one year ago.

Listing activity is keeping pace with home sales, according to Herb Carl, co-owner and general sales manager for Century 21, Arlington Realty. New exclusive listings taken by the firm are up 31 per cent over last year.

Real estate facts

by Virgil E. Grand

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

Every piece of facial tissue is not "Kleenex." Every cola-type soft drink is not "Coke." And everyone in the real estate business is not a Realtor.

The term Realtor is a registered service mark — just as "Kleenex" and "Coke" are registered trademarks — which identifies professionals in real estate who subscribe to a strict Code of Ethics as members of the National Association of Realtors.

Realtors are further identified by membership in local boards and state associations. In our area, the local organization is Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, with offices at 1655 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heighs. The Illinois Association of Realtors has offices in Springfield.

Members of the national, state and local Realtor organizations display the Realtor identification — the stylized "R" — or the name Realtor in their signs, advertising and business cards.

Persons in the real estate business who are licensed by the state to sell real estate but are not members of the National Association and its state and local organizations — by their own choice and for whatever their reasons — are not Realtors, and are incorrectly identified when called by that name.

Members of the National Association of Realtors pledge to abide by the Realtors Code of Ethics, which demands highoy professional conduct. The essence of the Code is the Golden Rule, contained in the preamble: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so to them."

The Code is enforced through professional standards committees which are maintained by local boards. These, in effect, are grievance committees charged with the responsibility of hearing complaints and arbitrating disputes. The public as well as members of the board can bring complaints before the committee. Disciplinary action can consist of suspension or expulsion from membership. A licensed real estate broker who is not a Realtor is governed only by state licensing controls.

Through the Code of Ethics, the National Association is working to unify and standardize the practices of its members. Thus the term Realtor has come to connote competence, fair dealing and integrity in business relations.

What does all this mean to the public? First, the public has a definite interest in protecting the Realtor service mark because the term designates professionals in real estate who subscribe to a strict Code of Ethics which governs their relations with each other and with the public.

Furthermore, the term identifies persons in the real estate business who are affiliated with well-organized real estate activities; who have available to them the accumulated knowledge of more than 60 years of education, experience and research in real estate business methods and standards; and who, in the judgment of their peers in the business, have personal standards and business competence of sufficient merit to warrant entrusting them with the important fiduciary relationships involved in real estate transactions.

Research underway to protect cities

Research to protect cities and their inhabitants from natural hazards such as earthquakes and high winds is under way in the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

As cities and their populations grow, so does the damage which natural disasters can cause. For research on building design to protect against such hazards, the National Science Foundation has awarded $476,500 to UIUC.

Heading the research are Profs. Nathan M. Newmark and William J. Hall, internationally-known in the fields of earthquake engineering, structures and materials engineering, and soil dynamics. Other UIUC civil engineering faculty involved are Profs. A. R. Robinson, W. H. Walker and D. A. W. Pecknold.

The engineers explain that the same facts apply in designing structures to withstand earthquakes, winds, wave forces, landslides, floods, ice and explosions.

Their goal is to develop simplified, new or improved design techniques. The research will utilize the university's extensive computer facilities.

It will involve simplified analysis and design methods, taking into account the strength of materials under earthquake or wind stress and the limits of materials under forces which exceed their elastic strength.

Also involved will be design which takes into account interaction between above and below ground parts of a structure and the surrounding soil or rock.

Baskin-Robbins celebrates

The "World's Most Delicious Grand Opening" moves into its second week at the new Baskin-Robbins 31 Ice Cream Store at 5 E. Campbell, Arlington Heights with an offer that will gladden the heart and the palate of every ice cream lover. For seven days starting today, and continuing through Sept. 10 Baskin-Robbins customers will receive twenty cents off the cost of any ice cream sundae, according to The Mondels, storeowners. During the third week of the store's Grand Opening Celebration, customers will receive a big, bouncy, plastic Fun Ball with the purchase of any ice cream pie or ice cream cake. The offer begins Sept. 11 and continues through Sept. 17.

In the fourth and final week of the celebration, customers will receive a set of four tulip-shaped, plastic parfait cups with the purchase of a quart of ice cream. Plastic spoons and a recipe instruction sheet are included in the parfait pack which allows the family to throw its own parfait party.

The Baskin-Robbins store will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. during the fourth week of the "World's Most Delicious Grand Opening Celebration."

Upturn in sales reported

A sudden and dramatic upturn of used home sales activity is reported by the four area offices of Century 21, Arlington Realty. July sales of 67 homes amounting to $3.3 million set two new, all time records for the 25-year-old firm.

The number of home sales and the dollar volume were both more than double the same figures for July 1974, and were the highest ever posted for a single month. The previous record high for a single month was April of this year with $3.2 million. After a slow first quarter of 1975, when sales fell 10 per cent behind the first quarter of 1974, a sudden and sustained upswing beginning in April and continuing through July, has rocketed the seven month volume to more than $15.9 million, or 30 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago.

In posting the record July sales, two of the firm's four offices posted sales in excess of $1 million. North Arlington office (Bob Anderson, manager) and Palatine area office (Terry Leighty, manager) were both in the million plus category. For the North Arlington office, it marked the fourth month in a row with sales topping the million mark.

The average sales price for Century 21 homes sales is $53,474. Average for the entire northwest suburban area is $48,500, up approximately $3,000 from one year ago.

Listing activity is keeping pace with home sales, according to Herb Carl, co-owner and general sales manager for Century 21, Arlington Realty. New exclusive listings taken by the firm are up 31 per cent over last year.

Real estate facts

President, Northwest Suburban Board of REALTORS®

Every piece of facial tissue is not "Kleenex." Every cola-type soft drink is not "Coke." And everyone in the real estate business is not a Realtor.

The term Realtor is a registered service mark — just as "Kleenex" and "Coke" are registered trademarks — which identifies professionals in real estate who subscribe to a strict Code of Ethics as members of the National Association of Realtors.

Realtors are further identified by membership in local boards and state associations. In our area, the local organization is Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, with offices at 1655 S. Arlington Heights Road, Arlington Heighs. The Illinois Association of Realtors has offices in Springfield.

Members of the national, state and local Realtor organizations display the Realtor identification — the stylized "R" — or the name Realtor in their signs, advertising and business cards.

Persons in the real estate business who are licensed by the state to sell real estate but are not members of the National Association and its state and local organizations — by their own choice and for whatever their reasons — are not Realtors, and are incorrectly identified when called by that name.

Members of the National Association of Realtors pledge to abide by the Realtors Code of Ethics, which demands highoy professional conduct. The essence of the Code is the Golden Rule, contained in the preamble: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so to them."

The Code is enforced through professional standards committees which are maintained by local boards. These, in effect, are grievance committees charged with the responsibility of hearing complaints and arbitrating disputes. The public as well as members of the board can bring complaints before the committee. Disciplinary action can consist of suspension or expulsion from membership. A licensed real estate broker who is not a Realtor is governed only by state licensing controls.

Through the Code of Ethics, the National Association is working to unify and standardize the practices of its members. Thus the term Realtor has come to connote competence, fair dealing and integrity in business relations.

What does all this mean to the public? First, the public has a definite interest in protecting the Realtor service mark because the term designates professionals in real estate who subscribe to a strict Code of Ethics which governs their relations with each other and with the public.

Furthermore, the term identifies persons in the real estate business who are affiliated with well-organized real estate activities; who have available to them the accumulated knowledge of more than 60 years of education, experience and research in real estate business methods and standards; and who, in the judgment of their peers in the business, have personal standards and business competence of sufficient merit to warrant entrusting them with the important fiduciary relationships involved in real estate transactions.

Research underway to protect cities

Research to protect cities and their inhabitants from natural hazards such as earthquakes and high winds is under way in the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

As cities and their populations grow, so does the damage which natural disasters can cause. For research on building design to protect against such hazards, the National Science Foundation has awarded $476,500 to UIUC.

Heading the research are Profs. Nathan M. Newmark and William J. Hall, internationally-known in the fields of earthquake engineering, structures and materials engineering, and soil dynamics. Other UIUC civil engineering faculty involved are Profs. A. R. Robinson, W. H. Walker and D. A. W. Pecknold.

The engineers explain that the same facts apply in designing structures to withstand earthquakes, winds, wave forces, landslides, floods, ice and explosions.

Their goal is to develop simplified, new or improved design techniques. The research will utilize the university's extensive computer facilities.

It will involve simplified analysis and design methods, taking into account the strength of materials under earthquake or wind stress and the limits of materials under forces which exceed their elastic strength.

Also involved will be design which takes into account interaction between above and below ground parts of a structure and the surrounding soil or rock.

The need for new engineering design was highlighted by such events as the 1971 Los Angtles earthquake; 1970 Lubbock, Tex., tornado; Gulf Coast hurricanes; 1970 earthquake in Peru, and 1964 Alaska earthquake.

Kole names top staffer

Phyllis Van Sickle

Robert A. Kole, president of Kole Real Estate, Ltd. announced that Phyllis Van Sickle was the top sales associate for the Kole Des Plaines office for the month of July.

Mrs. Van Sickle joined the Kole organization in 1971. Since that time she has received her broker's license, become a million dollar sales associate and has achieved the G.R.I. designation. She is also a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Mrs. Van Sickle resides in Des Plaines with her husband Tom and six children.

Mobile home shipments increase

June mobile home shipments of 20,330 posted the fifth consecutive monthly production gains and a modest gain over the previous months 20,270 mobile home shipments, reports Bill Weide (Fleetwood Enterprises), chairman of the Manufactured Housing Institute.

Shipments throughout the remainder of 1975 are expected to continue at a seasonally adjusted annual rate at around 220,000 to 240,000 mobile homes.

Preliminary figures from Elrick and Lavidge for the month of July are 20,000 mobile home shipments. While this figure represents the first down turn in production after five consecutive gains, it is significantly narrowing the gap between 1974 and 1975 shipments. The 20,000 preliminary July figure is 36 per cent behind July, 1974 as compared to 43 per cent in June.

Kole names top staffer

Phyllis Van Sickle

Robert A. Kole, president of Kole Real Estate, Ltd. announced that Phyllis Van Sickle was the top sales associate for the Kole Des Plaines office for the month of July.

Mrs. Van Sickle joined the Kole organization in 1971. Since that time she has received her broker's license, become a million dollar sales associate and has achieved the G.R.I. designation. She is also a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Mrs. Van Sickle resides in Des Plaines with her husband Tom and six children.

Mobile home shipments increase

June mobile home shipments of 20,330 posted the fifth consecutive monthly production gains and a modest gain over the previous months 20,270 mobile home shipments, reports Bill Weide (Fleetwood Enterprises), chairman of the Manufactured Housing Institute.

Shipments throughout the remainder of 1975 are expected to continue at a seasonally adjusted annual rate at around 220,000 to 240,000 mobile homes.

Preliminary figures from Elrick and Lavidge for the month of July are 20,000 mobile home shipments. While this figure represents the first down turn in production after five consecutive gains, it is significantly narrowing the gap between 1974 and 1975 shipments. The 20,000 preliminary July figure is 36 per cent behind July, 1974 as compared to 43 per cent in June.

Corporations offer relocation aid

When an employe is transferred from one location to another, selling his present home and buying another can be a major headache. To ease the pain, many corporations offer relocation assistance at a cost ranging from $6,000 to $12,000 per employe.

But these costs could be cut substantially and the whole business of transferring employes made simpler and less traumatic if corporations fully understood all that's involved.

So reports Theodore D. Bell, executive vice president of Employe Transfer Corporation (ETC), a company which assists corporations by buying the homes of transferred employes and helping them find new ones.

The biggest chunk of the relocation bill stems from costs associated with disposing of the employe's home in one location and buying a new one in the new city. Taking a home with a selling price of $40,000, Bell has figures to show it could cost a typical company about $8,800 to help the employe relocate. But if a relocation service is used, the cost could drop to $6,000, a savings of over 30 per cent.

"Most companies acknowledge that it costs money to transfer an employe in terms of defraying his moving expenses and giving him time off to make the move," Bell said. "And many companies also recognize that selling his old home and buying a new one is perhaps the employe's biggest headache, and the one area where company assistance is urgently needed."

However, the companies that attempt to give this assistance on their own often don't consider all of the costs and complications involved.

First, there are the costs of disposing of the employe's present home. Included in these are reconditioning and repairs, mortgage prepayment penalties, legal fees, title and escrow, transfer taxes, broker's commission and possible FHA or VA loan discounts.

Then there are carrying costs, mortgage interest, real estate taxes, heat and utilities, insurance and maintenance, all of which must be paid until the house is sold.

Second, there's the possible loss on the sale which the company agrees to reimburse in many cases.

Third, there are the costs of related relocation benefits. If the company advances the employe the equity on his home, there's the cost of lost interest. Then there are payments for house-hunting trips, trips the employe makes back and forth to visit is family, packing, moving, and possible storage expenses, temporary living expenses and compensation to the employe for the income tax he'll have to pay on non-deductible company reimbursement for expenses.

Fourth, and most important, is the loss of an employe's productivity.

Rather than let the employe sell his house on his own, some companies offer to pay him a fair market price and give him the equity he needs to make a downpayment on a new house in his new location. But this puts the company into the real estate business which means added administrative and overhead expense.

"The company now also has equity money tied up in the house which it won't recover until the home is sold," Bell said. "In one case, a corporation was taking an average of seven months to sell homes purchased from its employes, and losing 10 per cent interest on the money tied up in equities."

On top of this, the company still can't offer the employe professional relocation counseling to help him find a new home. The time spent by the employe to hunt for a home can be costly, especially if he can't find one by the date he's due to show up on the job at the new location.

These problems can be solved and hidden costs reduced if the corporation uses a relocation service, an outside organization that buys the employe's house and helps find a new one for him. About 500 major corporations are now using this kind of service.

All of the administration of the program is handled by the relocation service, which assumes the responsibility of selling the employe's home. The corporation pays a fee related to the selling price of the home to cover the costs involved.

The savings to the corporation come in several ways. First, since the relocation service is in the full-time business of buying and selling homes, it can do the job quicker and cut selling costs and carrying costs.

Second, because the sale of the old home and purchase of the new one are coordinated by the relocation service, there are further savings in the use of equity money, house-hunting trips, temporary living expenses and household goods storage.

But the savings to the corporation are just one part of the story. By relieving the emplyoye of the headache of selling and buying homes, the company eases the emotional and physical strain on him and makes his relocation that much easier. If a corporation can do this and save money in the bargain, it seems like the natural thing to do, Bell concluded.

Corporations offer relocation aid

When an employe is transferred from one location to another, selling his present home and buying another can be a major headache. To ease the pain, many corporations offer relocation assistance at a cost ranging from $6,000 to $12,000 per employe.

But these costs could be cut substantially and the whole business of transferring employes made simpler and less traumatic if corporations fully understood all that's involved.

So reports Theodore D. Bell, executive vice president of Employe Transfer Corporation (ETC), a company which assists corporations by buying the homes of transferred employes and helping them find new ones.

The biggest chunk of the relocation bill stems from costs associated with disposing of the employe's home in one location and buying a new one in the new city. Taking a home with a selling price of $40,000, Bell has figures to show it could cost a typical company about $8,800 to help the employe relocate. But if a relocation service is used, the cost could drop to $6,000, a savings of over 30 per cent.

"Most companies acknowledge that it costs money to transfer an employe in terms of defraying his moving expenses and giving him time off to make the move," Bell said. "And many companies also recognize that selling his old home and buying a new one is perhaps the employe's biggest headache, and the one area where company assistance is urgently needed."

However, the companies that attempt to give this assistance on their own often don't consider all of the costs and complications involved.

First, there are the costs of disposing of the employe's present home. Included in these are reconditioning and repairs, mortgage prepayment penalties, legal fees, title and escrow, transfer taxes, broker's commission and possible FHA or VA loan discounts.

Then there are carrying costs, mortgage interest, real estate taxes, heat and utilities, insurance and maintenance, all of which must be paid until the house is sold.

Second, there's the possible loss on the sale which the company agrees to reimburse in many cases.

Third, there are the costs of related relocation benefits. If the company advances the employe the equity on his home, there's the cost of lost interest. Then there are payments for house-hunting trips, trips the employe makes back and forth to visit is family, packing, moving, and possible storage expenses, temporary living expenses and compensation to the employe for the income tax he'll have to pay on non-deductible company reimbursement for expenses.

Fourth, and most important, is the loss of an employe's productivity.

Rather than let the employe sell his house on his own, some companies offer to pay him a fair market price and give him the equity he needs to make a downpayment on a new house in his new location. But this puts the company into the real estate business which means added administrative and overhead expense.

"The company now also has equity money tied up in the house which it won't recover until the home is sold," Bell said. "In one case, a corporation was taking an average of seven months to sell homes purchased from its employes, and losing 10 per cent interest on the money tied up in equities."

On top of this, the company still can't offer the employe professional relocation counseling to help him find a new home. The time spent by the employe to hunt for a home can be costly, especially if he can't find one by the date he's due to show up on the job at the new location.

These problems can be solved and hidden costs reduced if the corporation uses a relocation service, an outside organization that buys the employe's house and helps find a new one for him. About 500 major corporations are now using this kind of service.

All of the administration of the program is handled by the relocation service, which assumes the responsibility of selling the employe's home. The corporation pays a fee related to the selling price of the home to cover the costs involved.

The savings to the corporation come in several ways. First, since the relocation service is in the full-time business of buying and selling homes, it can do the job quicker and cut selling costs and carrying costs.

Second, because the sale of the old home and purchase of the new one are coordinated by the relocation service, there are further savings in the use of equity money, house-hunting trips, temporary living expenses and household goods storage.

But the savings to the corporation are just one part of the story. By relieving the emplyoye of the headache of selling and buying homes, the company eases the emotional and physical strain on him and makes his relocation that much easier. If a corporation can do this and save money in the bargain, it seems like the natural thing to do, Bell concluded.

Managing your family's money

Fix-it book cuts costs

by MERLE E. DOWD

Along with the disappearance of the general handyman for a variety of reasons, service costs for everything from repairing a leaky faucet to checking a clothes dryer have jumped skyward at an astounding rate. Travel costs boosted by the increase in gasoline prices plus shortages of skilled servicemen conspired to raise servicing expenses for keeping our electrical and mechanical servants in working order.

To fill the gap, mechanical magazines have for years bombarded their readers with a succession of auto repair, home appliance servicing and home fix-up articles. These articles were good but sporadic. You could seldom find what you wanted quickly. Often the specific help you needed was missing.

But the need was there. To fill that need, Time-Life Books developed a compendium of fix-it information that can't help but save you money. Called "How Things Work in Your Home (and What do Do When They Don't)," the book delivers on the title's promise in words and drawings. In short, the book is a money-saver for anyone with either existing fix-it skills or an interest in learning.

If one picture is worth a thousand words, then the multi-colored exploded and cutaway drawings are easily worth 10,000 words. Combined with a simply-worded text, the cutaway, functional drawings do two things —

- They show the inner workings of practically everything from a simple faucet to the complexities of an oil furnace and automatic dishwasher in exhaustive detail.
- They inspire confidence that you really can understand how gadgets, appliances and home machinery work and that you can fix them yourself. Unless you can see yourself completing a repair or satisfactorily replacing a part once you rip into something that isn't working, you won't begin the job. Instead, you'll throw up your hands and call a serviceman.

On the same day I was leafing through "How Things Work . . .," our electric dryer suddenly quit producing heat. The drum turned, and the fan blew air through the tumbling clothes. But the heating elements remained cold.

"Aha," I said. "Let's see how well the book works." I asked our 16-year-old to tackle the job. He began removing access panels. With the help of the book and a wiring diagram, he traced the heating circuit to an open connection. Sure enough, a wire had burned through and interrupted the circuit. A short section of heat resistant wire and two wire connectors were all he needed to repair the dryer — cost, 75 cents plus sales tax. A service call could easily have cost $18.

Most appliances can be fixed by simply replacing whatever component, wiring or piping malfunctioned. With the many clear drawings plus an organized trouble-shooting guide, you can probably repair at least two-thirds of the problems that afflict your mechanical and electrical servants.

Where do you get parts? From the same sources as the serviceman — a parts warehouse with a stock of the most often needed replacements. Or, you can order parts from the manufacturer by mail.

A serviceman seldom repairs faulty components. He will almost always remove the troublesome component and replace it with a new or rebuilt unit. You can do the same, usually with a minimum of tools. The trick is in finding the trouble. Here you need help — either from an owner's manual that may have accompanied your equipment or from a book such as "How Things Work . . ."

Or, be prepared. Write the manufacturer of your appliances for a service guide and illustrated parts list along with the name of a local supplier of replacement parts.

Cruise package prices could vary with season

Q. "My husband is about to retire and we are considering an ocean cruise. I have a number of brochures and note cabin prices vary considerably. How should we evaluate differences? Are shore excursions included in the prices?" — Mrs. D. S.

A. Cruising offers delightful — and relatively expensive — relaxation. First, recognize that quoted prices include practically everything on board ship — cabin, food and entertainment. Not included are beverages, tips and individual purchases. Shore excursions or tours are not generally included either, but the ship's staff arranges shore trips and you can buy tickets aboard ship.

Prices vary according to the season, length of the voyage and cabin accommodations. Experienced, cost-conscious cruise passengers prefer low-cost cabins. Since these are usually sold out first, plan ahead. Off-season rates may be as much as 20 per cent below in-season rates. To price cruise packages on a common basis, figure the cost per day.

Many cruise patrons prefer lower deck, inside cabins because they cost less and they spend very little time in their cabin — mainly to sleep and change clothes. Out of the cabin, every passenger enjoys the same amenities — food and entertainment.

– Tips on Tire life

Q. "Will running the tires on our station wagon at the pressure noted on the sidewall get more mileage? With tires costing more all the time, what other tips can I follow to extend tire life?" — E.D.

A. Care and attention definitely pay dividends in extended tire life. However, the pressure noted on the sidewall is the maximum pressure for carrying the maximum load for which the tire is designed. Use that pressure only when carrying heavy loads.

Space limitations prevent detailing every known trick for getting more miles from each time. However, the Department of Transportation issued a no-nonsense Fact Sheet, "Three Rules for Maximum Tire Life," a couple of years ago.

In words anyone can understand, the Fact Sheet tells you just about everything you need to know about getting more miles from your tires, as well as how to read and use the data molded into the sidewall. For a free copy write to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, U.S. Dept. of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20690.

– How do I buy food?

Q. "I didn't pay much attention when mother was cooking and I lived in a dorm at college. Now that I'm married, I realize I know practically nothing about buying meat and other foods. We don't have much cash since my husband is still in graduate school. When can I get a cram course in food shopping?" — P.B.

A. Probably your best bet is to study the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's "How to Buy Food" series of folders and pamphlets. Fourteen bulletins describe in words, photos and drawings how to buy dairy products, eggs, dry beans, fresh vegetables, canned and frozen vegetables and fruits, beef, poultry and lamb. Your university library will likely have these.

If a Cooperative Extension Service office is locatednear you, ask for free copies. If copies are not distributed free (some offices do — others don't), you can get the full series bound in one book, "How to Buy Food for Economy and Quality," from Dover Publications, 100 Varick St., New York, N. Y. 10014. The book sells for $1.50, which is just over 10 cents for each folder. If you bought the folders directly from the Government Printing Office, the toal cost would be about $3.50.

– What's standard?

Q. "Rather than rent a car, we plan to buy a van in Europe. After touring we will bring the car back to the U.S. The savings over renting a van look good, but I'm wondering if the car will meet U.S. emission standards. Will we have to equip the van with a catalytic converter after it arrives here?" — M.F.

A. Presumably you have set up the deal through a U.S. dealer or broker. Cars to be imported to the U.S. are built to meet our emission standards, including normal installation of a catalytic converter.

However, you're likely to run into one problem. Few service stations sell unleaded gas in Europe, and continued use of leaded gasoline will poison the catalyst in the converter. You will probably need to replace the converter soon after you arrive back in the U.S.

The Environmental Protection Agency ruled recently that, beginning with 1976 models, catalytic converters must be replaced if cars were run on leaded gasoline before importation — at a cost of about $150.

Managing your family's money

Fix-it book cuts costs

by MERLE E. DOWD

Along with the disappearance of the general handyman for a variety of reasons, service costs for everything from repairing a leaky faucet to checking a clothes dryer have jumped skyward at an astounding rate. Travel costs boosted by the increase in gasoline prices plus shortages of skilled servicemen conspired to raise servicing expenses for keeping our electrical and mechanical servants in working order.

To fill the gap, mechanical magazines have for years bombarded their readers with a succession of auto repair, home appliance servicing and home fix-up articles. These articles were good but sporadic. You could seldom find what you wanted quickly. Often the specific help you needed was missing.

But the need was there. To fill that need, Time-Life Books developed a compendium of fix-it information that can't help but save you money. Called "How Things Work in Your Home (and What do Do When They Don't)," the book delivers on the title's promise in words and drawings. In short, the book is a money-saver for anyone with either existing fix-it skills or an interest in learning.

If one picture is worth a thousand words, then the multi-colored exploded and cutaway drawings are easily worth 10,000 words. Combined with a simply-worded text, the cutaway, functional drawings do two things —

- They show the inner workings of practically everything from a simple faucet to the complexities of an oil furnace and automatic dishwasher in exhaustive detail.
- They inspire confidence that you really can understand how gadgets, appliances and home machinery work and that you can fix them yourself. Unless you can see yourself completing a repair or satisfactorily replacing a part once you rip into something that isn't working, you won't begin the job. Instead, you'll throw up your hands and call a serviceman.

On the same day I was leafing through "How Things Work . . .," our electric dryer suddenly quit producing heat. The drum turned, and the fan blew air through the tumbling clothes. But the heating elements remained cold.

"Aha," I said. "Let's see how well the book works." I asked our 16-year-old to tackle the job. He began removing access panels. With the help of the book and a wiring diagram, he traced the heating circuit to an open connection. Sure enough, a wire had burned through and interrupted the circuit. A short section of heat resistant wire and two wire connectors were all he needed to repair the dryer — cost, 75 cents plus sales tax. A service call could easily have cost $18.

Most appliances can be fixed by simply replacing whatever component, wiring or piping malfunctioned. With the many clear drawings plus an organized trouble-shooting guide, you can probably repair at least two-thirds of the problems that afflict your mechanical and electrical servants.

Where do you get parts? From the same sources as the serviceman — a parts warehouse with a stock of the most often needed replacements. Or, you can order parts from the manufacturer by mail.

A serviceman seldom repairs faulty components. He will almost always remove the troublesome component and replace it with a new or rebuilt unit. You can do the same, usually with a minimum of tools. The trick is in finding the trouble. Here you need help — either from an owner's manual that may have accompanied your equipment or from a book such as "How Things Work . . ."

Or, be prepared. Write the manufacturer of your appliances for a service guide and illustrated parts list along with the name of a local supplier of replacement parts.

Cruise package prices could vary with season

Q. "My husband is about to retire and we are considering an ocean cruise. I have a number of brochures and note cabin prices vary considerably. How should we evaluate differences? Are shore excursions included in the prices?" — Mrs. D. S.

A. Cruising offers delightful — and relatively expensive — relaxation. First, recognize that quoted prices include practically everything on board ship — cabin, food and entertainment. Not included are beverages, tips and individual purchases. Shore excursions or tours are not generally included either, but the ship's staff arranges shore trips and you can buy tickets aboard ship.

Prices vary according to the season, length of the voyage and cabin accommodations. Experienced, cost-conscious cruise passengers prefer low-cost cabins. Since these are usually sold out first, plan ahead. Off-season rates may be as much as 20 per cent below in-season rates. To price cruise packages on a common basis, figure the cost per day.

Many cruise patrons prefer lower deck, inside cabins because they cost less and they spend very little time in their cabin — mainly to sleep and change clothes. Out of the cabin, every passenger enjoys the same amenities — food and entertainment.

– Tips on Tire life

Q. "Will running the tires on our station wagon at the pressure noted on the sidewall get more mileage? With tires costing more all the time, what other tips can I follow to extend tire life?" — E.D.

A. Care and attention definitely pay dividends in extended tire life. However, the pressure noted on the sidewall is the maximum pressure for carrying the maximum load for which the tire is designed. Use that pressure only when carrying heavy loads.

Space limitations prevent detailing every known trick for getting more miles from each time. However, the Department of Transportation issued a no-nonsense Fact Sheet, "Three Rules for Maximum Tire Life," a couple of years ago.

In words anyone can understand, the Fact Sheet tells you just about everything you need to know about getting more miles from your tires, as well as how to read and use the data molded into the sidewall. For a free copy write to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, U.S. Dept. of Transportation, Washington, D.C. 20690.

– How do I buy food?

Q. "I didn't pay much attention when mother was cooking and I lived in a dorm at college. Now that I'm married, I realize I know practically nothing about buying meat and other foods. We don't have much cash since my husband is still in graduate school. When can I get a cram course in food shopping?" — P.B.

A. Probably your best bet is to study the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's "How to Buy Food" series of folders and pamphlets. Fourteen bulletins describe in words, photos and drawings how to buy dairy products, eggs, dry beans, fresh vegetables, canned and frozen vegetables and fruits, beef, poultry and lamb. Your university library will likely have these.

If a Cooperative Extension Service office is locatednear you, ask for free copies. If copies are not distributed free (some offices do — others don't), you can get the full series bound in one book, "How to Buy Food for Economy and Quality," from Dover Publications, 100 Varick St., New York, N. Y. 10014. The book sells for $1.50, which is just over 10 cents for each folder. If you bought the folders directly from the Government Printing Office, the toal cost would be about $3.50.

– What's standard?

Q. "Rather than rent a car, we plan to buy a van in Europe. After touring we will bring the car back to the U.S. The savings over renting a van look good, but I'm wondering if the car will meet U.S. emission standards. Will we have to equip the van with a catalytic converter after it arrives here?" — M.F.

A. Presumably you have set up the deal through a U.S. dealer or broker. Cars to be imported to the U.S. are built to meet our emission standards, including normal installation of a catalytic converter.

However, you're likely to run into one problem. Few service stations sell unleaded gas in Europe, and continued use of leaded gasoline will poison the catalyst in the converter. You will probably need to replace the converter soon after you arrive back in the U.S.

The Environmental Protection Agency ruled recently that, beginning with 1976 models, catalytic converters must be replaced if cars were run on leaded gasoline before importation — at a cost of about $150.

1976 cars go public this week

DETROIT (UPI) — The U.S. auto industry begins introducing its 1976 models this week in hopes of ending its worst sales slump in more than 40 years.

Industry analysts predict 1976 model year sales at 7.5 million to 7.6 million. Import sales may hit 1.6 million next year, the analysts said.

President Lee Iacocca of Ford Motor Co., second largest automaker after General Motors, will begin a three-day show Tuesday by outlining Ford's hopes for 1976. He is expected to announce or indicate the 1976 Ford prices.

BUYERS AND competitors want to see how Ford's prices compare with those of GM. GM, the only big Detroit company to announce 1976 prices, has increased new car prices by an average of $206, or 4.4 per cent, and on trucks by an average $357, or 7.3 per cent.

With GM accounting for more than one-half of all vehicle sales, some industry experts believe Ford, Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Co. increases will be about the same.

On Wednesday, Ford will formally preview its 1976 cars. Detroit is expected to end 1975 with sales at about 6.8 million, down from last year's hapless year and nearly three million off the record 1973 sales. Industry sources said the slump is the worst since the Depression years of the early 1930s.

Latest figures show that about one out of every five new cars sold in the United States is foreign made, primarily because of low price and good gasoline economy.

With that in mind, U.S. car makers probably will move toward smaller, subcompact cars in the next few years. The Chevrolet Chevette is the first U.S. minicar.

With the 1975 model year nearly over, U.S. carmakers have built only 4.1 million new cars, off more than 15 per cent from the same date last year.

U.S. AUTO competitors are a bit envious of the new mini-Chevrolet Chevette, which has been in the factory since mid-August. Chevette will provide the first real test of the American car buyer's willingness to slip into something smaller during the coming years. It will go on sale about Oct. 2.

Lieberman makes two 24-hour sales

Lieberman Inc., Realtors announced that during the months of June and July their Buffalo Grove office alone had sales over 2¼ million including two 24-hour transactions during July in which the firm listed and sold exclusively two residential properties in less than 24 hours.

Both properties were located in the Lake County portion of Strathmore and were sold by Jack Garber. One home was listed by Bill Anderson and the other was listed by Earl Sauter, all with Lieberman's Buffalo Grove office.

Firm moves office

J. E. Bernard and Company, Inc., Air Export Division, has moved from 1111 Nicholas Boulevard, Elk Grove Village, to O'Hare Airport, Continental Cargo Building. "This move will enable us to provide our customers with a higher level of service for both import and export air movements, as we will be able to ship and receive freight 24 hours a day," said Ralph A. Trankina, vice president. The office hours in th new location will be 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

When the time comes for you to put your house on the market, it pays to make it as salable as possible. This does not include major remodeling, as the cost of this can seldom be fully recovered in an increased selling price.

Buyers are apt to be impressed with little things, for better or worse. A dripping faucet, a door latch that doesn't catch, a burned-out light . . . all give the impression that the property is about to collapse. Buyers lose interest in such a place, fast! Try to see your home as buyers will see it and fix up those little faults.

We'll be glad to inspect your property and suggest things you should do. List with us and we'll help you get top dollar for your property.

How to select, place smoke detection devices

"Know what you're buying when you select a smoke detector for your home." That advice comes from O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois Extension safety specialist.

Knowing what to look for in a smoke detector prevents hasty purchases from high-pressure salespersons or advertisements using scare tactics. Hogsett says. And he advises comparing at least three products before purchasing.

An ideal fire-detection device satisfies the following requirements: early warning, easy installation, reliable, self supervising, easy maintenance, inexpensive purchase and installation costs, not subject to false alarm, long lasting and minimum alarm rating of 85 decibels at 10 feet.

"Look for a smoke detector that comes with a description of its capabilities, operation and installation requirements and expected lifetime of its parts," says Hogsett. "And only purchase equipment listed or approved by nationally recognized laboratories such as Underwriters Laboratories and Factory Mutual Engineering Corporation."

Understand the extent of the guarantee on the equipment and who will honor it. Hogsett reminds that a service guarantee is no help if there is no firm available to do the work.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission points out that your house electricity may be unreliable during a fire. So you may want to consider a battery-operated detector. But be sure it is equipped with a warning device to notify you when the bulb or battery needs charging.

There are two types of smoke detectors on the market today. The ionization unit uses a radioactive source to produce electrically charged molecules (ions) in the air, Hogsett explains. The photoelectric type uses a photoelectric bulb (like the "electric eye" in many automatic doors).

For a safe escape, the alarm must warn occupants before smoke or toxic gases accumulate.

The ionization type detects smoke before it is visible. When smoke enters the small inner chamber of the unit, the electronic sensor detects the minute change causing the alarm to sound. In contrast, the photoelectric unit emits a beam of light that sets up an electric current in the detector. The alarm sounds when smoke obscures the light and reduces the current.

According to Hogsett, the average reaction time for the ionization unit is 26 seconds compared to 53 seconds for the photoelectric type.

Hogsett warns that even the best smoke detector is useless when not installed in the right location. The location must allow the alarm to awaken all sleeping persons — through closed doors if necessary.

He gives the following guidelines for locating your smoke detector units or units:

Attach detector to the ceiling.

Locate detector outside of, but close to, all bedrooms.

Use more than one detector in two-story dwellings.

Locate detector at the top of stairs in center of hall.

Attach detector on basement ceilings at entrance to stairway.

Locate detector in central passageway near bedrooms in mobile homes and trailers.

If there is more than one bedroom area in any home, there should be a detector at each. If possible, a detector should protect the exit path so it will sound the alarm before thick smoke prevents escape.

According to Hogsett, knowing where not to install smoke detectors is equally important. He offers these tips:

Do not locate in kitchen. Broiling or baking foods may cause unnecessary alarms. A hallway location outside the kitchen will detect serious fires.

Do not locate in the garage. Automobile exhausts are concentrated combustion products and may trigger false alarms.

Do not locate in front of air registers or where open windows or doors can direct high air currents toward the unit.

Do not locate in rooms or attics where the temperature is likely to go below 40 degrees or above 110 degrees F.

Do not locate inside closets or small utility rooms.

Make certain the detector is in working order by blowing smoke from a match into the ionization chamber (or in front of the electric eye for the photoelectric-type detector) until the alarm sounds. Test your units at least once a month and always after you have been away from home for more than three days.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission recommends replacing batteries at least once a year — even if the warning device for weak batteries has not sounded, Hogsett advises. And replace photoelectric bulbs about once a year.

How to select, place smoke detection devices

"Know what you're buying when you select a smoke detector for your home." That advice comes from O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois Extension safety specialist.

Test your units at least once a month and always after you have been away from home for more than three days.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission recommends replacing batteries at least once a year — even if the warning device for weak batteries has not sounded, Hogsett advises. And replace photoelectric bulbs about once a year.

MRS. NANCY STEWART of Buffalo Grove examines the Kitchen-Aid trash compactor she recently received from Kitchen-Aid. In a survey conducted by Kitchen-Aid in the Chicago & North Western depot, Mrs. Stewart listed a trash compactor as the appliance she most wanted and Landwehr's Home Appliances, Arlington Heights as her Kitchen-Aid dealer. Dan Angell, sales manager of Landwehr's, made the presentation.

Physicians consider medicondos

A "medicondo" — something for physicians to consider.

So suggests Marshall C. Dennison, president and chief executive officer of Pennamco, Inc., Philadelphia-based national real estate financing and servicing organization.

"Condominium office buildings for doctors are steadily growing in popularity in populous areas of the country.

"Dissatisfied with rental offices that lack flexibility and individuality, physicians are discovering that the medicondo is an ideal arrangement for their patients as well as for themselves," Dennison says.

A mediconda offers numerous advantages besides being a promising investment with potential tax benefits.

Dennison lists a few of the plusses:

Privacy. Office space is frequently raised one level above ground, eliminating draped, closed-in or shaded windows.

Parking. Since most medicondos reserve the ground level for doctor/patient automobiles, it means easier, quicker and less expensive access to these offices.

Flexibility. Doctors may now move their heavy and unwieldy medical equipment to various rooms with greater ease.

High ceilings and larger rooms. Both doctors and patients appreciate that "unclosed-in" feeling. Many professional offices in rental buildings are notoriously cramped — not a pleasant feeling for those with a claustrophobic orientation.

Decorating can be far more imaginative — using colors that impart a restful, relaxing air, instead of "rental white." Proper lighting, custom designed, creates a less harsh atmosphere.

Some medicondos have exercise rooms for physicians. Good for taking a much needed break without leaving the building — where they can privately indulge in shop talk.

Individual heating and air conditioning systems alleviate too cold or too warm examining rooms. This is an oft-heard patient complaint.

A kitchen to prepare snacks for doctors and nurses is a time-saving amenity.

"Many physicians— eager to provide the utmost in convenience, function and comfort to their patients as well as themselves, plus making a potentially rewarding investment — will do well to ponder a medicondo," Dennison concludes.

Selling your home

Jim Duncan, vice president of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors in Des Plaines. Once the buyer signs a contract to purchase form, the offer should be presented to the seller as quickly as possible.

The selling salesman will contact the listing salesman, who makes an appointment to present the offer. A seller may accept the offer and sign the agreement. He can reject the offer or make a counter-offer. Price and possession date may be negotiated. The selling salesman takes any new offer back to the buyer, who may sign it, make another proposal, or reject the offer. Any offer or counter-offer can be withdrawn only until it is signed.

Duncan said many sellers hire an attorney to check contracts before they sign the agreements. An attorney is needed unless the seller can prepare the necessary legal documents to close the sale.

An offer to purchase is generally contingent on the buyer's ability to line up financing. When financing is arranged, buyers sign mortgage documents, the lender generally orders a search on the property title and a closing date for completion of the transaction is set.

THE CLOSING is often held at the financial institution where the buyer obtained a mortgage loan, Duncan said. The seller and his attorney, the buyer and his attorney, a representative of the lender and the realty office are generally participants in the session. The seller receives a certified check for the sale price, less the payment for existing loans and a real estate broker's commission. Selling and listing brokers split the commission.

An escrow account will be set aside to ensure that the seller moves out of the house on the proper date. If the seller delays the move, a penalty will be paid to the buyer from the account.

Virginia Knauer, special assistant to the President and director of the Office of Consumer Affairs for the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, advises home sellers to check a local library for books on real estate procedure, and to consult an attorney about any written agreements. Some realty agents will favor a multiple listing service approach or the exclusive listing for one firm, she said.

Sellers should consider alternatives in the financing of the sale, Mrs.Knauer said. There are tax advantages in financing the mortgage yourself, if you do not need the entire cash sum immediately.

Contact the Veterans Administration (VA) or Federal Housing Administration (FHA) offices for information on mortgages backed by the agencies, Mrs. Knauer advised. Lending institutions charge "points" or special fees on these loans.A point is one per cent of the loan amount. Be sure your contract with the seller limits the number of points you'll pay.

All day reviews scheduled

The State of Illinois is giving examinations in Chicago on September 22 for those seeking to be licensed as real estate salesmen or brokers. Real Estate Education Company has scheduled two All Day Reviews to prepare students for that state exam. One All Day Review will be held near O'Hare September 13, at the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, 8201 Higgins Road. The second All Day Review will be held September 15, the day before the state exam, at the Ascot Inn, 1100 South Michigan Ave., Chicago. Both review sessions begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuition is $35 for those preparing to take the salesman's exam and $40 for those preparing for the broker's exam, with a $10 discount to students of the Real Estate Education Company.

Notice to Contractors

For Work To Be Constructed Under the Illinois Highway Code

Sealed proposals for the improvement of the thoroughfare(s) described herein will be received at the office of the President and Board of Trustees of Hoffman Estates, Cook County, Illinois, until 3 o'clock p.m., September 15, 1975 and at that time publicly opened and read.

The proposed improvement is officially known as 1975 Contract Maintenance Resurfacing, and consists of asphalt resurfacing on the streets in plans. A total distance of 23,415 feet, of which 23,415 feet, (4.434 miles) are to be improved.

The proposed improvement consists of placing either (1) an approximate 1½" bituminous leveling or binder courses with a 1" bituminous surface course (Class I) or (2) an approximate 1" bituminous surface course (Class I) as specified on old asphaltic concrete pavement.

Plans and proposal forms may be obtained from the Village Clerk's office, Monday through Friday, 9:00 a.m. through 4:30 p.m. at 1200 North Gannon Drive, Hoffman Estates, Illinois.

All proposals must be accompanied by a bank cashier's check, bank draft, or certified check for not less than ten (10) per cent of the amount of the bid, or as provided in Article 102.09 of the "Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction," prepared by the Department of Public Works and Buildings of the State of Illinois.

The President and Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any or all proposals as provided in Article 102.08 of the "Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction," prepared by the Department of Public Works and Buildings of the State of Illinois.

By order of
The President and Board of Trustees of Village of Hoffman Estates, August 18, 1975.

Buffalo Grove office to expand

After only seven months of operation, Quinlan and Tyson's new Buffalo Grove Area office will be expanded.

William B. Martin, senior vice president and general manager-residential sales, said the sales office in the Buffalo Grove Mall Shopping Center will be increased 50 per cent in size.

In addition, Martin said that Quinlan and Tyson has begun recruitment of four more real estate sales representatives to bring the sales staff up to 18 full-time professionsals.

The staff expansion will make the Quinlan and Tyson office the largest real estate facility in Buffalo Grove, Martin stated.

"The public's acceptance of our newest office since its opening in January has enabled us to move ahead with plans for an even larger and better facility to serve buyers and sellers in the Buffalo Grove area," Martin said.

The major expansion was planned after a record sales month in May in which Buffalo Grove rolled up total sales of $1.2 million. "This large sales effort showed the need for a larger facility to meet the demands for service in the area," Martin stated.

Martin praised Robert Griffith, office sales manager, for his leadership. Griffith, who formerly was a sales representative in the Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect area office, has already topped the $1 million mark in sales for 1975, the third straight year he has accomplished that feat. He also is a member of Quinlan and Tyson's $2 Million Club.

The Buffalo Grove area office is the eleventh office opened by Quinlan and Tyson in its 91-year history. It is one of four northwest suburban offices. The other area Q&T offices are Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect, Palatine and Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates.

3 cited for sales

Three members of Baird & Warner's Mt. Prospect office, 21 E. Prospect Ave., have been cited for outstanding sales activity, according to Robert G. Walters, senior vice president and general manager, residential division.

Charles Moser, local sales manager, James Murphy and Robert Stefani, sales associates, have participated in contracts for the sale of properties valued in excess of $1 million. Moser reached the mark by the end of June, and Murphy and Stefani by the end of July.

All three members of the company have been consistent winners of sales awards, and are longtime residents in the area.

Introducing
downtown Arlington Heights'

UNIQUE, NEW RENTAL APARTMENTS

More like Garden Terraces

Imagine . . . an apartment where both your living room and bedroom open onto a sunny, private patio or balcony through expansive sliding glass doors. What a beautiful way to have breakfast or entertain friends . . . overlooking a tranquil, landscaped courtyard and lush green lawns.

All the conveniences of an established community... only steps away!

Just outside the Courtyards of Arlington Heights' park-like setting, the amenities of the village of Arlington Heights are conveniently at hand—the main business district, movie theater, banks, municipal services and all the stores and shops one would expect of a fine established community. In addition, several Park District facilities are close by—tennis courts, swimming pools and year-round recreational programs. And Downtown Chicago is only 20 minutes away via nearby commuter trains of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad.

RENTALS STARTING AT $200

Deluxe one and two-bedroom apartments include:

- Patio or balcony
- Air conditioning
- Wall-to-wall carpeting
- Tappan appliances including dishwasher
- Kitchen pantry
- Cultured marble vanities and window sills
- Master TV antenna
- Insulated glass sliding doors
- Use of convenient laundry rooms on premises
- 175 cu. ft. of detached storage in central basement
- Many other deluxe features

Introducing
downtown Arlington Heights'

More like Garden Terraces

Imagine . . . an apartment where both your living room and bedroom open onto a sunny, private patio or balcony through expansive sliding glass doors. What a beautiful way to have breakfast or entertain friends . . . overlooking a tranquil, landscaped courtyard and lush green lawns.

All the conveniences of an established community... only steps away!

Just outside the Courtyards of Arlington Heights' park-like setting, the amenities of the village of Arlington Heights are conveniently at hand—the main business district, movie theater, banks, municipal services and all the stores and shops one would expect of a fine established community. In addition, several Park District facilities are close by—tennis courts, swimming pools and year-round recreational programs. And Downtown Chicago is only 20 minutes away via nearby commuter trains of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad.

RENTALS STARTING AT $200

Deluxe one and two-bedroom apartments include:
- Patio or balcony
- Air conditioning
- Wall-to-wall carpeting
- Tappan appliances including dishwasher
- Kitchen pantry
- Cultured marble vanities and window sills
- Master TV antenna
- Insulated glass sliding doors
- Use of convenient laundry rooms on premises
- 175 cu. ft. of detached storage in central basement
- Many other deluxe features

Some of our extras could be in the movies.

They're very different, our extras . . . and rarely seen in public. In fact, most of them are stars in their own right. The fireplaces. The wet bars. The paneled living rooms. The draperies. The year round, indoor-outdoor pool. The lighted tennis courts. The exercise gym. The saunas. The whirlpool bath. The magnificent clubhouse and atrium. The billiard room. The ten acre lake.

Plus perennial favorites like air conditioning, wall to wall shag carpeting, intercom security, balconies and patios, color co-ordinated and fully equipped kitchen.

Come see Barrington Lakes today . . . and add a dash of drama to your life.

Some of our extras could be in the movies.

They're very different, our extras . . . and rarely seen in public. In fact, most of them are stars in their own right. The fireplaces. The wet bars. The paneled living rooms. The draperies. The year round, indoor-outdoor pool. The lighted tennis courts. The exercise gym. The saunas. The whirlpool bath. The magnificent clubhouse and atrium. The billiard room. The ten acre lake.

Plus perennial favorites like air conditioning, wall to wall shag carpeting, intercom security, balconies and patios, color co-ordinated and fully equipped kitchen.

Come see Barrington Lakes today . . . and add a dash of drama to your life.

Reed named top staffer

Robert A. Kole, president of Kole Real Estate, Ltd. announced that Milt Reed was the top producer for the Kole Real Estate Ltd. Mt. Prospect sales office, for the month of July.

Milt Reed

Reed has been with the Kole organization since October of 1974 where he started out as part time employe and decided to come into real estate on a full time basis. He has been working out of the Mt. Prospect location at 617 N. Main Street. Reed is a member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Mary Anne Flynn attains million mark

For the fourth consecutive year, Mary Anne Flynn has attained million dollar sales status with Homefinders Realtors.

Mary Anne Flynn

Announcement of Mary Anne's achievement was made by Robert L. Zaun, president of the 12 Homefinders offices in the northwest suburbs.

A resident of the Winston Park section of Palatine, Mary Anne Flynn is a sales associate in the Palatine office of Homefinders at 235 N. Northwest Highway. In the month of June alone she sold $386,000 worth of residential real estate.

Born in Washington, D.C., Mrs. Flynn attended high school in New York state and also enrolled at the University of North Carolina and at Ohio University. While in school she was active in such sports as basketball, lacrosse and soccer.

She is married to Ray Gerth, who is also a sales associate with Homefinders. They are the parents of three children. Prior to joining Homefinders in 1973, she was with another real estate firm.

Winners named

The winners of the bicycles given away during the four day Roarin' West Fest celebration in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center are: Cheryl Replogle, Rolling Meadows; Beverly Ragusa, Arlington Heights; Mrs. M. Heasman, Arlington Heights; and Jim Rossi, Rolling Meadows. One 10 speed Huffy bike was given away during a drawing held each evening of the celebration.

Requests for VA loans increase

Broadened opportunities to purchase condominium units with Veterans Administration guaranteed loans resulted in 146 requests for project approval during the first three months of the program, the VA announced today.

Since April 1, the VA has been permitted to approve condominium projects for guaranteed loans without the previous stipulation that Housing and Urban Development (HUD) must have previously insured loans in the same project.

Removal of the HUD clause was included in the Veterans Housing Act of 1974 which also made more than four million veterans, whose GI home loans have been paid in full, eligible for new loans guaranteed by the VA.

Requests for condominium project approval through June 30 were received by 27 VA regional offices. The largest number of requests, 20, were processed by the Washington, D.C., regional office.

Of the total VA requests, 86 were for existing projects constructed as condominiums, the remaining for new or proposed projects. Horizontal projects were the most popular structure with 103 requests. Low-rise projects accounted for 31 requests while the remaining 12 were for high-rise construction.

The number of high-rise submissions are expected to increase as developers become more familiar with the VA program and processing requirements, a VA spokesman said.

Merna Meyer

Merna Meyer sells $1 million

Merna Meyer of Quinlan and Tyson's Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office has sold more than $1 million of property this year.

She topped the million figure in August, it was announced by Ken Koy, office sales manager.

This is the second year that Mrs. Meyer has gone over $1 million. She topped the magic level in 1973 when she led all office sales representatives in total volume to win the Quinlan and Tyson Award of Excellence.

Mrs. Meyer, who now has a career sales total of $4 million, was named to Quinlan and Tyson's President's Circle in 1973 for her outstanding achievements.

She and her husband, Wilfred, have two children, and live in Schaumburg.

Two appointments made

Don L. Dise, president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC) has announced the appointment of Theo. C. "Ted" Doufexis as executive vice president.

The association serves the eight county area of northeastern Illinois and is the local affiliate of the National Association of Home Builders. It numbers over 900 members through its six area chapters.

Serving with Doufexis, as associate executive vice president, will be Herschel J. Farr. Prior to joining the association in 1973, Farr had served as executive director to the Insulation Contractors Association. Previous to that time he was Director of Technical Services for the Builders Association of Chicago.

Doufexis, a 23 year veteran of the homebuilding industry, has served as executive vice president of the Residential Construction Employers Council since 1967. That body serves as labor representative for the residential construction section in the eight county area.

Construction industry shows gains

The U.S. construction industry showed continued improvement during June, reports the F. W. Dodge Div. of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co.

Contracts for future construction totaled $9.3 billion during June. The figure is 13 per cent gain from the June, 1974 level, the Dodge report said.

Most key areas of construction remained stable or increased during June. The Dodge Index of total construction indicates a 29 per cent increase in construction activity during the second quarter of 1975 compared to first quarter results.

"But more importantly, it marked the end to a six-quarter decline in the construction contract total," the report said. The nonbuilding sector of the construction industry — public works and utilities — led the recovery.

Contracting for highways and sewers showed a substantial increase during the past three months, the Dodge report said. The nonbuilding contracts amounted to $3 billion in June. For the first half of 1975, the contracts for highways and sewers reached $14.1 billion, a 24 per cent increase above the comparable period in 1974.

Residential construction contracts totaled $3.1 billion during June. The total is a 9 per cent decline from figures a year earlier. Single-family housing surpassed the year-ago level, although apartment construction declined about 50 per cent for the period.

June contracts for nonresidential building amounted to $3.2 billion, a 10 per cent increase above year-earlier figures. Gains in contracts for hospitals, schools and public buildings are reported.

The best things in life start at $215 a month.
These days the best things in life are hard to come by, at any price. So an apartment that includes most of them for as little as $215 a month has to be on your list.
At Country Lane we've put together all the little pleasures of apartment life at a price we feel is easy to live with. Each of the 11 floor plans include wall-to-wall carpeting, central air & heat, ceramic bath, a balcony, a kitchen with dishwasher, disposal, self-cleaning oven and double-door refrigerator. And every 5-story building is equipped with an elevator, laundry room, party room with wet bar and a security intercom system.
But frankly, one of the best things we offer is something nobody can put a price on. Country quiet. And it's all around us.

Requests for VA loans increase

Broadened opportunities to purchase condominium units with Veterans Administration guaranteed loans resulted in 146 requests for project approval during the first three months of the program, the VA announced today.

Since April 1, the VA has been permitted to approve condominium projects for guaranteed loans without the previous stipulation that Housing and Urban Development (HUD) must have previously insured loans in the same project.

Removal of the HUD clause was included in the Veterans Housing Act of 1974 which also made more than four million veterans, whose GI home loans have been paid in full, eligible for new loans guaranteed by the VA.

Requests for condominium project approval through June 30 were received by 27 VA regional offices. The largest number of requests, 20, were processed by the Washington, D.C., regional office.

Of the total VA requests, 86 were for existing projects constructed as condominiums, the remaining for new or proposed projects. Horizontal projects were the most popular structure with 103 requests. Low-rise projects accounted for 31 requests while the remaining 12 were for high-rise construction.

The number of high-rise submissions are expected to increase as developers become more familiar with the VA program and processing requirements, a VA spokesman said.

Two appointments made

Don L. Dise, president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC) has announced the appointment of Theo. C. "Ted" Doufexis as executive vice president.

The association serves the eight county area of northeastern Illinois and is the local affiliate of the National Association of Home Builders. It numbers over 900 members through its six area chapters.

Serving with Doufexis, as associate executive vice president, will be Herschel J. Farr. Prior to joining the association in 1973, Farr had served as executive director to the Insulation Contractors Association. Previous to that time he was Director of Technical Services for the Builders Association of Chicago.

Doufexis, a 23 year veteran of the homebuilding industry, has served as executive vice president of the Residential Construction Employers Council since 1967. That body serves as labor representative for the residential construction section in the eight county area.

Merna Meyer

Merna Meyer sells $1 million

Merna Meyer of Quinlan and Tyson's Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates area office has sold more than $1 million of property this year.

She topped the million figure in August, it was announced by Ken Koy, office sales manager.

This is the second year that Mrs. Meyer has gone over $1 million. She topped the magic level in 1973 when she led all office sales representatives in total volume to win the Quinlan and Tyson Award of Excellence.

Mrs. Meyer, who now has a career sales total of $4 million, was named to Quinlan and Tyson's President's Circle in 1973 for her outstanding achievements.

She and her husband, Wilfred, have two children, and live in Schaumburg.

Construction industry shows gains

Contracts for future construction totaled $9.3 billion during June. The figure is 13 per cent gain from the June, 1974 level, the Dodge report said.

Most key areas of construction remained stable or increased during June. The Dodge Index of total construction indicates a 29 per cent increase in construction activity during the second quarter of 1975 compared to first quarter results.

"But more importantly, it marked the end to a six-quarter decline in the construction contract total," the report said. The nonbuilding sector of the construction industry — public works and utilities — led the recovery.

Contracting for highways and sewers showed a substantial increase during the past three months, the Dodge report said. The nonbuilding contracts amounted to $3 billion in June. For the first half of 1975, the contracts for highways and sewers reached $14.1 billion, a 24 per cent increase above the comparable period in 1974.

Residential construction contracts totaled $3.1 billion during June. The total is a 9 per cent decline from figures a year earlier. Single-family housing surpassed the year-ago level, although apartment construction declined about 50 per cent for the period.

June contracts for nonresidential building amounted to $3.2 billion, a 10 per cent increase above year-earlier figures. Gains in contracts for hospitals, schools and public buildings are reported.

Army

I may have a good job for you.

In fact, the Army has over 300 different jobs you could apply for and probably get. If you qualify, we'll guarantee your choice of job training in fields like construction, computer programming, intelligence, electronics, communications, or many others. We'll pay you a starting salary of $344.10 a month (before deductions), with a raise to $383.40 after 4 months. We'll also give you a chance to travel. Get a head start on college through in-service educational opportunities. With the Army paying up to 75% of your tuition. If you're interested, give me a call. You'll not only be doing a good job for yourself, you'll be doing one for your Country.

That's right! If you are a mechanically inclined high school graduate desirous of learning a technical job, we would be interested in talking with you concerning apprenticeship training in our Plastic Molding Department. You'll learn how to operate plastic molding presses, set them up and trouble shoot molding problems. You'll also learn the characteristics of a wide variety of Thermoset and Thermoplastic materials. Upon completion of the training you'll possess a highly valuable skill. A high school diploma plus a willingness to learn and advance may be sufficient to qualify you for this ideal growth position. Accompanying this job you'll discover progressive fringe benefits, regularly scheduled merit reviews and rapid advancement opportunities. Interested persons may contact:

WORK ON THE 34 concrete ribs begins to take shape at Olympic Stadium in Montreal, Canada. The Olympic games begin there on July 17, 1976.

New disclosures made: U.S. hired Thai guards

by ROBERT KAYLOR

BANGKOK (UPI) — New disclosures of the extent to which the United States ran military affairs in Thailand during the Indochina war years have come as a result of a confrontation between security guards at military bases here and the government of Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj.

The disclosures, including the text of a memorandum of understanding between the two governments, shows that American commanders had control of the guards despite constant protestations by both governmens that the Thais held full sovereignty and control of the bases.

Among other things, U.S. officials used the alleged Thai control as an excuse for denying American reporters entry to the bases and access to U.S. airmen during the years Indochina was bombed.

THE SECURITY guards, all Thai military veterans put back into uniform to patrol the perimeters of bases where American planes were parked, were hired by the Thai government and were supposedly its employes.

Knowing they will lose their jobs when the last 19,000 GIs and 250 airplanes leave Thailand by next March, 2,000 of the guards have been on strike since last June to demand improved benefits from the government.

The guards marched on Kukrit's office to join the other pressure groups that have harried his shaky democratic government. As it has with other groups, the government caved in to the guards' demands. It began to leak reports that Kukrit had gone to the U.S. government for money to pay them off.

In a countermove, U.S. officials here made new information available about true arrangements on the bases. They disclosed that last July 30, U.S. embassy officials agreed to provide up to $2 million to the Thais to mollify the guards.

A COPY OF THE memorandum of understanding about the bases was also made available for inspection. It included one clause that read, "The U.S. commander at the base will have complete operational control of the security guards," issuing orders and setting duties.

It had always been assumed the United States paid indirectly for base security through such mediums as the military aid program that has put more than $1 billion into the country, but the memorandum showed there was more than met the eye.

All pay scales and working conditions were set up by the United States and money for payrolls was directly provided. The guards were, in effect, employes of the U.S. government in everything but name.

Despite the clear wording of the agreement, the arrangement apparently didn't always work well. Through the years American commanders have often complained about the poor quality and performance of the guards. In the current strike and, on occasion, in former years, some U.S. servicemen have had to fill in for them.

Recession taking its toll on health of nation's jobless

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Losing your job may be hazardous to your health, according to research done at Brown University.

A typical scene: The average American loses his job, the resulting tensions and fears build up for days. Finally, he is rushed to the hospital with chest pains. He may have suffered a heart attack.

But a leading physician says it is possible the man's condition is all in his mind — that he has succumbed to psychosomatic illness.

Dr. Sidney Cobb, professor of community health and psychiatry at Brown, says increasing numbers of men are being brought to hospitals thinking they have just had a heart attack. In reality the pains are being caused by a buildup of emotions, fears and desires.

COBB RECENTLY was elected president of the American Psychosomatic Society Inc. He says the illness also causes above average incidences of hypertension, peptic ulcers and diabetes among men who have lost their jobs, as well as members of their families.

"The present recession has triggered additional psychosomatic illnesses, much of it due to job termination," he said.

In 1963 he made a study of 100 urban and rural factory workers who were anticipating losing their jobs. One Detroit auto paint company announced it would close in two years. That announcement, Dr. Cobb said, created a "period of anticipation" in which the workers frequently worried about their jobs and where to find new ones.

He compared 100 long-term workers about to lose their jobs with 74 in the same age group whose jobs were safe. The incidence of suicide was 30 times the national rate among the men who were losing their jobs.

COBB ALSO found there was a high rate of peptic ulcers among the wives of the jobless men.

"The point is that this also took its toll on the family," he said.

Another finding was the role of caffeine.

"Apparently when he is uncertain about the future, as in the phases of anticipation and termination, coffee really makes a difference. In overly aroused individuals, it is wise to withdraw coffee," Cobb said.

New disclosures made: U.S. hired Thai guards

by ROBERT KAYLOR

BANGKOK (UPI) — New disclosures of the extent to which the United States ran military affairs in Thailand during the Indochina war years have come as a result of a confrontation between security guards at military bases here and the government of Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj.

The disclosures, including the text of a memorandum of understanding between the two governments, shows that American commanders had control of the guards despite constant protestations by both governmens that the Thais held full sovereignty and control of the bases.

Among other things, U.S. officials used the alleged Thai control as an excuse for denying American reporters entry to the bases and access to U.S. airmen during the years Indochina was bombed.

THE SECURITY guards, all Thai military veterans put back into uniform to patrol the perimeters of bases where American planes were parked, were hired by the Thai government and were supposedly its employes.

Knowing they will lose their jobs when the last 19,000 GIs and 250 airplanes leave Thailand by next March, 2,000 of the guards have been on strike since last June to demand improved benefits from the government.

The guards marched on Kukrit's office to join the other pressure groups that have harried his shaky democratic government. As it has with other groups, the government caved in to the guards' demands. It began to leak reports that Kukrit had gone to the U.S. government for money to pay them off.

In a countermove, U.S. officials here made new information available about true arrangements on the bases. They disclosed that last July 30, U.S. embassy officials agreed to provide up to $2 million to the Thais to mollify the guards.

A COPY OF THE memorandum of understanding about the bases was also made available for inspection. It included one clause that read, "The U.S. commander at the base will have complete operational control of the security guards," issuing orders and setting duties.

It had always been assumed the United States paid indirectly for base security through such mediums as the military aid program that has put more than $1 billion into the country, but the memorandum showed there was more than met the eye.

All pay scales and working conditions were set up by the United States and money for payrolls was directly provided. The guards were, in effect, employes of the U.S. government in everything but name.

Despite the clear wording of the agreement, the arrangement apparently didn't always work well. Through the years American commanders have often complained about the poor quality and performance of the guards. In the current strike and, on occasion, in former years, some U.S. servicemen have had to fill in for them.

Recession taking its toll on health of nation's jobless

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Losing your job may be hazardous to your health, according to research done at Brown University.

A typical scene: The average American loses his job, the resulting tensions and fears build up for days. Finally, he is rushed to the hospital with chest pains. He may have suffered a heart attack.

But a leading physician says it is possible the man's condition is all in his mind — that he has succumbed to psychosomatic illness.

Dr. Sidney Cobb, professor of community health and psychiatry at Brown, says increasing numbers of men are being brought to hospitals thinking they have just had a heart attack. In reality the pains are being caused by a buildup of emotions, fears and desires.

COBB RECENTLY was elected president of the American Psychosomatic Society Inc. He says the illness also causes above average incidences of hypertension, peptic ulcers and diabetes among men who have lost their jobs, as well as members of their families.

"The present recession has triggered additional psychosomatic illnesses, much of it due to job termination," he said.

In 1963 he made a study of 100 urban and rural factory workers who were anticipating losing their jobs. One Detroit auto paint company announced it would close in two years. That announcement, Dr. Cobb said, created a "period of anticipation" in which the workers frequently worried about their jobs and where to find new ones.

He compared 100 long-term workers about to lose their jobs with 74 in the same age group whose jobs were safe. The incidence of suicide was 30 times the national rate among the men who were losing their jobs.

COBB ALSO found there was a high rate of peptic ulcers among the wives of the jobless men.

"The point is that this also took its toll on the family," he said.

Another finding was the role of caffeine.

"Apparently when he is uncertain about the future, as in the phases of anticipation and termination, coffee really makes a difference. In overly aroused individuals, it is wise to withdraw coffee," Cobb said.

Developer retains tax expert

A leading Chicago housing developer has come up with a new wrinkle that should take the mystery out of the 1975 tax rebate plan for buyers of qualified new homes.

United Development Company, a subsidiary of Urban Investment and Development Co., one of the Aetna Life & Casualty companies, has hired a professional tax preparation service to guarantee that buyers get the full credit they are entitled to.

The Guaranteed Income Tax Credit service is being offered by United to new home buyers at Village on the Lake, a condominium complex in Elk Grove Village, with extensive recreational facilities.

United has retained E. Mason, Inc., a tax preparation service with 13 Chicago-area locations, to prepare the 1975 federal income tax rebate for buyers. The preparation fee will be paid by United.

Robert Frommer, president of United, said the incentive plan was created both to provide buyers the assurance that they will receive the full benefit of the special legislation which provides a tax rebate of five per cent up to $2,000 on qualified new homes purchased this year.

"Filing a tax return without any such special considerations can be confusing enough," notes Frommer. "Add the procedure for claiming the tax rebate and it is certainly more than possible that many homebuyers will miss the full benefit of this legislation. Our tax consultant will prevent that from happening."

Village on the Lake has three two-bedroom plans priced from $31,790 to $39,290 and all of the new units qualify for the tax rebate. The homes can be purchased with a minimum $990 down payment, no closing costs and 7 7/8 per cent mortgages.

The development can be reached by taking the Northwest Tollway to the Arlington Heights Rd. south exit. Go south to Biesterfield Rd., and turn west two blocks to Wellington Ave. Furnished models are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

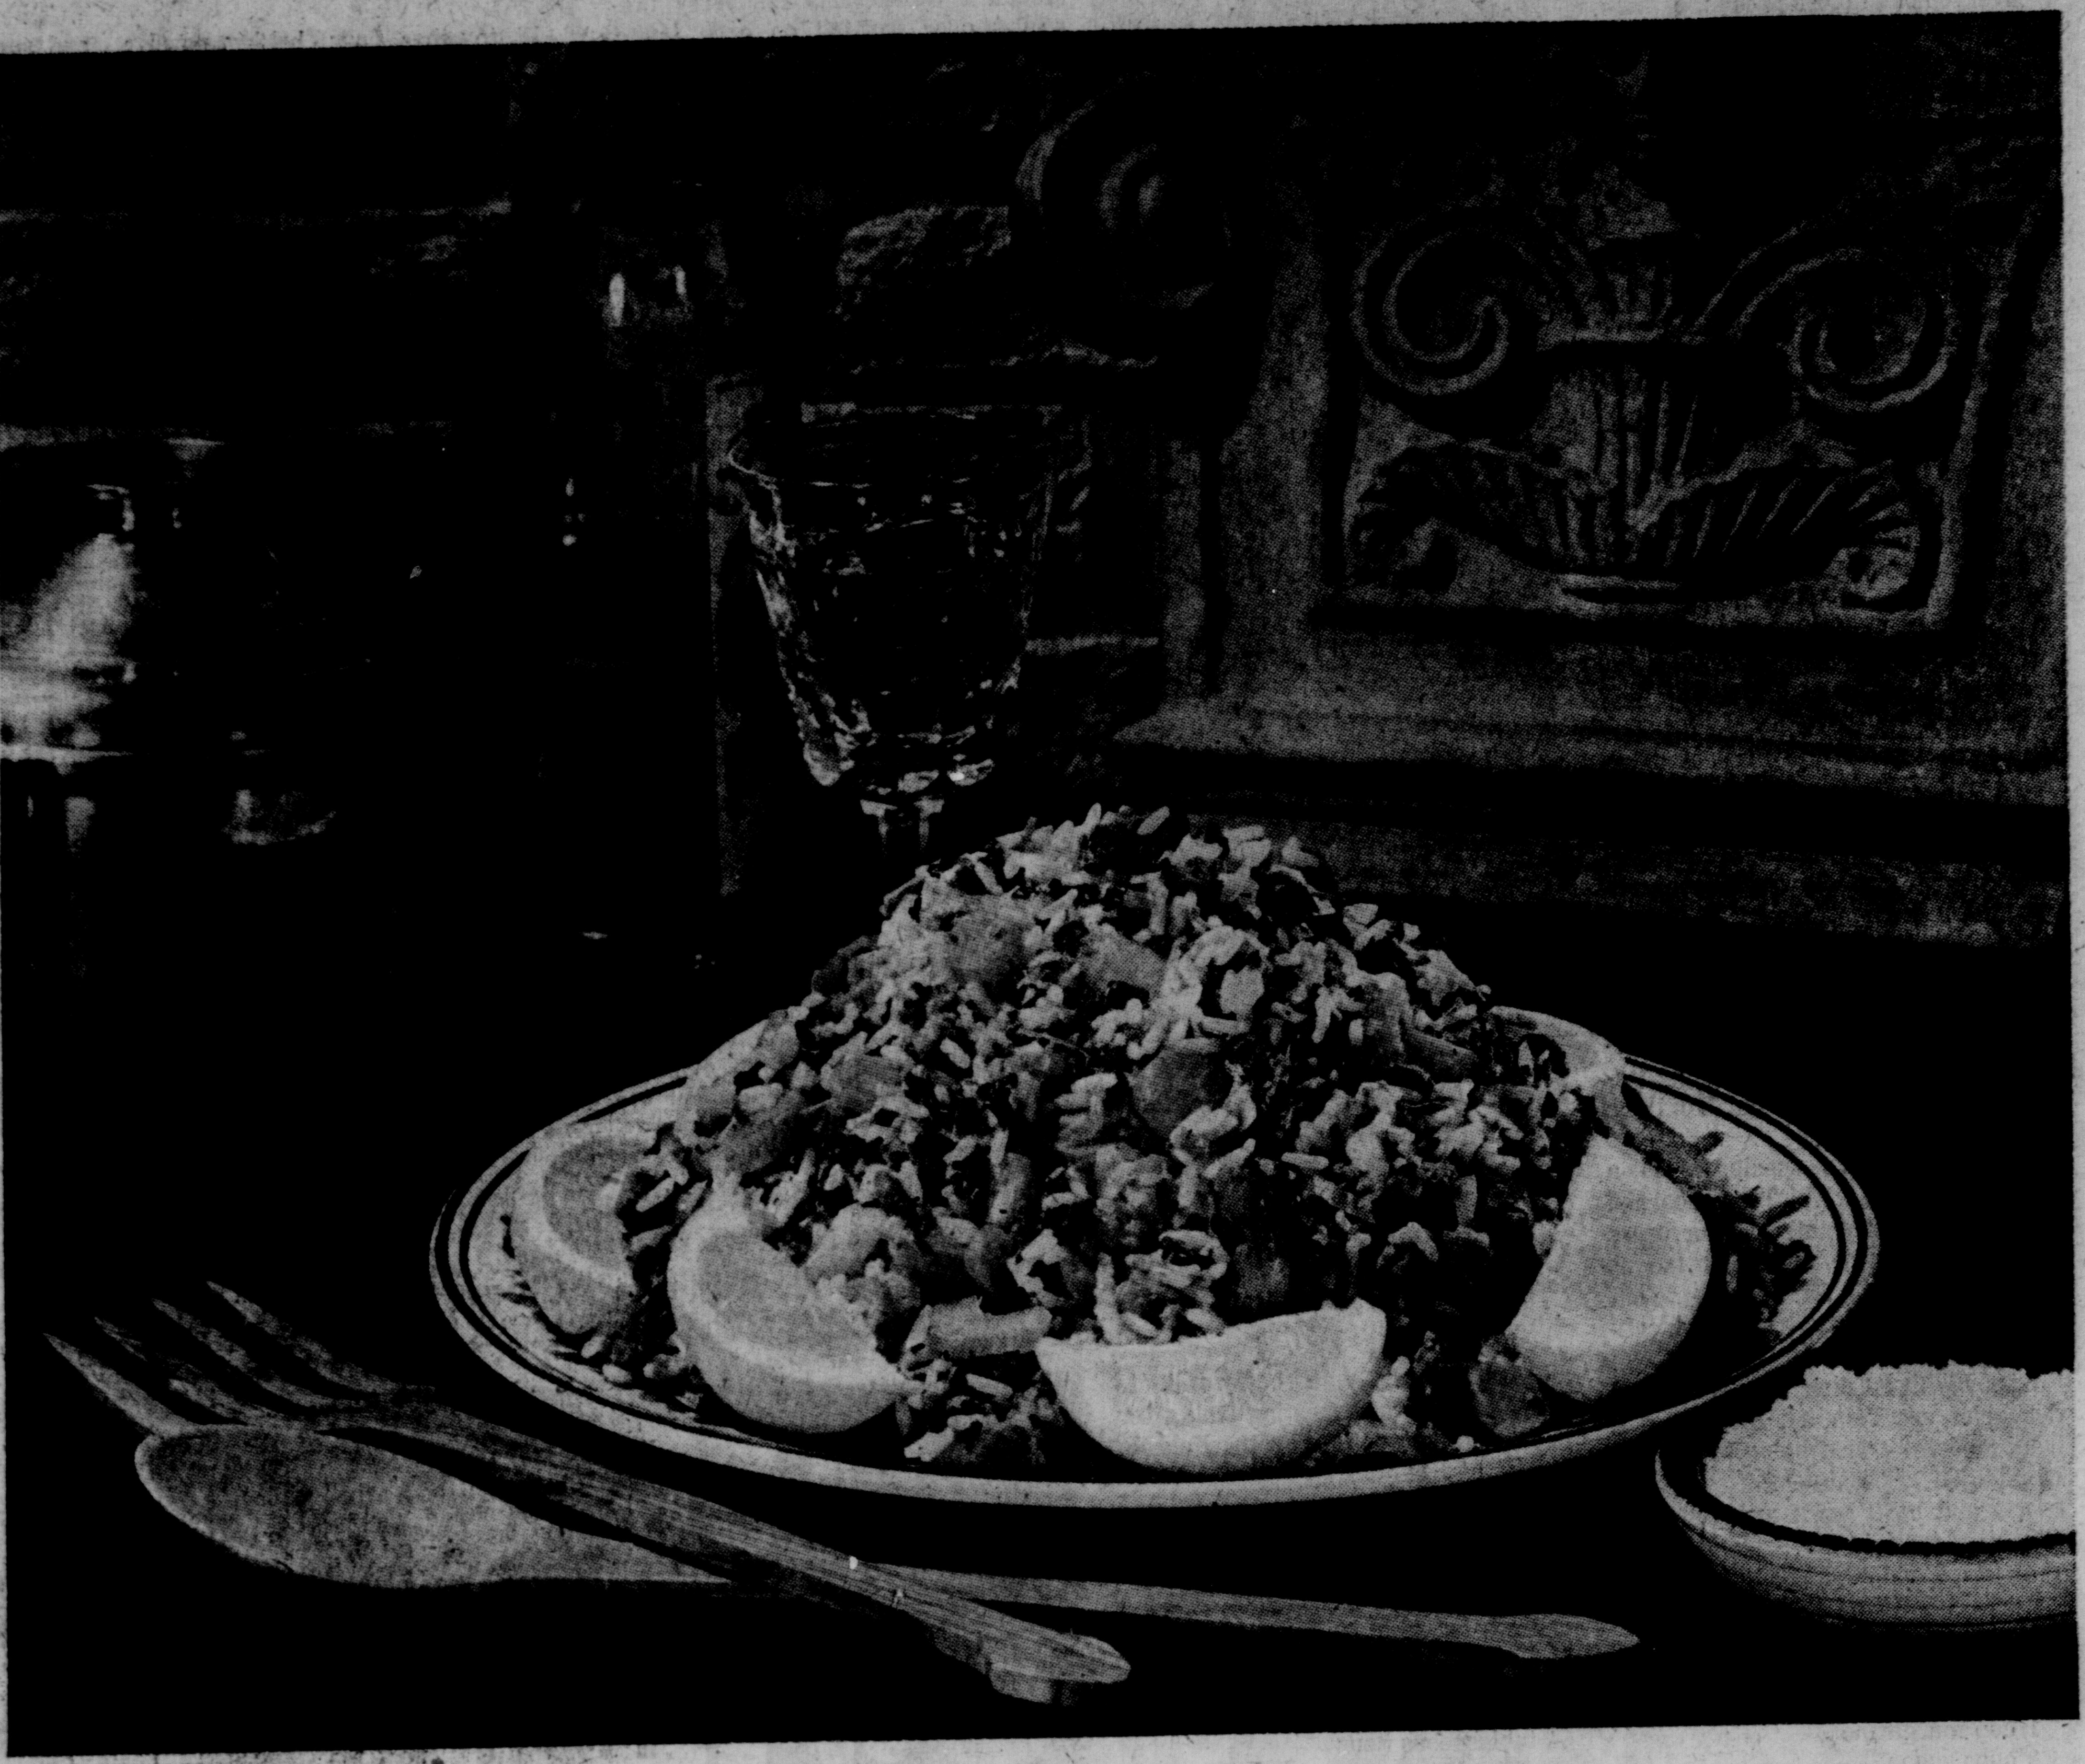
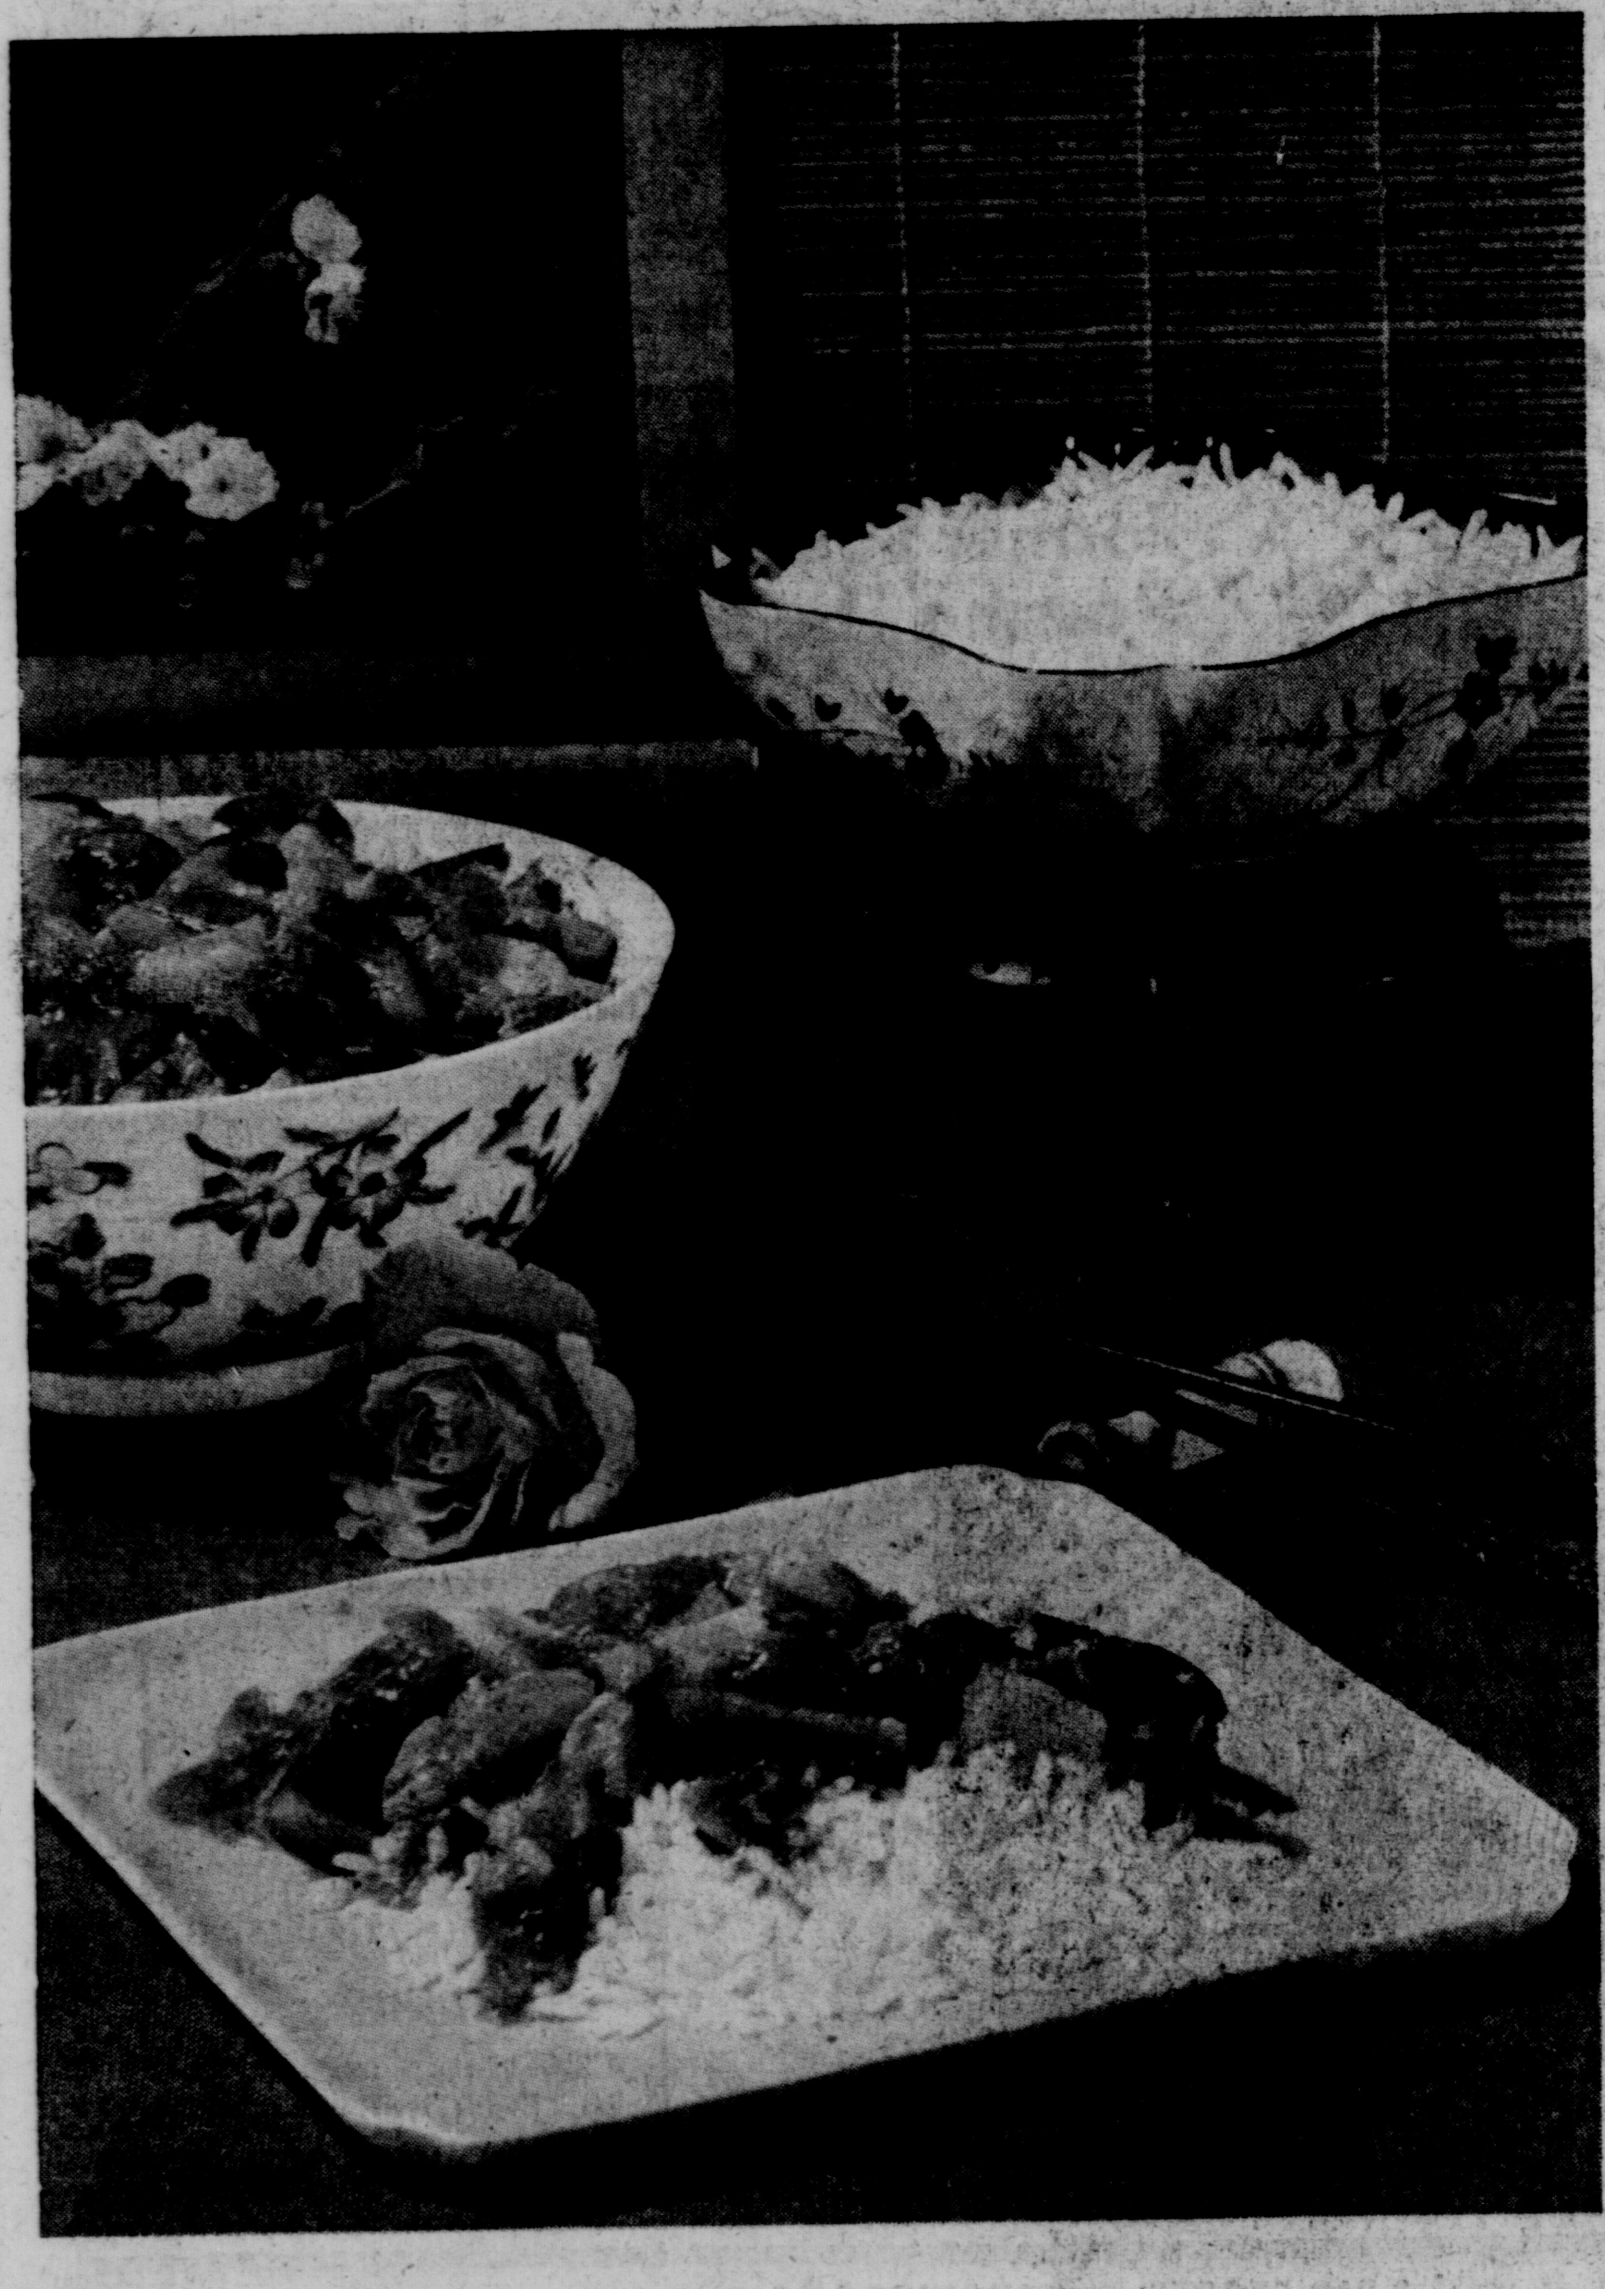
RICE: the world traveler

Looking for ways to save money in all aspects of our living is new to some of us. But in a world that has not always known affluence, scrimping and saving have been a way of life. This is evident in the cuisines of many nations. And what's so interesting is that this "economy" food tastes so good! We aren't even aware that the recipes were developed to stretch and make the most of "precious" foods like meat.

Every Oriental main dish begins with rice, the original budget stretcher. Next there is something served in a delightfully flavored sauce.

The Greeks go about it in a little different way. It's still meat, vegetables (the ones popular in that country) and rice. But you get a whole new effect by cooking the rice in with the meat and vegetables. And so it goes, rice helping in many ways to make the week's food budget last for seven days — and with all of the romance associated with foods from foreign lands.





PILAF A LA GRECQUE

1 pound lean ground beef
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup sliced celery
1½ cups thinly sliced carrots
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon each pepper and garlic powder
1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach
3 cups cooked rice
Lemon wedges, optional
⅓ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine meat, onions, celery, and carrots. Saute until meat is lightly browned. Add tomatoes, seasonings, and spinach. Cook over low heat until spinach has thawed and separates easily. Stir in rice; cover and simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from heat; serve with lemons and Parmesan cheese. Makes 6 servings.

T'ANG TSU' PORK
(Sweet and Sour Pork)

2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup soy sauce
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple tidbits (drain; reserve juice)
1 can (14½ to 16 oz.) tomatoes (drain; reserve juice)
¼ cup sweet pickle juice
3 cups cubed cooked pork
3 sweet pickles (2 inches each) cut in thin strips
1 large green pepper, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 can (5 oz.) water chestnuts (drain; thinly slice)
1 can (2½ oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
3 cups hot cooked rice

Blend cornstarch, soy sauce, and pineapple, tomato and pickle juices in skillet. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in pineapple, tomatoes, pickles, pork, green pepper, water chestnuts, and mushrooms. Cook and stir until green pepper is tender. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Makes 6 servings.

RICE BENGALI

1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups chicken broth
½ teaspoon each salt and turmeric
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup sliced green onions with tops
2 cups cubed cooked ham
½ cup mayonnaise
1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ to 1 teaspoon seasoned pepper
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ cup seasoned dry bread crumbs

Cook rice according to package directions, using chicken broth seasoned with salt and turmeric. Add remaining ingredients except crumbs. Adjust seasonings, if necessary. Turn into a greased shallow 2½-quart casserole. Top with crumbs. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes or until heated. Makes 6 servings.

FRIED RICE ORIENTAL

3 cups cubed cooked pork
1½ cups sliced green onions with tops
3 cups shredded cabbage
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 cups cold cooked rice
1 jar (2 oz.) pimientos (dice; reserve liquid)
1 egg
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Soy sauce

Saute pork, onions, and cabbage in oil until tender crisp. Add rice and pimientos with liquid. Cook only until heated. Make a well in the center of the rice and add the egg, stirring constantly. When egg is of soft scrambled consistency, start incorporating it into the rice-vegetable mixture. Add seasonings. Serve immediately with soy sauce. Makes 6 servings.

STEAK ITALIAN STYLE

1 pound lean beef round steak, cut in 1-inch cubes
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup chopped onions
1½ cups beef broth
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes (cut each in half)
½ teaspoon each basil, oregano, and seasoned pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
1 cup grated Mozzarella cheese
3 cups hot cooked rice
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Saute beef cubes in oil until brown on all sides. Add onions and cook 3 minutes longer. Stir in 1 cup broth, tomatoes, and seasonings. Heat to boiling, cover, reduce heat, and simmer 30 minutes or until steak is tender. Blend flour into remaining broth. Stir into meat mixture, cook until thickened. Stir in cottage cheese. Top with Mozzarella cheese and allow to melt. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Makes 6 servings.

Hand-me-down recipes favored by local cook

by LOIS SEILER

Everyone's favorite is the high, light and handsome German Sweet Chocolate Cake baked by Pat Mollsen of Mount Prospect. Long enjoyed by her husband, the cake recipe is one acquired by Pat from Dr. Mollsen's mother and it is now requested by all the Mollsen children for their birthdays.

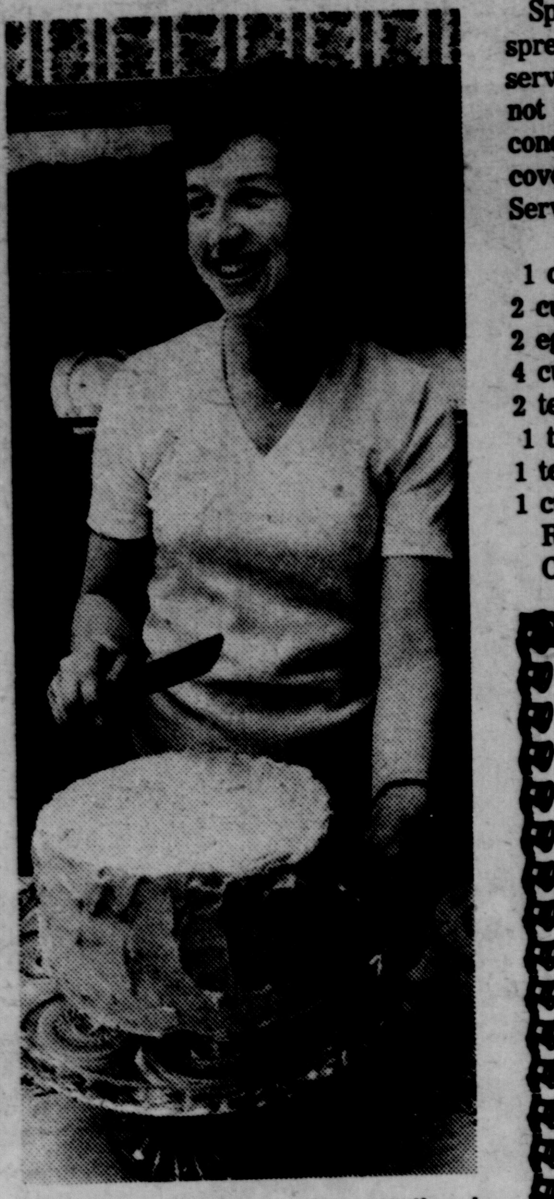
Regal in appearance, this three-layer cake is delicately chocolate flavored, with a white filling and frosting that is creamier than whipped cream. A thin layer of raspberry preserves spread between the layers adds just the right tang. The cake must be chilled until serving, and can be made a day ahead, if desired.

Baking has long been Pat's favorite hobby, and she candidly admits she's not bashful about asking friends for recipes. She requested a cookie recipe from an Amish lady because it had been a favorite of her husband's since childhood days. While Lizzie had always baked them on a wood-burning stove and never measured the ingredients, she explained her method and Pat and Clifford worked at duplicating the cookies with successful results.

THE COOKIES RISE and spread while baking, becoming quite large. Not too sweet, they are soft and cakelike in texture with an appealing flavor and taste delicious hot from the oven.

Another of Pat's specialties is a cream cheese pie which she learned to make from her mother. "For years mother thought she had a tremendous secret recipe, until Sara Lee came out with a pie that tasted almost identical," Pat chuckled.

Happy with all their mother's baked delicacies are Tom, 11, Katherine, 9, Dan, 8, Beth, 4, and baby Michael, 2. In addition to cooking, Pat enjoys all sports and craft work and will be a Bluebird leader in fall.



BIRTHDAY CAKE in Pat Mollsen's Mount Prospect family is always German Sweet Chocolate Cake. A thin layer of raspberry preserves is spread between the three layers for added tang.

MOM MOLLSEN'S CHOCOLATE CAKE

1 package (4 ounces)
German Sweet Chocolate
½ cup boiling water
1 cup margarine
2 cups sugar
4 egg yolks, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup buttermilk
4 egg whites,
stiffly beaten

Melt chocolate in boiling water and cool.

Cream butter and sugar until fluffy. Add egg yolks one at a time, beating well after each. Add melted chocolate and vanilla and mix well.

Sift together flour, salt and soda; add alternately with buttermilk to chocolate mixture, beating well after each addition until smooth. Fold in beaten egg whites.

Pour into three 8 or 9-inch layer cake pans which have had the sides greased and the bottoms lined with brown or waxed paper. Bakea at 350 degrees for 3o to 40 minutes and cool in tins.

FROSTING

4 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ cup butter
½ cup margarine
1 cup confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons
raspberry preserves

Combine flour and milk and mix well. Cook over low heat until thick, stirring constantly. Chill in refrigerator. Combine butter with margarine. Beat four minutes with electric mixer. To this add the powdered sugar and beat an additional four minutes. Add cooled paste and beat another four minutes. Blend in vanilla.

Spread frosting on each layer and spread 2 tablespoons raspberry preserves over frosting on each layer, not quite to the edge as it must be concealed. Frost top and side of cake. cover and store in refrigerator. Serves 12.

LIZZIE COOKIES

1 cup vegetable shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
4 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup buttermilk
Raisins

Cream shortening and sugar together; add eggs one at a time and blend well.

Sift together flour, baking powder and baking soda. Add alternately to batter with buttermilk. Blend in vanilla.

Drop by tablespoonsful onto greased baking sheet, about 6 to a sheet. Top with raisins, placing three in the middle of each mound. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Store in covered tin.

MOTHER'S CREAM CHEESE PIE

Crust:

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
½ cup melted butter
2 tablespoons sugar

Combine crumbs with melted butter and sugar. Butter a 10-inch pie pan; press crumbs on bottom and sides using the back of a tablespoon and chill.

Filling and topping:

2 eggs
½ cup sugar
Thinly-sliced rind of ¼ lemon
(optional)
8 ounces soft cream
cheese, cut up
8 ounces cottage cheese
1 cup sour cream
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon sugar

Into blender put eggs, ½ cup sugar and lemon rind. Cover and blend 20 seconds until lemon rind is grated. Without stopping, add cream cheese and cottage cheese ½ cup at a time. Blend until smooth. Pour into prepared crust and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

In blender container, put sour cream, 1 tablespoon sugar and vinalla. Cover; blend 2 seconds to mix. Spread over hot cheese pie. Bake five minutes more. Chill. Serves 6 to 8.

Rice differences count

Rice comes in various forms. It is important to know the differences if your rice dish is to be a success.

The amount of water required to cook rice varies with the age of the grain. For the first six weeks after harvest, eight cups of water and eight cups of rice are the proper proportions. The amount of water then rises steadily. When the rice is 11 months old, eight cups of rice need 10 cups of water.

There are also differences in the types of rice. Brown rice, which retains its bran coat and germ, is much slower to tenderize, although more valuable nutritionally, than highly polished rice.

AND GRAIN hybrids also vary. Short or medium grain types should be used in recipes calling for sauces, rings, croquettes and puddings because they cook up tender and moist. Long-grain types are best for salads, soups and main dishes where each grain should be tender and fluffy.

Pre-processed (or converted) rices are also on the market today — follow the directions carefully.

RICE CAN be kept white in hard water by adding one teaspoon lemon juice or one tablespoon vinegar to the cooking water.

One cup raw rice equals three cups when cooked. One cup brown rice yields three to four cups cooked rice. If preprocessed rice is used, the volume will be less (about one to two cups cooked for one cup uncooked). This is also true for browned rice.

Rice is a good source of iron, thiamine and niacin.

Jewish New Year

Honey ushers in a sweet future

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, is a religious holiday devoted to prayer and serious thought about the deeds of the past and plans for bettering the future.

With the holiday, celebrated this year on Sept. 6, come several traditional Jewish foods specifically associated with the New Year dinner. And each dish has certain symbolic meanings.

According to the Code of Jewish Law, fish denotes fruitfulness and plenty. The sweet flavor of many Jewish fish dishes began in ancient times when fish was transported in honey to preserve it.

Turkish Jews served the head of a fish to the head of the house as a symbol of leadership and wisdom and also as the symbol of the New Year. Sheep's head is symbolic for Jews from other countries and calf's head is traditional for Eastern Jews.

The sweetness of the New Year is symbolized by dipping slices of challah (the basic Jewish bread) or apple in honey.

THE TRADITIONAL meals include gefilte fish, meat or poultry, tzimmes or carrot pudding (as a wish for prosperity), and end with a sweet such as teiglach or honey cake.

No bitter or sour foods are served because these traits are not desired in the New Year.

Though challah is basic in the diet, at the New Year the bread is baked in a round shape as a wish for life without end and for a complete year with no interruption. Often these loaves are decorated with birds or ladders to provide a means for wishes and prayers to reach the heavens.

Here are several New Year recipes obtained from Volume I and Volume II of the cookbooks put out by Galila Chapter of the America Mizrachi Women. The cookbooks can be purchased for $3.50 each from Eva Gertzfeld, 6600 N. Francisco, Chicago 60645.

GEFILTE FISH

5 pounds fish (trout and whitefish or pike)
3 large onions, sliced
3 eggs
3 large carrots, sliced
Cold water
Salt to taste (about 5 teaspoons)
Pepper to taste

Filet fish, saving skin and bones.

Put the flesh and one large onion through a food grinder, then place in a wooden chopping bowl and chop until smooth. Add eggs, 4 teaspoons salt, pepper and enough cold water to make a light, soft mixture. Place fish, bones and skin on the bottom of a deep heavy kettle. Add remaining salt, onion and carrots. Form oval cakes of the fish mixture and place in kettle with enough cold water to cover. Cover pot and bring to a quick boil. Remove cover and cook at a slow boil 1½ to 2 hours. The liquid should be reduced by half. Allow fish to cool slightly before removing to retain the shape.

CARROT TZIMMES

1 pound fresh carrots, sliced
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup light brown sugar
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup carrot liquid

Place carrots in pot; cover with water and cook 15 to 20 minutes or until tender. Remove carrots and let liquid cool. Melt 2 tablespoons margarine in a one-quart saucepan. Slowly add flour, stirring constantly, until flour is cooked. Add cooled carrot liquid to flour, stirring constantly until mixure thickens and coats the spoon. Add brown sugar. Mix and add honey and salt. Return sliced carrots to sauce and simmer until mixture is well blended (5 to 10 minutes).

TEIGLACH

4 eggs
4 teaspoons oil
4 teaspoons sugar
Flour to thicken
Raisins or nuts or both for filling 1 pound honey
8 to 10 ounces glass sugar

Mix together eggs, oil and sugar; add flour until the mixture is very thick and does not stick to your hands. Break off one-inch size pieces and roll between the palms of your hands until the pieces are long and skinny like snakes. Add 1 or 2 pieces of the filling; twist the snake around the filling and fasten together so the filling is in the center. Do this to the entire mixture. Place each piece on wax paper coated with flour. Boil honey and sugar in a three-quart pot. Add the filled snakes and cook over medium heat until brown, stirring continuously with wooden spoon. Remove from the stove and add one glass cold water to stop the action. Remove the snakes from the honey and place on wax paper to drain. Wrap in tin foil; do not refrigerate. Makes about 150 Teiglach. (Do not boil the honey until the snakes are ready to be put in it or the honey will burn.)

HONEY CAKE

1¾ cups honey
1 cup strong coffee
2 tablespoons brandy
3½ cups flour (unsifted)
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup almonds, chopped
½ cup raisins, chopped
1 tablespoon lemon rind, grated
4 eggs
1 cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

Grease a 10-inch tube pan. Heat honey and coffee to boiling in a medium sized saucepan. Cool completely. Stir in the brandy. Sift flour, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon, cloves, ginger and nutmeg onto waxed paper; add almonds, raisins and lemon rind.

Beat egg slightly in a large bowl; add honey mixture, sugar mixture and beat until batter is smooth. Pour batter into a prepared pan. Bake in a slow (300 degree) oven 1¼ hours or until the center springs back when slightly pressed with your fingertip. Cool in a pan on a wire rack for 10 minutes; loosen around the edges and the tube with a small spatula. Turn out onto wire rack to cool completely.

Chicken rids its Sunday image

by Charles Flynn

The chicken industry of America, seeking to rid itself of the "ever on Sunday" tradition, has been seeking more sophisticated methods of cooking fowl as well as solving the quick meal preparation so prevalent in many homes.

This recipe by George Holley, Delaware public relations and advertising executive, won him $10,000 in a national cook-off contest in Little Rock, Ark. It took just 50 minutes to prepare.

Bone and skin 2 large chicken breasts and cut into pieces 2x4¾ inches. Sprinkle chicken pieces with ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1½ teaspoons monsodium glutamate. Put ½ cup corn oil into a 10-inch frying pan. Heat over medium flame, then add chicken and saute until pieces are white and opaque (about 6 minutes). Remove from pan and drain on paper toweling.

COOK 2 PACKAGES (10-ounce) of frozen asparagus according to package directions (4 to 5 minutes). Drain. Line the bottom of a 9x9x2 baking pan with the asparagus. Top with sauted chicken pieces. Mix together 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup (undiluted), ½ cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, and ½ teas. curry powder. Pour this over chicken and asparagus. Sprinkle the top with 1 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese.

Cover pan with aluminum foil and bake in pre-heated 375-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serves 4.

Acorn squash are plentiful at this time of year, so try this interesting recipe. Wash 2 medium squash and cut in half. Remove seeds. Place the squash cut side down in a shallow baking pan and cover bottom with water. Bake at 400 degrees for about 50 minutes or until squash are tender. Turn squash.

Mix together 1 cup unsweetened applesauce and 4 teaspoons brown sugar. Fill squash cavities with this mixture. Dot with butter or margarine (4 teaspoons) and sprinkle with cinnamon. Continue baking until applesauce is bubbly, about 15 to 20 minutes. Serves 4.

Fruit pot becomes tasty gift

A gourmet gift which is as fun to make and give away as it is to receive is the German Asbach Frucht-Topf or Pot of Brandied Fruit.

A wide variety of fresh, frozen and canned fruits can be used in the Frucht-Topf. Earthenware or ceramic crocks, glass apothecary jars or any other covered container not of metal or plastic will work. The fruit is layered with sugar, and brandy is poured over all. As the brandied fruit is used, more fruit and sugar are added from time to time to keep the pot full.

Brandied fruit is delicious served as is, or chilled, over cake, vanilla ice cream, ladyfingers, vanilla pudding. The juice can be added to tea and punches, or soaked into babas or a savarin.

POT OF BRANDIED FRUIT
(ASBACH FRUCHT-TOPF)

1 pint strawberries, hulled
4 peaches, peeled, pitted and sliced
6 apricots, halved and pitted
½ pound bing cherries, stemmed
1 small pineapple, cut into 1 inch cubes sugar
2 cups Asbach brandy

Place strawberries in a large glass or earthenware crock. Sprinkle lightly with sugar. Continue layering fruit with sugar. Pour over Asbach until all fruit is covered. Press fruit down under Asbach. Cover and let stand at room temperature for 2 to 3 days. The "topf" or pot of fruit is a revolving fund of brandied fruit to which you can add any pieces of fresh, frozen or canned fruit from time to time. Add fruit, sprinkle with sugar and cover with more Asbach. This mixture gets better as it ages and more interesting as various kinds of fruit are added to the pot. Makes about 2 quarts.

Blueberry relish

The North American Blueberry Council recommends this recipe for Spiced Blueberry Relish: Empty two cans (14 ounces each) of blueberries (or an equal amount of frozen blueberries) into a large saucepan. Add one peeled and diced apple, ½ cup sugar, one whole cinnamon stick and one teaspoon whole cloves. Bring to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer for three minutes.

Add four teaspoons lemon juice, two teaspoons vinegar and 1½ teaspoons aromatic bitters. Stir carefully just to mix. Remove from heat and let cool. Pour through a large strainer to drain off the juice. Remove cinnamon and cloves.

Chill the blueberry-apple mixture and serve as a relish. Makes 1⅓ cups.

What Happened To The Miracles?

Did you know that some large food chains have been saying that their prices were like miracles—now they are playing bingo, another food chain have baboons, or maybe you pronounce it another way, however, feed it a bananna and find out. We at Treasure Island still have stable low prices—no foolin.

Bananas for after school lunches

September's arrival is just around the corner, bringing with it the start of another school year. Before long, hungry after-schoolers will be raiding refrigerators and kitchen cupboards looking for afternoon treats.

All too often, though, after-school snacks are nutritional disasters, containing only empty calories. While snacks should be nutritious, they can also be fun. Peter Bananas are good nutrition and fun on a stick.

Bananas, impaled on wooden sticks, are dipped into a creamy blend of peanut butter, honey and chocolate, and then rolled in chopped nuts for crunch. Peter Bananas freeze well so they're easy to keep on hand for any number of snackers.

PETER BANANAS

½ cup peanut butter
4 small bananas
Wooden sticks
1/3 cup honey
6 ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup milk
Chopped nuts

Impale peeled bananas on wooden sticks. Chill in refrigerator 1 hour or more. To make sauce, combine honey and chocolate pieces in a saucepan. Place over low heat. Stir and cook until mixture comes to a boil and is smooth in consistency. Stir in milk. Dip chilled bananas in mixture to coat. Roll in chopped nuts. Place on flat tray. Freeze. Makes 4 servings.

PETER BANANAS

Food co-ops can work for retirees

Food co-ops can help retirees on fixed incomes solve budget problems, says Art Danforth, secretary-treasurer of the Cooperative League of the USA.

Until now, co-ops' most enthusiastic supporters generally have been young people, for obvious reasons. Many have large families and or low incomes. Presumably they also have the strength and stamina to cope with co-op pickup and distribution chores. This is one area in which retired persons might need help.

Harry Leichter, organizer of the Dale City, Va., Food Buyers Association, suggests turning to able-bodied neighbors, including teenagers, for aid in transporting and distributing heavy cases of food.

A food co-op consists of a group, usually about 15 to 20 families, who get together to buy food in bulk at wholesale prices. Members are responsible for picking up, sorting, weighing, packaging or bagging where necessary, and distributing the food.

PAYMENT generally is required in cash in advance. A lot of time and hard work is involved, said Leichter in an article in the AARP News Bulletin, a publication of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Many co-op members say the effort pays off in substantial savings and better quality food than they are accustomed to buying at retail stores.

Leichter says 20 families is the ideal number for a neighborhood co-op, although the larger the group, the lower the prices.

He also advises:

- Decide what you want to order, then shop wholesalers for the best prices.
- Be prepared to borrow or lease a truck if none of your members has a vehicle suitable for bulk pickups and delivery to a distribution center where each family must claim his purchases and pay for them.

Churches, community centers, schools or even the garage or basement of a member's home are possibilities for rent-free distribution centers.

Retirees with business experience would be good choices as coordinators and bookkeeper-treasurers.

Volunteers also should be recruited to take orders, distribute food and keep records.

TO COVER operating expenses, establish an annual membership fee that may be as low as $4 a family. A co-op needs money for phone calls, scales, mimeograph supplies, gas, possible legal fees and truck rental fee if you cannot borrow a delivery vehicle.

The first step, though, should be a check with your state tax office to determine what permits and licenses are required, and whether a sales tax or taxes must be collected.

Frosty fish

Plan the defrosting of frozen fish so that it will be cooked soon after it has thawed. It should not be held longer than a day before cooking.

Allow 18 to 24 hours in the refrigerator to thaw a one-pound package of frozen fish.

Frozen fish fillets and steaks can be cooked without thawing if additional cooking time is allowed, unless they are going to be breaded or stuffed. In such cases, the fish should be defrosted.

Buying a freezer?

Most families base their decision on a freezer purchase on the space and money available and the family's needs. The USDA says a compact may be the best value for a one or two-person household. Larger families need about three cubic feet per family member, or six cubic feet if large quantities of frozen food are bought regularly.

Bananas for after school lunches

September's arrival is just around the corner, bringing with it the start of another school year. Before long, hungry after-schoolers will be raiding refrigerators and kitchen cupboards looking for afternoon treats.

All too often, though, after-school snacks are nutritional disasters, containing only empty calories. While snacks should be nutritious, they can also be fun. Peter Bananas are good nutrition and fun on a stick.

Bananas, impaled on wooden sticks, are dipped into a creamy blend of peanut butter, honey and chocolate, and then rolled in chopped nuts for crunch. Peter Bananas freeze well so they're easy to keep on hand for any number of snackers.

PETER BANANAS

½ cup peanut butter
4 small bananas
Wooden sticks
1/3 cup honey
6 ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup milk
Chopped nuts

Impale peeled bananas on wooden sticks. Chill in refrigerator 1 hour or more. To make sauce, combine honey and chocolate pieces in a saucepan. Place over low heat. Stir and cook until mixture comes to a boil and is smooth in consistency. Stir in milk. Dip chilled bananas in mixture to coat. Roll in chopped nuts. Place on flat tray. Freeze. Makes 4 servings.

PETER BANANAS

Food co-ops can work for retirees

Food co-ops can help retirees on fixed incomes solve budget problems, says Art Danforth, secretary-treasurer of the Cooperative League of the USA.

Until now, co-ops' most enthusiastic supporters generally have been young people, for obvious reasons. Many have large families and or low incomes. Presumably they also have the strength and stamina to cope with co-op pickup and distribution chores. This is one area in which retired persons might need help.

Harry Leichter, organizer of the Dale City, Va., Food Buyers Association, suggests turning to able-bodied neighbors, including teenagers, for aid in transporting and distributing heavy cases of food.

A food co-op consists of a group, usually about 15 to 20 families, who get together to buy food in bulk at wholesale prices. Members are responsible for picking up, sorting, weighing, packaging or bagging where necessary, and distributing the food.

PAYMENT generally is required in cash in advance. A lot of time and hard work is involved, said Leichter in an article in the AARP News Bulletin, a publication of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Many co-op members say the effort pays off in substantial savings and better quality food than they are accustomed to buying at retail stores.

Leichter says 20 families is the ideal number for a neighborhood co-op, although the larger the group, the lower the prices.

He also advises:

- Decide what you want to order, then shop wholesalers for the best prices.
- Be prepared to borrow or lease a truck if none of your members has a vehicle suitable for bulk pickups and delivery to a distribution center where each family must claim his purchases and pay for them.

Churches, community centers, schools or even the garage or basement of a member's home are possibilities for rent-free distribution centers.

Retirees with business experience would be good choices as coordinators and bookkeeper-treasurers.

Volunteers also should be recruited to take orders, distribute food and keep records.

TO COVER operating expenses, establish an annual membership fee that may be as low as $4 a family. A co-op needs money for phone calls, scales, mimeograph supplies, gas, possible legal fees and truck rental fee if you cannot borrow a delivery vehicle.

The first step, though, should be a check with your state tax office to determine what permits and licenses are required, and whether a sales tax or taxes must be collected.

Frosty fish

Plan the defrosting of frozen fish so that it will be cooked soon after it has thawed. It should not be held longer than a day before cooking.

Allow 18 to 24 hours in the refrigerator to thaw a one-pound package of frozen fish.

Frozen fish fillets and steaks can be cooked without thawing if additional cooking time is allowed, unless they are going to be breaded or stuffed. In such cases, the fish should be defrosted.

Buying a freezer?

Most families base their decision on a freezer purchase on the space and money available and the family's needs. The USDA says a compact may be the best value for a one or two-person household. Larger families need about three cubic feet per family member, or six cubic feet if large quantities of frozen food are bought regularly.

FRENCH TOASTED TUNA SANDWICH

Tuna for breakfast?

Eventually even the kids grow tired of their favorite cold cereal for breakfast and are ready to try something a little different.

Fish and shellfish, though often thought of in lunch or dinner dishes, are easy to prepare, good to eat and contribute lots of protein to breakfast menus, too.

French Toasted Tuna Sandwiches make an unusual and nourishing breakfast or brunch dish the whole family will enjoy.

The tuna mixture can be made the night before and refrigerated to save time. In the morning, the sandwiches are quickly assembled, dipped into an egg mixture and fried until golden brown. Tart-sweet applesauce is a flavorful accompaniment.

FRENCH TOASTED TUNA SANDWICHES

1 can (9¼ oz.) tuna, drained
¾ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
2 tbsp. chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. chopped pimento
1 tsp. grated orange or lemon rind (optional)
½ tsp. salt
12 slices white bread
½ cup milk
2 eggs
1 tsp. sugar
Cooking oil or shortening
Applesauce

Flake tuna. Combine tuna, celery, salad dressing or mayonnaise, green pepper, pimento, orange or lemon rind, if used, and ¼ tsp. salt; mix well. Spread 6 slices of bread with an equal amount of tuna mixture; cover with remaining 6 slices of bread. Combine milk, eggs, sugar, and remaining ¼ tsp. salt; beat well. Dip sandwiches into egg mixture. Fry in hot oil or shortening over moderate heat until brown on one side. Turn carefully; brown on second side. Serve with heated applesauce.

Saving savvy

One way of saving sugar: follow the European custom of using sugar instead of frosting on cake. Sift confectioners' sugar through a doily to make a pattern on the top.

Save money by serving a vegetable casserole with cheese sauce occasionally instead of a more expensive meat and potatoes meal.

Milk switch

Calcium intake is likely to drop during the summer when many people switch to soft drinks, replacing some or all of the milk they usually consume. Milk and products made from it make up the body's main sources of calcium, a mineral necessary to a well balanced daily diet.

Fat-proofing your children . . .

by GAYNOR MADDOX

Fat-proofing their children against becoming fat adults is a job all parents must undertake. In the last few years we have discovered that fat adults learned to be fat when they were children.

"Today we know that the only way to prevent the inevitable psychological, physical and social problems of overweight that can blight your children's lives is never to let them get fat in the first place," comments Alvin Eden, M.D., a professor of pediatrics at New York University School of Medicine and director of pediatrics at a Brooklyn hospital.

Which children are destined to grow up fat? He answers: An infant who is overstuffed with milk. The baby who is fed solid foods much too early. The toddler who is incarcerated in a playpen or a stroller or is bribed with cookies to finish his lunch. The preschooler who is encouraged to watch TV to give his mother some peace and quiet. The school-age child who is driven to and from school. The adolescent who actually becomes malnourished because he seldom eats with the family. He never walks when he can sit and never runs when he can walk."

A THIN CHILD almost always grows up to be a thin adult. A fat child almost always grows up to be a fat adult.

"So don't tell your child to finish everything on his plate. He may not be hungry, he may not need it. By forcing him to eat you may be starting him on the path of putting on extra weight," Dr. Eden states in his new book, "Growing Up Thin" (McKay, $7.95). He quotes leading nutritionists and pediatricians, all of whom agree that fat is not beautiful, that it may be a physical handicap and a social hindrance.

" 'What a lovely thin baby,' " he says, "should become the modern form of praise. But so many mothers still think fatness, not normal leanness, is the sign of health." "A nice fat little baby" — we must disabuse parents' minds of that unfortunate cliche. Leanness, not fatness that will probably last throughout the infant's life must become the new understanding.

HE SUGGESTS no special diets, no crank diets, nothing harsh or painful, and humane attitude practiced with love. The infant or the toddler knows how much food he actually wants. Mother's fear that he will starve is silly and dangerous. He won't starve, Dr. Eden reminds.

He also points out that even infants need exercise to prevent getting overweight. As toddlers, they need to stretch their arms and legs, climbing and striving to walk, to discover their own strength. School children need to walk to school, if possible, to play games and to do errands. These activities will help keep their weight normal.

They need to cut down on so-called junk foods, too, because these are mostly sugar and carbohydrates and fairly useless nutritionally. Children grow fat nibbling, remember.

"Growing Up Thin" is an important book for parents. It will startle many parents who think fatness in an infant is a sign of God's favor. It is not, according to doctors and nutritionists.

Herd's up

World cattle numbers have increased about nine per cent and hog numbers about 12 per cent over the past five years. So, why do meat department prices keep rising?

For one thing, the poor feed corn crop in 1974 led to a four per cent decrease in the total production of red meat and poultry in the United States for the first six months of this year compared with the same period last year, says the American Meat Institute. In addition, meat consumption is increasing in Europe and other parts of the world as living standards improve.

For one thing, the poor feed corn crop in 1974 led to a four per cent decrease in the total production of red meat and poultry in the United States for the first six months of this year compared with the same period last year, says the American Meat Institute. In addition, meat consumption is increasing in Europe and other parts of the world as living standards improve.

Debunking some middle age myths

by GAY PAULEY

Middle age has become a dirty word in America, where youth is exalted and the aged neglected.

But now, some researchers are re-defining that period between being young and being old. They're finding that for many, middle age is a blessing, not a bugaboo, a period to be coveted, not cursed.

"The most optimistic thing to me is that I'm hearing that this group is turning on," said Dr. Richard Kerckhoff, president of the National Council on Family Relations. "They're avoiding the dullness trap and making it a period of re-enrichment.

"I think middle age is being recognized as a time in which thousands are seeing all kinds of advantages, including their marriages, for a satisfying way of life."

KERCKHOFF, professor of child development and family life at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., spoke on middle-age during a recent conference of the council in Salt Lake City. He enlarged on some of the points during a telephone interview.

The council is a forum for those who have interest in family relationships, whether they are educators, researchers or activists.

Middle age is difficult to define, said Kerckhoff. Some researchers call it "the period between when the children leave home and the breadwinners leave their jobs."

But society is "badly confused" about ages and how to bracket them, he said. "For convenience sake, I'd say middle age is the period between 40 and 65. But some good researchers are starting at 30. That'll shake up a lot of people.

"And some people even say middle age begins at 80.

"What we need is a functional rather than a chronological definition."

Kerckhoff fits his own definition. He's 54, married, and the father of three grown children.

IN HIS EARLY research into middle age attitudes, including both fact and fiction, he said, he found many individuals "torn apart" by the early middle years — the demands of job, spouse and children.

"It's been pictured as a dull time, trivial, the guts gone," he said. "I was surprised at how many writers expressed this . . . the attitude of settling down and settled back. Nothing interesting left. Age just ahead.

"But I find the attitude is changing. Some researchers, getting down to the nitty gritty, found 50-and 60-year-olds who did not express the desire to be 20 again. They found life satisfying, were pleased with their marital relationships, although this flies in the face of such data as the rising divorce rate."

Reduced pressures can lead "not to marital bliss but to marital blahs," he said, "because if the marriage wasn't a good one in the early years, it might not make it through the middle ones.

"THE TIME CAN be a hell of a crisis when there's not much reason for continuing to be together."

State of mind is all important — some research shows an almost "overwhelming satisfaction" with life by the 50, 60 and 70 group, he said.

Whatever the goals are "completely personal." He noted that for some, they were simple — marriage was answer enough.

But for many, it's a time for further reassessment. Who am I? What is life all about? Where am I going?

Rather than viewing the middle years as a crisis, Kerckhoff said, they can offer a chance to grow. Couples can concentrate on one another, becoming good friends as well as marriage partners.

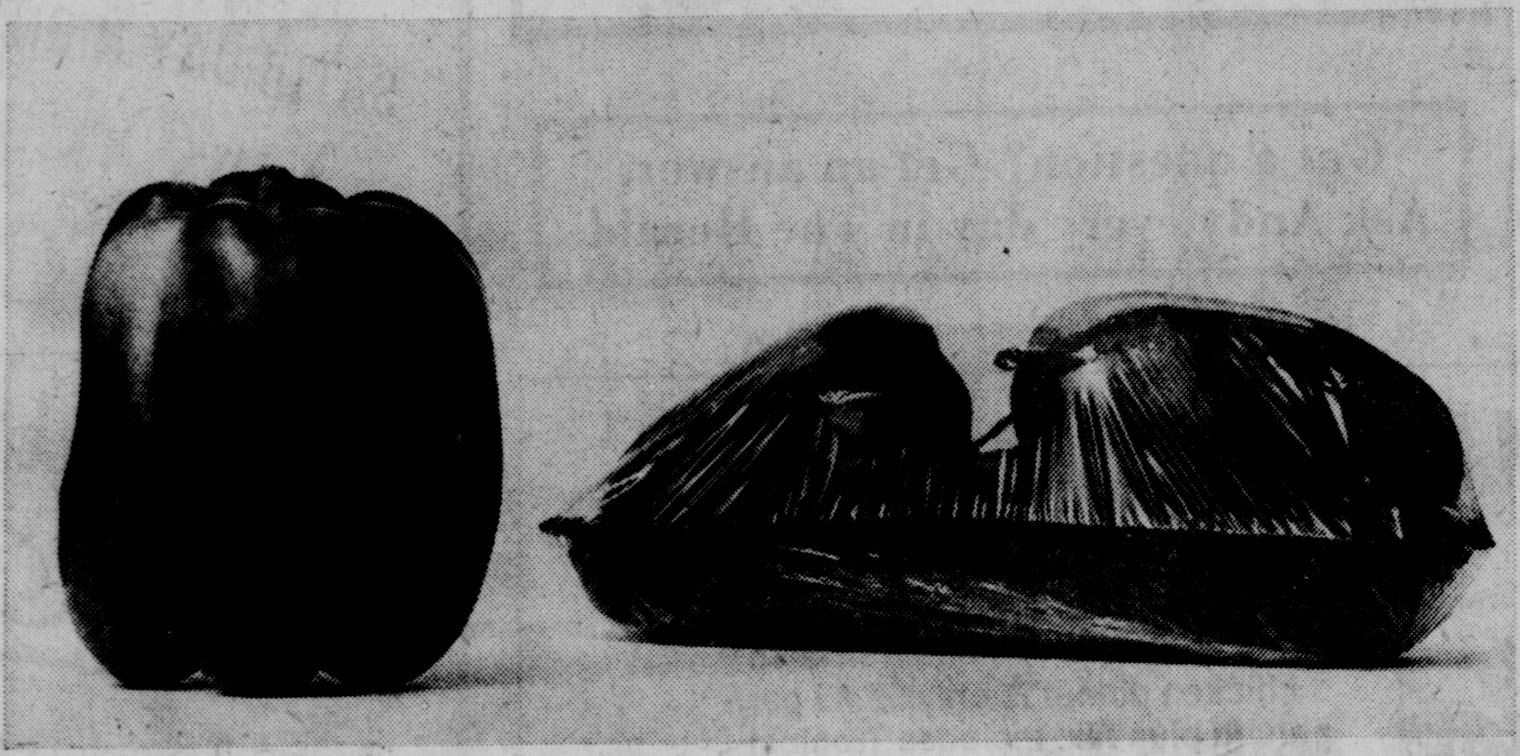
Disagreement on prepackaging

by BARBARA LADD



If two major food chains take opposite positions on whether customers do or do not prefer prepackaged produce, how are consumers to determine whether they are the leaders or the followers?

Both Eagle and Jewel stores have conducted consumer surveys on this question in the past with different results.

Eagle stores do not prepackage fresh produce because their survey indicated consumers were against the practice, according to a spokesman at Eagle headquarters in Rockford.

Jewel markets, on the other hand, do prepackage because, said Kathy Guidi, consumer specialist, their survey showed customers favor it.

An informal survey by the Herald confirmed the Eagle findings. Of 50 customers questioned at random at Eagle and Jewel stores, 90 per cent said they dislike prepackaging.

FURTHER SUPPORT of anti-packaging opinion has come from none other than another Jewel consumer representative, Jane Armstrong. In a speech at a food conference earlier this summer, she called for greater discrimination between what she said are "true consumer needs and demands with other motives." She mentioned specifically prepackaging.

At the same conference Nancy Steortz, U.S. Department of Agriculture consumer affairs director, said prepacking of fresh produce "is most certainly not meeting consumer needs." Terming some of it "deceptive," she noted that rotten parts of fruit and vegetables may be hidden from the shopper's view.

Hiding of rotten parts was one of the reasons cited by those in the prepackaging surveys who said they opposed the practice.

OTHERS MENTIONED frustration at not being able to buy the exact quantity of produce they desired. A few thought prices are higher for prepackaged fruits and vegetables. Two expressed the opinion that prepacking is an environmental waste.

Two who said they prefer prepackaged produce could not say why.

Despite the negative reactions to prepackaging, there are advantages.

"Prepackaging is efficient for customers and for ourselves," said Bill Newby, Jewel spokesman. Customers don't have to wait in line at scales and stores don't have to hire people to stand at scales full-time weighing produce, he explained.

Larry Nauman, Dominick's representative, cited other advantages.

ONE IS THAT sanitation is improved by not letting consumers handle produce. Grimy, germ-laden hands don't have a chance to penetrate the wrappings.

"And we save about 20 per cent normally lost from handling," explained Nauman. The losses, he said, result from squeezing and bruising of fresh produce as customers try to pick "the best of the bunch" and from those cherries, grapes and other produce casually popped into the mouths of passing customers.

At least one of the 50 shoppers questioned by the Herald agreed:

"I like to pick my own produce," said Mrs. R. Larson, Arlington Heights, "but I think there's more spoilage when it's loose because people mess around with the fruits and vegetables. Maybe prepackaging is a way to get around this."

THERE IS STILL the matter of cost. In an article published two years ago the Washington Post stated that the cardboard tray and plastic film used to wrap one grapefruit cost six cents. No public studies have been made in the last 10 years that would substantiate the Post claim or give any other figures on prepackaging, but the Eagle spokesman said he felt the Post's figures could still apply. Cost of labor and handling today might even make it a little higher, he said.

Neither Jewel nor Dominick's representatives could give packaging cost figures.

Newby said Jewel began prepackaging more of its produce several years ago when Chicago passed an ordinance requiring all produce be priced by the pound. "The only way to comply is to prepackage," he said.

BUT SINCE THAT ordinance doesn't apply to the suburbs, both pound pricing and "piece" pricing exist here.

"Piece" pricing is the practice of selling items at one price, regardless of weight. For example, heads of lettuce, regardless of size, might sell for 45 cents a head.

Prepackaging of "piece" priced fruits and vegetables can result in shortchanging a consumer. For example, a package of oranges recently sold in an Arlington Heights market for 75 cents. But oranges vary in weight and so did the packages, ranging from one and three-quarters pounds to two and a quarter pounds.

Other examples: heads of lettuce at 39 cents a head weighed from one to two pounds and packages of sweet corn at 79 cents also varied by a pound.

FOR THE MOST PART, area stores try to package different amounts of the same type produce to meet the varying needs of the individual shopper. Sometimes, however, the consumer is stuck with an amount not wanted or needed.

Mrs. Steortz, the USDA consumer adviser, had counsel for such circumstances. At the June food conference she said, "If produce is prepackaged, break the package and buy only what you need."

Jewel and Dominick's representatives give the same advice to customers. In fact, said Jewel's Ms. Guidi, Jewel stores periodically post signs stating that.

FUNDS RAISED at a Sept. 18 fashion luncheon sponsored by Northwest Community Hospital Auxiliary will help buy this heart monitoring equipment and two other systems for the hospital. Auxiliary president Ruth Crawford, standing, and Corky Patberg, lunch chairman, see how it works. Tickets for the "In the Pink" luncheon at Allgauer's Fireside, Northbrook, are $10 and may be bought from Doris Jacobson, 381-5548. Les Waverly Trio will provide music; Cathi Watson will commentate with fashions from Comack-Shannon of Barrington.

Plastic food wrapping ban proposed by FDA

Increasing evidence concerning the harmful effects of vinyl chloride plastics used to package food has prompted the Food and Drug Administration to act.

In the Sept. 3 issue of the Federal Register, the FDA proposed a ban on the use of vinyl chloride plastic in bottles, blister packs, boxes and other semi-rigid and rigid packaging that comes in contact with food. The proposal, published for public comment, would also prohibit vinyl chloride plastics in coatings applied to fresh citrus fruits.

Vinyl chloride, ordinarily a gas, has been shown to cause cancer when inhaled by humans and is suspected of having a similar potential when ingested.

It is the second most commonly used plastic in food packaging.

THE PROPOSED regulation would continue to permit vinyl chlorisde plastics in pliable film-type wraps, gaskets, cap liners, tubing and package coatings which come in contact with food. This is because the process in making these particular plastics greatly reduces the residual vinyl chloride.

However, in semi-rigid, rigid and generally heavier vinyl chloride plastics like bottles, the residue may migrate from the plastics into the food.

Sixty days will be allowed for public comment on the proposed regulations, now scheduled to become effective 30 days after final publication in the Federal Register. Comments may be filed with the Hearing Clerk, Food and Drug Administration, Room 4-65, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20852.

Potting shed

by Mary B. Good

A few week's ago I invited gardeners to send in their hard-luck stories about this year's crop failure. Here is the winning gardener's Sob Story:

"Dear Mary B. Good,

The claim that I have a garden is the funniest thing I could write.

Way back in April, I planned on a garden to save money on our grocery bill. I dug up a patch of grass and turned over six inches of dirt, and it sure was hard work. In May, after a week of fussing, I spent five dollars on a book of gardening, seeds, plant food, gloves for me, a hoe, six tomato plants and four peppers. I knew I had a bargain in the plants, as they were large and healthy-looking.

I MAPPED THE planning: corn in the back; beans, chard — what is this? — carrots, radishes, lettuce, and cucumbers; tomatoes on one side, peppers on the other. I also planted some potato eyes. It took all morning of hard work, but by noon it looked like a picture in my $1 book.

That night, Mother Nature changed the rows around. It took six birds three minutes to eat the corn seed, and my cat less than that in time pulling out the cucumber seed. The radishes gave up when we had that June heat wave, and we went on vacation the first of July. I guess when I came home, I pulled out the lettuce and left some healthy weeds. I still had all my tomatoes and peppers and one potato plant.

SUNDAY, MY sister brought me 24 orange-size tomatoes and informed me that my potato plant was a weed. The peppers (I have a bushel) are HOT peppers and no one will eat them; and my zillion tomatoes are cherry tomatoes and will never ripen before frost.

Next year, I shall have a rock garden. I already threw some rocks there, getting a head start.

Enclosed are some of the peppers I don't know what to do with.

Sincerely,
Dell Marie Kneller

Well, Mrs. Kneller, you've got just about the worst luck, and hopefully you will appreciate the "Frost - Knocked-Out-My-Garden-and Boy - Am I - Glad" Award!

WE'RE SENDING you a couple pounds of potatoes with the plants still on them, so you can fool your friends (and your sister), and a "Living Stone" plant from Park Seed Co. is coming via the postman.

You're a good sport for sending in your Big Sob Story!

Yours in fun,

Debunking some middle age myths

by GAY PAULEY

Middle age has become a dirty word in America, where youth is exalted and the aged neglected.

But now, some researchers are re-defining that period between being young and being old. They're finding that for many, middle age is a blessing, not a bugaboo, a period to be coveted, not cursed.

"The most optimistic thing to me is that I'm hearing that this group is turning on," said Dr. Richard Kerckhoff, president of the National Council on Family Relations. "They're avoiding the dullness trap and making it a period of re-enrichment.

"I think middle age is being recognized as a time in which thousands are seeing all kinds of advantages, including their marriages, for a satisfying way of life."

KERCKHOFF, professor of child development and family life at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., spoke on middle-age during a recent conference of the council in Salt Lake City. He enlarged on some of the points during a telephone interview.

The council is a forum for those who have interest in family relationships, whether they are educators, researchers or activists.

Middle age is difficult to define, said Kerckhoff. Some researchers call it "the period between when the children leave home and the breadwinners leave their jobs."

But society is "badly confused" about ages and how to bracket them, he said. "For convenience sake, I'd say middle age is the period between 40 and 65. But some good researchers are starting at 30. That'll shake up a lot of people.

"And some people even say middle age begins at 80.

"What we need is a functional rather than a chronological definition."

Kerckhoff fits his own definition. He's 54, married, and the father of three grown children.

IN HIS EARLY research into middle age attitudes, including both fact and fiction, he said, he found many individuals "torn apart" by the early middle years — the demands of job, spouse and children.

"It's been pictured as a dull time, trivial, the guts gone," he said. "I was surprised at how many writers expressed this . . . the attitude of settling down and settled back. Nothing interesting left. Age just ahead.

"But I find the attitude is changing. Some researchers, getting down to the nitty gritty, found 50-and 60-year-olds who did not express the desire to be 20 again. They found life satisfying, were pleased with their marital relationships, although this flies in the face of such data as the rising divorce rate."

Reduced pressures can lead "not to marital bliss but to marital blahs," he said, "because if the marriage wasn't a good one in the early years, it might not make it through the middle ones.

"THE TIME CAN be a hell of a crisis when there's not much reason for continuing to be together."

State of mind is all important — some research shows an almost "overwhelming satisfaction" with life by the 50, 60 and 70 group, he said.

Whatever the goals are "completely personal." He noted that for some, they were simple — marriage was answer enough.

But for many, it's a time for further reassessment. Who am I? What is life all about? Where am I going?

Rather than viewing the middle years as a crisis, Kerckhoff said, they can offer a chance to grow. Couples can concentrate on one another, becoming good friends as well as marriage partners.

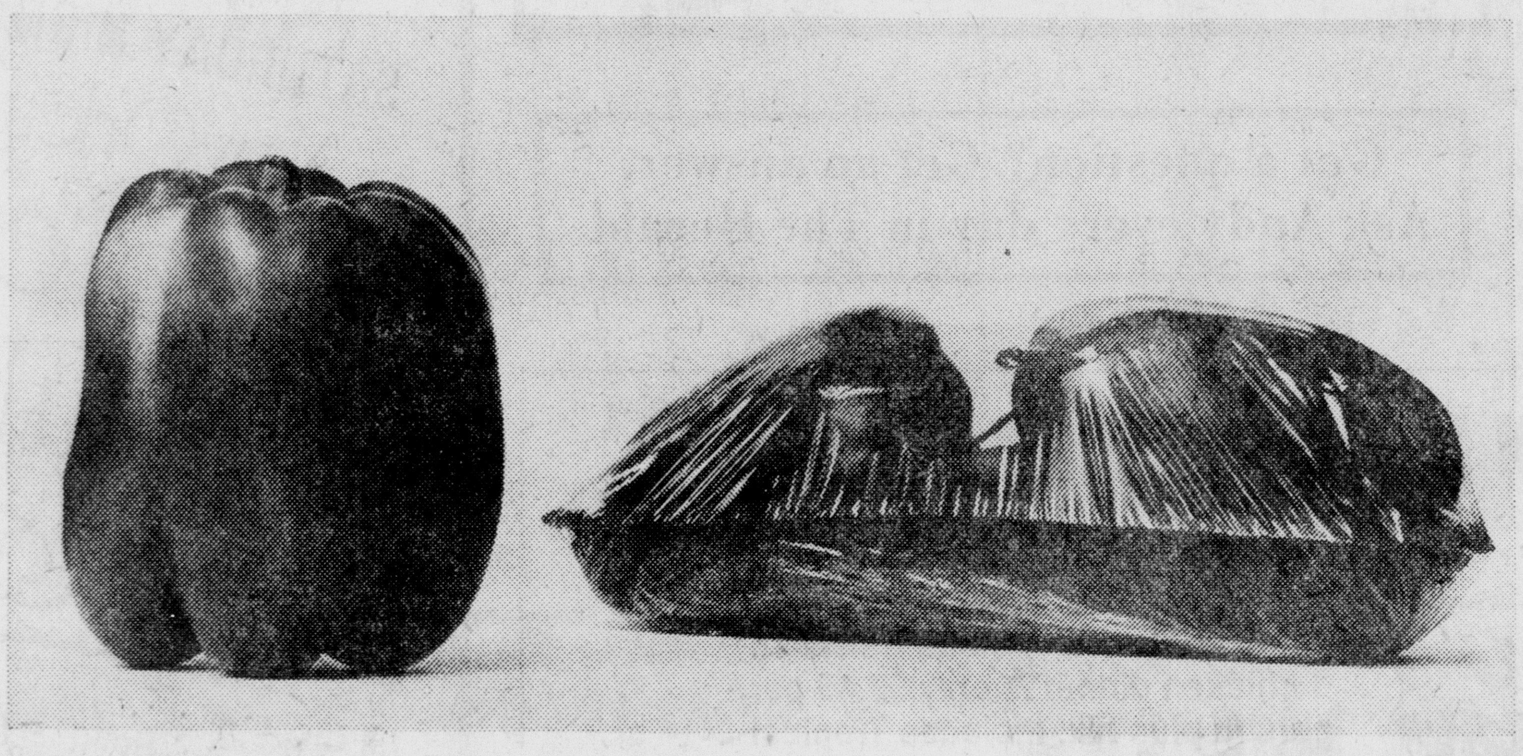
Disagreement on prepackaging

by BARBARA LADD



If two major food chains take opposite positions on whether customers do or do not prefer prepackaged produce, how are consumers to determine whether they are the leaders or the followers?

Both Eagle and Jewel stores have conducted consumer surveys on this question in the past with different results.

Eagle stores do not prepackage fresh produce because their survey indicated consumers were against the practice, according to a spokesman at Eagle headquarters in Rockford.

Jewel markets, on the other hand, do prepackage because, said Kathy Guidi, consumer specialist, their survey showed customers favor it.

An informal survey by the Herald confirmed the Eagle findings. Of 50 customers questioned at random at Eagle and Jewel stores, 90 per cent said they dislike prepackaging.

FURTHER SUPPORT of anti-packaging opinion has come from none other than another Jewel consumer representative, Jane Armstrong. In a speech at a food conference earlier this summer, she called for greater discrimination between what she said are "true consumer needs and demands with other motives." She mentioned specifically prepackaging.

At the same conference Nancy Steortz, U.S. Department of Agriculture consumer affairs director, said prepacking of fresh produce "is most certainly not meeting consumer needs." Terming some of it "deceptive," she noted that rotten parts of fruit and vegetables may be hidden from the shopper's view.

Hiding of rotten parts was one of the reasons cited by those in the prepackaging surveys who said they opposed the practice.

OTHERS MENTIONED frustration at not being able to buy the exact quantity of produce they desired. A few thought prices are higher for prepackaged fruits and vegetables. Two expressed the opinion that prepacking is an environmental waste.

Two who said they prefer prepackaged produce could not say why.

Despite the negative reactions to prepackaging, there are advantages.

"Prepackaging is efficient for customers and for ourselves," said Bill Newby, Jewel spokesman. Customers don't have to wait in line at scales and stores don't have to hire people to stand at scales full-time weighing produce, he explained.

Larry Nauman, Dominick's representative, cited other advantages.

ONE IS THAT sanitation is improved by not letting consumers handle produce. Grimy, germ-laden hands don't have a chance to penetrate the wrappings.

"And we save about 20 per cent normally lost from handling," explained Nauman. The losses, he said, result from squeezing and bruising of fresh produce as customers try to pick "the best of the bunch" and from those cherries, grapes and other produce casually popped into the mouths of passing customers.

At least one of the 50 shoppers questioned by the Herald agreed:

"I like to pick my own produce," said Mrs. R. Larson, Arlington Heights, "but I think there's more spoilage when it's loose because people mess around with the fruits and vegetables. Maybe prepackaging is a way to get around this."

THERE IS STILL the matter of cost. In an article published two years ago the Washington Post stated that the cardboard tray and plastic film used to wrap one grapefruit cost six cents. No public studies have been made in the last 10 years that would substantiate the Post claim or give any other figures on prepackaging, but the Eagle spokesman said he felt the Post's figures could still apply. Cost of labor and handling today might even make it a little higher, he said.

Neither Jewel nor Dominick's representatives could give packaging cost figures.

Newby said Jewel began prepackaging more of its produce several years ago when Chicago passed an ordinance requiring all produce be priced by the pound. "The only way to comply is to prepackage," he said.

BUT SINCE THAT ordinance doesn't apply to the suburbs, both pound pricing and "piece" pricing exist here.

"Piece" pricing is the practice of selling items at one price, regardless of weight. For example, heads of lettuce, regardless of size, might sell for 45 cents a head.

Prepackaging of "piece" priced fruits and vegetables can result in shortchanging a consumer. For example, a package of oranges recently sold in an Arlington Heights market for 75 cents. But oranges vary in weight and so did the packages, ranging from one and three-quarters pounds to two and a quarter pounds.

Other examples: heads of lettuce at 39 cents a head weighed from one to two pounds and packages of sweet corn at 79 cents also varied by a pound.

Dear Dorothy: How do you remove labels from cooking pots? I bought several large pots and no amount of soaking or steel wool will completely eliminate the glue beneath the labels. Would you know a solution?—Mary C. Floyd

In days past these labels were applied with a casein glue which is water soluble, so soaking in water took off label and glue without a bit of trouble. The new technology employs different adhesives and one has to go down the list of solvents in the hope one of them will work. So if water doesn't soak it off, you go to a cleaning fluid. If that doesn't do it, you try rubbing alcohol or nail-polish remover. If you still have no luck, you move to lacquer thinner (observing the customary precautions).

Curiously, several readers have volunteered that they have had some success using the well-known detergent wax or letting salad dressing stay on the label until the glue softens.

Portion choice experiment a success

by Monica Wilch Perin

A few restaurants around the country have begun to experiment with portion choices in response to the urging of U.S. Department of Agriculture consumer affairs director, Nancy Steorts.

Earlier this year Steorts pointed out to the National Restaurant Association that many consumers feel restaurant servings are much too large to finish eating, and they are concerned about the waste of food and the high cost.

As a result, the Marriott Camelback Inn in Scottsdale, Ariz., revised its menu to offer size selections in entrees along with appropriately adjusted prices. The restaurant's manager found the program so successful with consumers that he is revising the rest of the menu.

NOT ONLY WAS the experiment popular with customers, it enabled the restaurant to improve its profits by eliminating much waste and providing clearer guidelines for food purchasing and preparation, said manager Bill Bennett.

The initial choices, percentage of customer preference, and price were as follows:

Prime Rib: 10 oz. — 25% - $8.75; 8 oz. — 45% — $7.50; 6 oz. — 30% — $6.25.

New York Steak: 10 oz. — 30 — $9.25; 8 oz. — 48% — $7.75; 6 oz. — 22% — $6.25.

Shrimp: 6 shrimp — 35% — $7.50; 4 shrimp — 65% — $5.25.

Veal chops: 2 chops — 48% —$7.25; 1 chop — 52% — $5.00.

HOWEVER, CONTRAST this very progressive effort at Marriott Camelback inn with the situation at the Hot Shoppes Restaurants — also owned by Marriott, and found in the East.

Media & Consumer magazine recently reported that a customer in a Hot Shoppe in Washington, D.C., ordered the breakfast special — hotcakes and eggs — but without the eggs.

The waitress informed the customer he couldn't have it without the eggs, whereupon the customer demanded to know why not, since he did not intend to eat the eggs and would save the restaurant some waste.

THE WAITRESS said she would check with the cook. When she returned, she told the customer the cook said it couldn't be done that way— and then she asked the customer how he would like his eggs!

Incidentally, the Marriott Lincolnshire here does not offer portion choices on its menu — other than a children's portion — and the manager of the dining room said he "hasn't heard anything about" the Scottsdale experiment or any company-wide move to adopt the policy.

LWV salutes four members

Des Plaines League of Women Voters is saluting Peggy Florey, Helen McNaney, Judy Redig and Marge Steinhauer during September.

Together they have contributed 12 years of volunteer service to Des Plaines through League. Their interests include local government, election laws, campaign financing, helping to prepare to league's "Know Your Town" book for use in the local schools and observing the official board meetings of the housing commission, city council and zoning board.

Their community activities include St. Emily's Helping Hands, Northwest Suburban Day Care Center, FISH, St. Stephen's School Board and the Dist. 62 School Board Caucus.

Membership in the group is open to all men and women 18 years and older. Information is available by calling 827-8734 or 827-8538.

Returning women set fall meeting

Women Returning to School, a student organization at Oakton Community College, has scheduled its first meeting of the fall term for next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Building 6, Room 603, on the Oakton campus at Oakton and Nagle, Morton Grove.

At this meeting, Elaine Sullivan, assistant professor of student development, will lead a panel of counselors and instructors in a discussion of ideas and questions relating to the individual student and her role at Oakton.

The following meeting Wednesday, Sept. 24, will feature Michael Dessimoz, assistant director of admissions and records, who will present in-dept information on sources of financial aid available to students, especially returning women. Ruth Turiel, assistant professor of communications who specializes in reading and study skills, will speak about the developmental courses offered at Oakton. This meeting will be held at noon in Building 3, Room 343.

All women in the community, even those who have not yet considered a return to school, are invited to participate in these meetings.

For further information readers may contact Patricia Handzel, 967-5120, ext. 350.

Reservations should be made by Wednesday, Sept. 10, with Mrs. Shirley Brauer, Des Plaines, at 296-8107.

Florida honeymoon for David Timms

A tour through Florida followed the wedding of Katherine Ann Suckow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Suckow, Des Plaines, and David Timm, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Timm, Chicago.

The candlelight, double ring ceremony took place at 5 p.m. in St. Stephen's Church, Des Plaines. A blue and white color scheme was featured.

Katherine chose a gown of sheer organza and a fingertip veil both trimmed in Alecon lace. She held a cascade of white roses and carnations accented in blue baby's breath and trailing ivy.

Her sister, Mrs. David Biddle, Anaheim, Calif., was the matron of honor. Leslie Novak, and Ellen Vane, both of Des Plaines, and Sue Timm, the groom's sister from Chicago, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of navy blue cotton sheer trimmed in white crochet.

KATHERINE'S 4-year-old cousins from Wauconda, Ill., Heather Nolan and Allison Warkenthien, were flower girls and wore white dresses and bonnets. They carried baskets filled with daisies and blue baby's breath.

Best man was Dann Ingebritson, Fayetteville, N.C. Also serving the groom were Bruce, his brother; Bruce McLain, Cleveland, Ohio, and Howard, Stephen and William Suckow, the bride's brothers.

A dinner and dance for 175 guests followed at the White Eagle, Niles.

Katherine is a '75 graduate of Maine West High School and David is a sergeant with the Airborne Infantry at Ft. Bragg, N.C. The couple is making their home in Fayetteville, N.C.

All area residents are invited. Rain date is Sunday, Sept. 14.

Robert Westerberg takes Knox classmate as bride

St. Peter's Church of Christ in Geneseo, Ill., was the setting for the Aug. 9 wedding of Gail E. Sand and Robert Sells Westerberg. The bride is the daughter of the Dale Sands of Geneseo, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Westerberg of Elk Grove Village.

For the 7 p.m. nuptials the bride wore an ivory chiffon sleeveless gown trimmed in lace daisies and seed pearls, which also trimmed her fingertip veil and headpiece. An aquamarine pendant, a gift of the groom, completed her ensemble, along with a bouquet of roses, daisies, cornflowers and carnations.

The bride was attended by Linda McCarty of Buffalo Grove and Susan Hanford of Geneseo. Linda's gown in peach and Susan's in mint were chiffon with V-necks and backs trimmed with lace.

THE BEST MAN was Thaddeaus Lowry of Fort Collins, Colo. Groomsmen were William Browning of Norman, Okla. and Lawrence Frakes of Fort Knox, Ky. Ushers were Charles Hoppin of East Lansing, Mich., and Alan Heath of Stockton, Ill.

The bride was graduated cum laude from Knox College in Galesburg and is a student in the master of accountancy program at University of Illinois. The groom, a graduate of Elk Grove High School and Knox College, is working on a master of business administration degree at U of I. The couple is living in Champaign.

Ah-so new!
A long beautiful translation from the classic Japanese kimona, taking on a contemporary look for the American hostess.

Ah-so pretty!
Bright multi-colored lotus mums on dark ground. Solid band of red finishes the full sleeves and sashes the midrif into a loose tie in back.

Ah-so wearable!
Comfortable 100% cotton twill
